NATS, INDIANS SPLIT AS MACKS DEFEAT CHISOX

Cleveland, Routed, 10-4, in Opener, Comes Back to Win, 13-6.

CROWDER COASTS TO EASY VICTORY

Tribe Pounds Hadley and Burke in Clinching Second Game.

CHILD IS IMPRESSIVE IN FIRST APPEARANCE

Nats' Six-Run Rally in Ninth Inning of Second Contest Is Futile.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

Cleveland, Ohio, July 16.—The Nationals pounded three Indian pitchers all over the lot here this afternoon to take the front end of a double-header, 10 to 4, but the Clevelanders returned the compliment in the second game, 13 to 6, to give the Johnson's no better than an even break for the day. As the leading Mackmen won in Chicago, this 50-50 break increased the margin between the two leading clubs to two and one-half games.

"General" Alvin Crowder went the route for the Nationals in the opener, holding the Tribe to but eight hits and winning in a common canter after his mates gave him a lead in the fourth, following the breaking of a 2-all deadlock. Southpaw Walter Miller, Pete Jablonowski and Clint Brown all felt the sting of the Washington bats in this fracas.

In the second affair, the tables were completely turned on the Washingtonians. Irving Hadley and Bobby Burke were pounded hard, with Harry Child staging a nice rescue act, while Melburn Shoffner literally southpawed the Nats to death. During the first eight innings, he granted but three scattered hits, but, while enjoying a 13-run lead, he carried things a little too far in the ninth and was on the verge of being yanked when the Nats suddenly pounced on his slants to score six times. As many clean blows figured in this round, including doubles by Ruel and Pinch-hitter Jack Hayes and singles by Rice, Shires, Bluege and Loepp.

Bluege and Loepp Lead.

Bluege and Loepp, with two hits each, led the Nat attack, while Earl Averill, with a homer and three singles, showed the way to the Indians. Several good plays featured, but a double killing by Substitute Jimmy McLeod in the Cleveland seventh was the outstanding one of the day, the rookie going back of second to make a one-hand stop of Morgan's bounder, stepping on second and following through with a peg to make the other out at the doorway.

The Indians made the second game "no contest" before it was half over, staging rallies in the second, third and fourth frames, which netted them nine runs, while Shoffner was turning back the Nationals almost as fast as they came to the tee. In the first five rounds, only three Nationals saw base life, two by passes and Loepp as the result of his single opening the third, and none was left, two being double-play victims and one dying stealing.

Meanwhile, neither Hadley, who started the game, nor Burke, his relief, was effective. Averill opened the second with a homer and then Sewell's single, Shoffner's triple and Jamieson's one-shot netted two more runs. After a pass, sacrifice and Averill's single had put the Tribe 4 up, Burke relieved Hadley and prevented further scoring in this round.

Southpaw Has Troubles.

The southpaw had his troubles in the next, however, when two bases on balls, a sacrifice fly, doubles by Shoffner and Sewell and singles by Hodapp and Averill netted five more runs, while four more were coined in the sixth. Two passes, a theft and three clean hits did this damage, after which Burke was excused in favor of Child.

The latter has been pitching almost daily to batters in the Nats' stick drills and even took a shift today, but, despite this handicap, had two runless frames to show for his major league debut.

There was never any doubt after the fourth frame as to which team would be the ultimate winner in the opening performance. The Nats started with a two-run splurge, saw the Tribe knot the string and then stepped out and was never headed.

Myer's opening single, Cronin's triple and Harris' double gave the Nats two

Says: The world does not make real progress as fast as some expected. Like backward people with free constitutions reverting to revolution, the nations have made numerous agreements with each other for peace and then turned their attention to preparation for war. In spite of all the high resolutions, all the solemn treaties, all the carefully prepared organizations set up for the peaceable adjustment of international disputes, the world is arming more heavily than before the war, and we hear too many distinct utterances of hostility. This is a disconcerting change from the spirit of the Paris peace conference. Then there was disagreement about reparations and allocation of territory, but absolute accord by friend and foe alike on the principle of reduction and limitation of armaments and the maintenance of peace.

It was so nominated in the treaty of Versailles. Germany consented to disarm on the agreement of the other parties to the treaty to disarm. Yet only the United States has proposed and secured any practical agreements for limitation of armaments. It has not been possible to secure much real reduction. The war curbed for a time but has not greatly changed the spirit of the nations.

REFUEL FLIERS LEAP FROM FALLING SHIP

Flight to Buenos Aires Ends as Plane Crashes in North Georgia.

PARACHUTES SAVE LIVES

Monroe, Ga., July 16 (A.P.).—The proposed nonstop refueling flight of the monoplane K, of New Haven from New York to Buenos Aires, ended near here today when the ship crashed and the crew of three leaped to safety in parachutes.

The fliers, Garland Peed, Jimmy Garrigan and Randy Enslow, were lost for eight hours. With her gasoline tanks empty, the K went out of control. Peed ordered his men to leap and followed them.

They landed without a scratch, a mile from Bostwick, which is 15 miles from here. The ship plowed into the ground about one-half mile away and was demolished. The men rested at a hotel here tonight, "lucky to be alive," and determined to try again. They expect to leave for New York within two days.

Low visibility and a sticky fog down the seaboard forced the fliers over Georgia's inland and the fuel which they hoped would take them to Havana was wasted as they flew blindly.

"For eight hours last night we couldn't even see our wing tips," Peed said. "About 9 a. m. things cleared up a bit, but still we couldn't see anything. The K went out of control with her gas gone. I knew a forced landing would be dangerous, as I had no idea where we were, so we jumped.

"You can bet that Georgia felt good under our feet."

The K had traveled 800 miles on her proposed 9,000-mile hop before she crashed.

Residents of Bostwick saw the ship plunge and the men leap. They found the fliers uninjured and inspecting their plane. They were taken into Bostwick, and thence to Monroe.

Garrigan and Peed were copilots, while Enslow was the radio technician.

The K left Roosevelt Field yesterday morning with a light load of gasoline, and, after a refueling above the field, headed for Havana for an-

CITY TAX RATE HELD AT PRESENT FIGURE

150 ITEMS ARE LOPPED

The District Commissioners did two thnigs of importance to District property owners yesterday.

They fixed the tax rate on real estate and tangible personal property at $1.70 per $100 for the current year, and they completed the preparation of the District estimates for 1932 at a figure they believe will fall within the expected revenues next year without an increase in taxes.

Informal expressions from the Commissioners had forecast both actions. New men, charged with a job much more intricate than it seems to the general public, the Commissioners had refrained from positive statements on the subject of either the tax rate or the estimates until a few days ago.

Decision to hold the District tax rate to its present level of $1.70 was reached by the Commissioners some time ago and the only thing which could have upset that decision was something which would show that the course of District revenues suddenly had been reversed and the existing rate would not meet the needs of the appropriation act for the current year. This act incidentally carries the largest amount appropriated for the District in its history. The total wipes out the surplus which has been accumulated for the last few years and from now on the District will have to travel on the basis of its yearly income.

The appropriation act this year presumably used up the surplus which had been accumulated, and left in the Treasury only an estimated $3,000,000, which is needed as a cash operating balance to permit the District to pay its bills from the beginning of the fiscal year on July 1 to the time when the first millions start rolling in from the tax collections in September.

The District will not, however, be stripped to the mere $3,000,000 cash operating fund, it is safe to say. Congress appropriated more than $500,000 extra as a result of the Senate's determination that the House should not have everything to say

Spinster Played Market On Tips by Stars, Man Says

Miss Howells on Trial in Alleged Embezzlement From Nurses.

Miss Elzina Howells played the stock market on tips "from the stars," according to testimony given at the opening of the 48-year-old spinster's trial yesterday on charges of embezzling $5,700 intrusted to her by two nurses living in the Toronto Apartments. Seven women are on the jury that will decide the defendant's fate before Justice Jesse C. Adkins in Criminal Division No. 1.

Miss Irene Biggs and Miss Lillian Girard, the two nurses, testified to having been sent on a "complimentary" European trip on a check of Miss Howells which was turned down by the bank after the ship had sailed. The steamship agent wirelessed the vessel, they said, and other arrange-

VIRGINIAN HELD AFTER MISSING GIRL IS FOUND

Tourist Camp Man Denies Charges Upon Arrest in Alexandria.

CHILD, 14, RELATES STORY OF ESCAPADE

In Fairfax Jail, Declares She Acted of Own Will Throughout.

PLANS TO MEET HIM ON GAINING LIBERTY

Woman Sees Her on Porch to End Hunt Lasting for Three Days.

David Crockett, 35-year-old proprietor of a gasoline station and tourist camp at Groveton, Va., was in Fairfax County Jail last night in connection with the disappearance of 14-year-old Louise Gladys Sisson, of Franconia, Va.

In many of its details the story parallels that of the alleged abduction last week of Mary Frances McClenny, Richmond debutante, by Harry Dickinson, filling station employe. The principal difference between the two cases are in that the Sisson girl has not the social prominence of Miss McClenny, and that Crockett denies the charges against him in their entirety.

Crockett was arrested in Alexandria, Va., yesterday afternoon by Patrolman George Wilkerson, of that city, who was accompanied by State Prohibition Inspector Virgil Williams and Capt. Haywood Durrer, of the Fairfax County road police. He was standing at the corner of King and Alfred streets, in the heart of the business section, when apprehended.

Father Swears Out Warrant.

The arrest was made on a warrant issued by Justice of the Peace A. C. Ritchie, of Fairfax County, and sworn to by the girl's father, Walter Sisson, charging a statutory offense against a minor. The penalty upon conviction may be life imprisonment.

Patrolman Wilkerson notified Sheriff E. T. Kirby, of Fairfax County, who went to Alexandria and brought the prisoner back to the Fairfax County Jail, in which Louise Gladys also is being held since she was turned over to the police early yesterday by Mrs. Etta Padgett. The woman said she found the child walking on her porch at Hunting Creek, near Alexandria, at 4 o'clock in the morning.

Louise Gladys and Mrs. Padgett had been friendly ever since they worked

Frank Goldsborough Joins Father in Death

Crash Injuries Fatal to Son of Flier Who Died in Ocean Mystery.

Bennington, Vt., July 16 (A.P.).—Frank Goldsborough, 19, holder of junior transcontinental flight records, tonight joined his father, Brice Goldsborough, also an aviator, in death.

Unconscious since being brought to the Putnam Memorial Hospital here, hours after his plane had crashed into a fog-hidden tree Monday, Goldsborough died as his stepmother hastened to his bedside.

The Dawn, Mrs. Frances Grayson's transatlantic plane, carried his father to death in one of the unsolved mysteries of attempted transatlantic flights, only companion crew members with him. Frank died while doctors and nurses strove to revive him. The Dawn never was found after hopping from New York to Newfoundland in 1927, preparatory to a transatlantic flight attempt.

The youthful holder of three junior transcontinental flight records died in a coma that had enshrouded him 60 hours before, when his plane struck a tree while flying in a fog. Goldsborough had shown no improvement since the time his unconscious form had been extricated from the wreckage of the plane, which had pinned him down for eighteen hours while an army of men searched for him.

With Donald Mockler, of New York, Goldsborough was on his way to Keene, N. H., Monday, when they encountered a thick fog. In an effort

For five hours he wandered through strange country before reaching this village. A posse was started out into the gathering twilight, led by Mockler, who could tell only the general direction from which he had come. Throughout the night the men searched and finally they found the

NAVY PACT FORCES ASK VOTE TUESDAY

Planning to Balk Filibuster, Warned by Opponents' Long Discourses.

TWO CLAUSES OFFERED

(Associated Press.)

Leaving the opposition to bear the whole burden of debate, negotiations were begun by administration forces in the Senate yesterday looking to an agreement for a vote by next Tuesday on the London Naval Treaty.

Senator Johnson (Republican), California, the leader of the treaty opponents, withheld any promise for an agreement pending the return to the Capitol of his chief lieutenant, Senator Moses (Republican), New Hampshire, who was called away by death in his family.

The dominant treaty forces grew restless, however, as the speeches of the opponents stretched into hours. Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, spoke for three hours. Senator Pittman (Democrat), Nevada, followed with a spirited attack upon President Hoover for his refusal to give the Senate all the papers relating to the London meeting. Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, and George, of Georgia, closed the last two hours of debate. Less than ten members were on the floor as Senator Copeland read extracts of historical data relating to treaty negotiations.

There was some talk of winding up the debate this week, but little hope was held out for final disposition of the pact by Saturday night.

Aroused by what they considered indications of a filibuster, some treaty advocates were moving last night to

GALEN VICTORY PUTS G.O.P., WETS CLOSER

Fight Will Be Strengthened by Montanan's Triumph in Senate Primary.

TO RUN AGAINST WALSH

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

What in recent months has appeared to be a right steady march of the Republicans into the wet fold continued yesterday with the nomination of Justice Albert L. Galen, of the Montana Supreme Court, in the State's senatorial primary. Justice Galen, wet and a Catholic, defeated his dry opponent, O. H. P. Shelly, former national committeeman, two to one.

With the exception of the Maine primary and a risky piece of straddling in Pennsylvania, the Republicans seem to have been following the wets as the children follow the Pied Piper of Hamlin and the drys would say with just as dire result.

Like Ambassador Morrow, recently nominated for the Senate by New Jersey Republicans, Justice Galen does the wet cause no harm. In his own State, in fact, he brings it such prestige as Mr. Morrow gave the wets nationally.

Justice Galen will oppose Senator Walsh in the November elections. Senator Walsh is also a Catholic, but a dry, and presumably the wet and dry issue will figure considerably in the campaign. Senator Walsh will always be a staunch personal dry, but not so long ago he said if his people wanted a referendum on the eighteenth amendment he would vote for one. To this extent he has modified his political dryness and it is conceivable that he may see fit to modify it further as November approaches. Otherwise it is predicted that Justice Galen will give him a hard run for the money, which, indeed, the Republicans say he will do anyway.

The Republicans are putting their best foot forward admittedly in nominating a man of Justice Galen's caliber. As a matter of fact they have had him in the hole, so to speak, for several years, but they have not been quite certain until this year that his wetness would be an asset to him. Montana is one of the States now that has no State prohibition enforcement act. It is that wet.

Of more significance, however, than the fact that the Republicans have Halifax, N. The sudden and intensive return of the rumships to the Atlantic Ocean is due in a large part to the recent Canadian legislation preventing the clearance of liquor-laden ships for American ports.

As a further consequence of this legislation, St. Pierre and Miquelon, French North Atlantic islands, have once more become beehives of industry, for it is from their ports that liquor is cleared.

But rum row of today is not the row that the Gen. Pau and others of

MAN LONG SOUGHT IN BAKER MURDER HELD AS HE TRIES TO REPORT THEFT

Gloth and Kelly Leave for Canadian City to Return Suspect Here; Carry Warrant Charging Slaying of Girl.

PRISONER ADMITS IDENTITY, BUT MAINTAINS INNOCENCE

Extradition Rights Waived, Police Officers Say; Captive Quoted as Declaring He Was Under Arrest in U. S. Before and Grilled About Arlington Killing.

Herman H. Barrere, long sought suspect in the Mary E. Baker murder mystery, was arrested last night in Montreal, Canada, when he appeared at headquarters there to file a complaint that $50 had been stolen from him. Barrere protested his innocence of the murder.

Early today Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth and Lieut. Edward F. Kelly left for the Canadian city armed with a warrant charging him with the murder. Inspector William S. Shelby held a conference last night with detectives and decided to bring him back.

When Barrere entered the detective headquarters at Montreal he was recognized by detectives as the long-sought suspect. A circular issued by Inspector Shelby positively identified him. Lieut. Kelly said last night that there was no doubt as to his identity.

It was 5 o'clock last evening when Barrere entered the Montreal police station. Inspector Victor Foucault, Captain of Detectives Gorman, and Detective Sergeant McCoy were in the office at the time. They recognized him at once.

Insists Upon Innocence.

After questioning by the officers, the man, according to police, admitted that he was Herman H. Barrere. Under exhaustive grilling by detectives, he admitted that he was wanted in Washington, they said, but insisted that he knew nothing of the murder.

Barrere further admitted, they declared, that he had been previously arrested in the United States on a theft charge and said that he was then questioned regarding the murder of Mary Baker. When requested by police to write his name, he did not refuse, and the signature corresponded with that on the bottom of the circular sent out by Washington police. Arlington County authorities and Inspector Shelby last night denied that Barrere had been questioned regarding the Mary Baker murder while he was in custody in Arlington County.

Telegram Breaks News.

Barrere was arrested on April 15 on a charge of having stolen articles of clothing from the home of Herbert M. Campbell, Arlington County realty man. Until April 21 he remained in the Arlington County Jail on the charge until Mr. Campbell, upon solicitation of the friends of the suspect, relented and withdrew the charge.

When positive identification was made last night at Montreal, a telegram was dispatched to this city, advising local detectives of his apprehension.

A woman companion of Barrere, who had accompanied him to headquarters there, is being detained at Montreal. She was arrested outside the building. Her identity is unknown, but she claimed to be from Pennsylvania.

Since the search for the suspect began, the only definite information the authorities had was a letter which he addressed to a relative in this city. The message was postmarked in Philadelphia.

Detectives at Montreal learned that Barrere, when he was taken into custody, had evidently had several drinks, although he was not intoxicated.

Extradition Waived, Is Belief.

Lieut. Kelly said last night that Barrere had agreed to waive extradition. In the event that he chooses to fight removal to this country it will be necessary for the State Department to negotiate with Canada for his custody.

In addition to the murder warrant sworn out by Mr. Gloth last week in Virginia, Department of Justice agents in the Canadian city are armed with a fugitive warrant through which they may return him to the jurisdiction of the United States.

In the capture of the suspect the police believe that they will clear up the mystifying presence of the murder gun in the office of Mr. Campbell at Oak Crest, Va. Ever since Mr. Campbell presented the gun to authorities they have been puzzled as to why it should have been returned to his office.

Clothing Carefully Hidden.

While the utmost precautions had been taken to conceal the girl's clothing, the most damaging evidence of all, the gun itself, was placed in a position where it was certain to be found.

Prior to the discovery of the gun, the Arlington County real estate man said, a mysterious man "with a wart on his nose" came to his office and inquired as to his possession of a .32-caliber revolver. Mr. Campbell told authorities that the man said he was being employed by friends of Barrere and was working in his interest.

After further questioning the man "with the wart on his nose" told Mr. Campbell that he, Campbell, once owned a .32-caliber gun. Mr. Campbell recalled that he had once purchased a pistol, but believed it to be .38 caliber. Prompted by the persistent questioning, he left the office to search for it. When he returned to the office the man was gone.

Weapon Found in Unused Desk.

The realty dealer looked through the office and found the weapon in an unused desk in the place. It was turned over to authorities and upon examination by ballistic experts it was found to be the gun which fired the fatal bullets into the body of the Navy Department clerk.

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States

Appears on Pages 2 and 18 Today

Authorities admit that all the evidence against Barrere is largely circumstantial. But Mr. Gloth believes that it is strong enough to bring him to trial. No evidence of a direct nature has been uncovered which would place him at the scene of the attack on the girl in the Ellipse on the night of April 11, where the crime began which ended with the finding of her body in a culvert near the Sheridan gate of the Arlington National Cemetery.

One of the strongest links against Barrere, in the mind of Mr. Gloth, is the fact that he had access to the home of Mr. Campbell, whence the murder gun was stolen. Further, it is pointed out, he had entree to the home on April 10, the day before the murder, when he went there to estimate a painting job on Mr. Campbell's house.

Gloves Partially Identified.

In addition to this, articles stolen from Mr. Campbell's home on April 13 were found in Barrere's possession on the following day, and a pair of pigskin gloves, found with the dead girl's clothing in a trap sewer near the murder scene, was identified by Mr. Campbell as being similar to a pair which was stolen from his home.

Mr. Gloth said that the suspect had the opportunity to place the murder gun in the unused desk in Mr. Campbell's office. On April 23, almost two weeks after the slaying, he came to the office to thank Mr. Campbell for withdrawing the larceny charge against him.

On this occasion the window and door of Mr. Campbell's office was open and Barrere had opportunity to "plant" the gun, according to authorities. Then followed the mysterious visit of the "man with the wart on his nose."

Alibi Opposes Charges.

Opposed to the circumstantial case developed by the State is the alibi of women friends of Barrere, who claim that he was in their company at the time that the crime was committed.

Miss Edith W. Heiner, of O street near Twenty-first street northwest, who has known Barrere for several years says that he came to her home on the afternoon of April 11 about 3 o'clock. They then went to the home of Mrs. Harrison Smith on East Capitol street near Second street northwest, where they remained until after 6 o'clock, she declared.

Miss Heiner is certain that he was with her after 6 o'clock, because on the way home she stopped at a department store in the downtown section to make some purchases and the store was closed. They then went to Miss Heiner's house, where he remained a while and then went away, she declared. The attack on Miss Baker, as seen by three witnesses at the Ellipse, occurred at 6:05 o'clock on the night of April 11.

Although the police have recovered the murder gun and have a circumstantial case against the suspect, they have not placed the murder gun in his hands.

Border-to-Border Hop Record Broke

Turner Flies From Canada to Mexico Within 9 Hours 15 Minutes.

San Diego, Calif., July 16 (A.P.).—Knocking nearly 4 hours off the border-to-border flight record, Col. Roscoe Turner, former Army aviator, landed at Agua Caliente, Mexico, at 4:14:02.5 p. m., today, after a nonstop flight from Vancouver, British Columbia.

Col. Turner took off from Vancouver at 7 a. m., making his elapsed time 9:14:02.5. The previous record was 13:07, set by Tex Rankin some time ago.

An average speed of 150 miles an hour was maintained, and except being tired, Col. Turner and his lion cub mascot seemed none the worse for their speedy trip. The flight was made in a monoplane of special design. Arrival of the plane was timed by J. Allison Moore, chairman of the local board of air control. William Van Dusen, National Aeronautical Association representative, said the record would be sent on to Washington, D. C.

Blease Charges Mill Votes Bought From Him

York, S. C., July 16 (A.P.).—Senator Cole L. Blease charged here today that money was being circulated in South Carolina to "alienate" the cotton mill employes from him. Senator Blease said this method was being used to weaken him.

"I'm not worried," he declared, "about the $10 bills they are slipping in the pockets of the cotton mill folks." He said three men had come to him recently and asked what they should do. He said they told him they had been offered $10 for their vote. "I told them to take the money and then vote for me," he said.

Dry Agents Arrest 49 In Little Rock Drive

Little Rock, Ark., July 16 (A.P.).—In a sweeping drive that began before dawn, Federal prohibition agents today arrested 49 persons in the Little Rock area. They included seven white women and ten Negro women. Of the others, seventeen were Negro men.

All but one white woman remained in jail at noon. She made bond. Most of those arrested were charged with selling liquor. The raids started at 4 o'clock this morning and lasted until noon.

Mrs. Mary E. M. Taylor Dies at Chestertown

Special to The Washington Post.

Chestertown, Md., July 16.—Mrs. Mary E. Mallalieu Taylor, 69, wife of Gilbert B. Taylor, roads engineer for Kent County, Md., died suddenly of heart disease early this morning at her home here. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Mallalieu, of Millington, Md., where she was born. Her father was noted on the Eastern Shore as the manufacturer of Army blankets during the Civil War at his woolen mills near Millington.

For many years she was a resident of Smyrna, Del. Funeral services will be held here Friday with interment in Odd Fellows Cemetery, Smyrna.

Girl Cleared in Killing Of Irate Stepfather

London, Ky., July 16 (A.P.).—Ruby Sears, 17 years old, has been acquitted of slaying her stepfather. Her mother, arrested on a conspiracy charge, also was exonerated at the examining trial held late yesterday before Judge J. D. Gross.

The girl testified she fired twice, once to frighten her stepfather and once in his direction, but without aiming, as he neared the door of the house with an ax in his hands. In a quarrel at breakfast he had thrown plates at her, she said.

BRITISH SHIPS SPEED TO EGYPTIAN RIOTING

MacDonald Sees Disorders, However, as of Purely Domestic Nature.

RITES HELD FOR 14 DEAD

London, July 16 (A.P.).—The immediate dispatch of two battleships to Alexandria for the protection of life and property in the tense situation created by disorders there was announced in the House of Commons by Prime Minister MacDnoald today.

The prime minister at the same time made it clear that the government regarded the present crisis in Egypt as purely a domestic affair of that country. He said that this point of view had been conveyed before the riots to King Fuad and the premier by the British high commissioner. At the same time the British government informed the Egyptian government that it did not intend to be used as an instrument for any attack on the Egyptian constitution.

Since the riots Sir Percy Lorraine, high commissioner for Egypt, had again approached Premier Sidky Pasha and former Premier Nahas Pasha, who is leader of the Wafdists, and warned them that the British government would hold them responsible if foreign lives and interests were endangered.

The prime minister was unable to give the House precise details as to the European casualties at Alexandria yesterday. Dispatches from there, however, said that one Italian died of heart disease after being hit over the head during the disorders.

The ships ordered to proceed to Alexandria were the Queen Elizabeth and the Ramillies, both vessels carrying eight 15-inch guns.

Alexandria, Egypt, July 16 (A.P.).—The bodies of thirteen victims of yesterday's rioting in Alexandria were carried through the streets of the city today in a great demonstration by Nationalists. During the late afternoon several thousand Egyptians assembled outside the government hospital and began pelting it with stones. The police, commanded by Fitzpatrick Bey, who was injured in yesterday's rioting, had great difficulty in restoring order.

The reason for the attack on the hospital was an announcement that the procurator-general had refused to allow the removal of the bodies of the victims of yesterday's clashes until post mortems were held. The mob agitated to get the bodies so as to give them public burial.

The bodies finally were handed over to the crowd after the formalities of the post mortems had been completed. The biers then were carried shoulder high by members of the crowd. The procession was quite orderly. Frequently the demonstrators shouted: "Long live Nahas." Nahas is former premier and leader of the Nationalists.

The police made no attempt to interfere with the demonstration. The procession entered the Arab quarters, where the bodies were to be disposed of.

During the day a communique was issued stating that in all, fourteen persons were killed in yesterday's clashes, thirteen of them natives. Fifty-six of those injured required hospital tratement and 65 suffered minor hurts. Of the injured, eight were Europeans.

Among yesterday's casualties were Renand Bey, acting commandant of police, who is a British subject. He was slightly wounded. Fitzpatrick Bey was the only Englishman hurt. A report that the Italian consul had been injured was denied by the ministry of the interior.

Auto Turns Over; Driver Is Killed

One Boy, Getting "Lift," Suffers Skull Fracture; Another Unhurt.

Special to The Washington Post.

Strassburg, Va., July 16.—One man is dead and another is near death in the Winchester Hospital as the result of an accident early this morning on the road leading from the Lee-Jackson highway to the Standard Lime plant. The dead man was Lewis Herschel Borden, 24 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Herschel Borden, of Middletown. The injured man is Benjamin Replogle, of Strassburg.

The accident occurred about 3 o'clock, when Omar Bly, 15 years old, who is employed in a restaurant, started for home. Borden offered to take Bly home and the Replogle boy, 20 years old, jumped in to get a ride to near his home. The road leading from the highway is steep and rough.

It is thought that Borden was traveling fast to get up the hill and in trying to get out of a rut his car turned over in the highway. Borden died instantly from a broken neck. Replogle suffered a fractured skull. Bly was unhurt.

Order on Parking In Hyattsville Hit

Merchants Assail Plan to Abandon Practice on Sides of Bridge.

Gathering at a special meeting last night of the Hyattsville Town Council, business men of the community opposed the proposal of the Maryland State Roads Commission that parking be abandoned for 50 feet on each side of the overhead bridge over the B. & O. Railway tracks in Hyattsville.

The State Roads Commission has made the request so that an automobile traffic light can be installed at the bridge. The council, after hearing the opposition of the business men, suggested that the question be held up until the highway approaching and leaving the bridge is widened.

The council also suggested that a traffic policeman be detailed to the crossing. Dr. H. T. Willis, Mayor of Hyattsville, suggested that if traffic hazards become dangerous enough, business men should sacrifice their own interests for the sake of public safety.

WHITE HOUSE GIVES NEW OUTLAY TOTAL

(Associated Press.)

Figures made public yesterday at the White House placed the amount of appropriations for actual expenditures during the present fiscal year at $4,203,254,457, or $670,674,776 below the total calculated by the chairmen of the Senate and the House appropriations committees.

White House officials said the calculations of the appropriations committee members had included authorization for public works which will be spread over a period of several years.

Chairmen Jones and Wood, of the Senate and House appropriations committees, respectively, had set total appropriations at $4,873,929,233, and Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, the ranking Democrat on the House committee, had placed it at $4,924,929,233.

The White House calculations fixed the total at $209,101,970 above the $3,994,152,487 it figured had been spent during the last fiscal year. This increase was attributed largely to the speeding up of public works to relieve the business depression and to increased appropriations for veterans' relief.

Gov. Long Enters Race for Senate Seat

New Orleans, July 16 (A.P.).—In a copyrighted article in the weekly newspaper, the Louisiana Progress, Gov. Huey P. Long announced his candidacy for the United States Senate seat now occupied by Senator Joseph Ransdell.

Gov. Long said in a signed statement appearing in the newspaper that he would enter the Democratic primary on September 9 in opposition to Senator Ransdell, in opposition to the "old New Orleans ring" and in support of his proposed constitutional convention to provide $68,000,000 for highways paving, which failed of action at the recent session of the legislature.

Police Keep Order During Bank Run

Concern in Massachusetts Town Is Able to Stand Large Withdrawals.

Millbury, Mass., July 16 (A.P.).—A rumor of a shortage in accounts precipitated a run of depositors today on the Millbury Savings Bank, which continued throughout the day although depositors were steadily paid and State Bank Commissioner Roy E. Hovey expressed the opinion the bank was fundamentally sound.

The entire town police force and State troopers were required to keep order among those seeking to withdraw their accounts. Although depositors were admitted regularly in groups of two during the day, about 200 persons still waited in a line at 3 p. m., the regular closing hour. The officials said the bank will be opened at the regular hour tomorrow morning.

Ernest L. Smith, who has been treasurer of the bank, is no longer serving in that capacity. Fred W. Moore, a member of the bank's board of investment, said today.

LABORITES ESCAPE DEFEAT BY 71 VOTES

Conservative Motion Against "Unfair Competition" Turned Down.

PRESSED BY BALDWIN

London, July 16 (A.P.).—The Labor government tonight safely weathered another of the crisis by which it has been beset in a series recently, defeating by 312 votes to 241 a conservative motion proposing safeguarding of home markets against "unfair foreign competition." The motion was made by former Premier Stanley Baldwin and was regarded as a vote of censure.

Instead of a slender margin of two votes, by which the Laborites avoided defeat during the finance bill debate last week, tonight's ballot showed the government standing firmly with a majority of 71, a margin so comfortable as to warn its foes to proceed cautiously in developing further moves.

Lords Stand Firm.

The "crisis" was precipitated this afternoon, during a debate of the Egyptian situation, when announcement had been made that two of his majesty's battleships were on the way to the turbulent land of the Nile. The former Conservative premier switched to an attack of the Labor party for insufficient attention to the causes of unemployment. The much bandied coal bill also had proven a disquieting element in the day's sessions of lords and commoners. But this had been disposed of for the moment by a move of Premier MacDonald for a conference with the lords, after talking over the deadlock with miners' representatives.

The Lords had stood firm for their 90-hour fortnight as opposed to the Commons amendment to the miners' bill for a 7½-hour day. Observers thought they could foretell a compromise over this measure if the conference were accepted by the lords.

Issue Not In Doubt.

Tonight the former Conservative premier pressed to a conclusion his motion of the afternoon, but found that although the Conservatives supported him there was no strength in other quarters for his cause, the Liberals joining with the Laborites in sufficient strength to decide the issue.

Mr. Baldwin had pressed his motion because, he said, it was almost the last chance to raise the question before the imperial conference at which questions of taxation and imperial preference would come up.

The issue was not gravely in doubt at the beginning of the debate. It was rendered almost certain when David Lloyd George, Liberal leader, described the vote of censure as "extraordinary and inexplicable." Lloyd George taunted Mr. Baldwin with having been "forced by Lord Beaverbrook to take up a position in favor of imposing taxes on foreign goods which he (Lloyd George) previously had condemned repeatedly."

Old Harrisonburg Inn Sold at Public Auction

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., July 16.—Stone Leigh Inn, located on East Market street hill, where the late Dr. Walter Reed lived when in his teens, was sold at public auction today for $10,150 to A. S. Turner, a resident of Rockingham County, and proprietor of several hotels in Portsmouth, Ohio.

The property belonged to A. S. Rosenberg and had been operated as an inn for the past 20 years. It contains nineteen rooms.

Two Jobless Men Willing To Gamble Sight for Cash

Bridgeport, Conn., Unemployed Workers Invite Inoculation With Dread Trachoma Germ in Interest of Science; One Mails Offer to Doctor.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 16 (A.P.).—Two of Bridgeport's unemployed, neither with immediate prospects of finding work, are willing to gamble with their eyesight for sufficient funds to carry them through the present depression.

They are Chester Taylor, 35, married World War veteran, and Hormidas Pelliter, 29, formerly of Lawrence, Mass. The hazard they invite, inoculation with the dread trachoma germ, is one recently declined by Woo Dak Seen, Chinese convict in New Mexico, in exchange for commutation of his death sentence.

A week or so ago Taylor read news dispatches telling of a Western doctor's desire to find a suitable subject for his trachoma experiment. Taylor had just completed another day of futile job-seeking and he immediately mailed his offer of himself. He has received no reply yet.

Taylor isn't sure just what trachoma is, nor does he care.

"If the disease kills me," he said, "I'll die content knowing that I've provided well for my wife."

Mrs. Ruth Bromley Taylor, his wife for eleven years, is opposed to her husband being the subject for the test regardless of how much money he might gain that way.

"I'll try anything to keep going," Pelliter said today, in announcing his willingness to be experimented on. Trachoma is a highly infectious disease of the eye, frequently resulting in total blindness.

VIOLENCE OF REDS DECLARED MENACE

C. R. Wood, Peace Chief, Tells Congress Group of Harm to Industry.

STRIKES AID TREASURY

New York, July 16 (A.P.).—Growth of organized violence in strikes and demonstrations staged by Communists was attributed today largely to the cessation in 1925 of the Justice Department's efforts to curb Soviet activities due to insufficient laws under which to act.

Charles R. Wood, conciliation commissioner of the Labor Department at Washington, told a special House committee investigating Communist activities that organized violence had become a "serious menace" to the Nation's industries in the past five years.

Testifying for five hours as the only witness of the second day of hearings, Wood charged Communist activities were directed in this country from Moscow, but expressed belief that the Soviet government did not spend any money officially to aid in formulating a revolutionary movement.

Strikes Made Profitable.

As author of the book, "Reds and Lost Wages," and in charge of negotiating strike settlements for the government, Wood said he had found Communists sponsored strikes not to better conditions of workers, but to raise money from strike sympathizers. Money intended for women and children of strikers went, he said, largely to Communist propagandizing work.

All of the strikes initiated or encouraged by Communists, he said, were of a revolutionary and political character, in addition to being a means of obtaining funds from a "sucker list" of "pinks" and "parlor Bolsheviks," who, he said, lived on money they did not earn.

Wood charged Communist leaders precipitated the clash at Gastonia, N. C., in 1929, between strikers and police in order to create sympathy and obtain funds. Similar tactics were employed, he said, in the 1926 textile strike at Passaic, N. J., when $600,000 was raised, and at the strike in New Bedford, Mass., in 1928.

Training in Revolution.

The names of Fred Beal, Jack Rubinstein, Albert Weisbord, and Fred G Brendenkopt were given the committee as leaders in the Communist sponsored strikes.

The witness charged the "Daily Worker," officially Communist organ published in New York, was revolutionary in character. He described the "Workers Training School" here, which, he said, on investigation by one of his agents, was found to be training young and old to teach the overthrow of the existing government.

Chapel Hill Man Named To Medical Examiners

Special to The Washington Post.

Chapel Hill, N. C., July 16.—Dr. William DeBerniere MacNider, Kenan research professor of pharmacology in the University of North Carolina and one of the world's leading authorities on diseases of the kidney, has been elected a member of the national board of medical examiners, it was learned here today.

The board is composed of twelve eminent physicians selected from various sections of the Nation to represent the different branches of medicine. Dr. MacNider was elected by the board for a period of six years, and he is to represent the pharmacologists of the country.

Cabman Arrested After Wild Chase

Driver Faces Four Charges Following Pursuit Which Ends With Crash.

Charges of reckless driving, colliding, driving while drunk, and resisting arrest were placed against M. S. Redmond, a taxi driver of Twenty-first street near O street northwest, by Fairfax County police last night, following a wild chase through the Virginia town which ended in an auto smash.

Deputy Sheriff Paul Hermann said that he chased Redmond, who was driving a taxi occupied by four other men, for more than a mile at a 60-mile-per-hour speed, and that he was forced to fire several shots at him. About a mile west of Fairfax, the speeding cab struck a car in which were Leonidas F. Summerall, an attorney for the Prohibition Bureau, and his wife.

The couple, which lives at 3446 Connecticut avenue northwest, was shaken up but uninjured. Redmond and three of his companions were arrested, and Redmond was treated at Emergency Hospital for lacerations of the scalp before being booked.

James M. Lynch, Union Chief, Dies

Leader of Printers in Fight for 48-Hour Week Is Infection Victim.

Syracuse, N. Y., July 16 (A.P.).—James M. Lynch, for many years president of the International Typographical Union and leader of that organization's Nation-wide battle for the 48-hour working week, died in a hospital here this morning of blood infections. He was State commissioner of labor under Gov. Martin Glynn and subsequently one of four industrial commissioners.

Mr. Lynch's most recent public activity was his work as a member of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's commission to investigate the subject of old age security against want. This commission's work resulted in the passage by the Legislature of 1929 of the old age security law.

He was a member of a number of economic organizations, including the National Civic Federation and a member of the Elks, Foresters, Knights of Columbus and Eagles.

Mr. Lynch married Letitia C. Movey, of Syracuse, on June 28, 1899. They were the parents of ten children.

Member of Purple Gang Is Shot Dead in Detroit

Detroit, July 16 (A.P.).—David Overstein, formerly identified with the notorious purple gang, was found shot to death in an alley at 6 a. m. today.

Overstein was the tenth victim of gangsters' guns here in less than two weeks. Police say he recently has been engaged in liquor operations. He was released several months ago from the State Reformatory, where he was sent in 1928 to serve two to fifteen years for breaking and entering.

J. H. LEWIS GRILLING DEMANDED BY RIVAL

Mrs. McCormick Wants Him to Tell Nye Inquirers of Campaign Claim.

HUGE EXPENSES DENIED

Chicago, July 16 (A.P.).—Ruth Hanna McCormick today demanded that James Hamilton Lewis, Illinois Democratic senatorial nominee, be called before the Senate campaign fund committee to explain an article in which he was quoted as saying $1,000,000 was used in her campaign for the Republican nomination.

Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the committee, said he would consider summoning the Democratic nominee and would make known his stand tomorrow.

Mrs. McCormick reappeared before the committee with a newspaper clipping in which Mr. Lewis was quoted as saying her campaign cost $1,000,000. She challenged the statement and said it was a duty of the committee either to have Mr. Lewis appear and substantiate the statement, if he made it, or else clear her of the charge.

Lewis Willing to Appear.

Mr. Lewis, when informed of Mrs. McCormick's demand for his appearance before the committee, said he would appear if requested. He said Mrs. McCormick probably referred to his statement that it cost $1,000,000 to nominate a Republican candidate for senator, and added that "from developments it increasingly appears the most of that sum was spent for Mrs. McCormick."

Mrs. McCormick also explained that she had not accounted for a $10,000 donation to her campaign fund by Col. R. R. McCormick, her brother-in-law and publisher of the Chicago Tribune, because she had not spent the money.

She said the contribution was received too late for the primary campaign and was kept to be used in her fall campaign. She said she had received one or two other contributions similarly, which were not used and not reported in her expenditures.

Given $15,000 in All.

Mr. McCormick told the committee he had contributed $15,000 to Mrs. McCormick's campaign, having given two checks for $2,500 each in addition to a $10,000 check. One of these checks had been given to the Ruth Hanna McCormick Volunteers and had been accounted for in the $320,000 included in Mrs. McCormick's reports to the Senate. No mention of the other $2,500 had been made before the Senate committee, but Mrs. McCormick said it also was used by another volunteer group and properly accounted for.

Senator Nye questioned numerous ward committeemen of Chicago about the financing of their political campaigns within their various wards, inquiring particularly if any of them had received funds from Mrs. McCormick.

All denied receiving any financial support from her, although the majority of them said they indorsed her candidacy.

Death Quiz Slated To Be Ended Today

Body May Be Identified as That of Deserter Who Killed Himself.

The investigating board appointed by authorities at Fort George G. Meade to inquire into the finding of the skeleton of a man in a thicket near the post Tuesday has not yet finished its probe. It is expected, however, that the board will end its sittings by noon today.

It is believed certain that it will decide that the man is Private William F. Gaider, and that he died by his own hand. Gaider has been missing since last January, and has been listed as a deserter. The remains of a tiny fire were found near the body, and it is thought that the man built it and in it destroyed all the marks of identification which he wore. The tentative identification made will be made definite if it is discovered that the pistol found near the body, one bullet from which killed the man, was the one issued to Gaider.

If the result of the inquiry is that the man was a suicide, nothing further will be done, it is said. Should the board decide that the man was murdered, the case probably will be turned over to the civil authorities. The body was found in a clump of underbrush about 150 feet from the spot where Gaider was supposed to be on guard duty.

Escaped Convict Shot In Leg When Captured

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 16.—Clyde Hileman, 23 years old, escaped convict from the Moundsville Penitentiary, was suffering from a bullet wound in the right leg today in the Doddridge County Jail at West Union as a result of his efforts to flee from recapture when Sheriff J. Forest Maxwell found him yesterday at an Arnolds Creek dwelling.

The sheriff at the same time captured Clyde's brother, Otha, 21, who recently escaped from a crew of Harrison County road prisoners. Clyde was sent up last year to serve five years for an attempted highway robbery at Smithton.

Crops in Page County Suffer $180,000 Loss

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., July 16.—Officers of the Page County Farm Bureau here say that 80 per cent of the hay, potato and apple crops will be lost this year by weather extremes—heat and cold—while drought is given credit also for heavy losses in the hay and potato crops. The loss to the apple crop is from freezing weather in April.

The loss of the hay crop, they declare, will aggregate $60,000; the potato crop loss, $80,000, and the apple crop, $40,000, making a total of $180,000. The corn crop is also badly damaged. The full extent of this loss is mere conjecture, farmers saying that a soaking rain within the next few days will insure three-fourths of a normal crop.

Insane Woman's Fortune Of $12,000,000 to Be Split

Two Nephews and Niece of Mrs. Ida Flagler, One of World's Richest Incompetents, Named Heirs to Block of Standard Oil Stock.

New York, July 16 (A.P.).—The estate of Mrs. Ida Flagler, one of the richest incompetents in the world, is to be divided among two nephews and a niece. It is valued at between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000. Mrs. Flagler died last Saturday.

The heirs, who will share equally, are William W. Taylor, a New York lawyer; George W. Taylor, a contractor and builder, of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. Ruth Taylor Pontius, of Evanston, Ill., wife of a medical student.

Mrs. Flagler had been legally insane for 33 years, and left no will. Under the law her estate must be divided among her direct descendants or direct descendants of her brothers and sisters. The two nephews and a niece are the only such relatives.

Other distant kin, who received small annuities during her lifetime, will not share in the estate.

Since 1897 Mrs. Flagler had been a patient at a sanitarium in Central Valley, N. Y., living in a small cottage with her personal attendants, unaware that the fund of $1,200,000 in Standard Oil stock which her divorced husband, Henry M. Flagler, had set aside for her was increasing at the rate of more than half a million dollars a year. She believed the stock to be worthless.

With an income of more than $400,000 a year, more than Mrs. Flagler could use, the Supreme Court decided that part of the money should be distributed among relatives. Empowered to distribute the money as Mrs. Flagler might have distributed it were she of sound mind, the court had passed on the claims of a legion of relatives in the last few years. Each of the three heirs, at Mrs. Flagler's death, was receiving $20,000 a year and several other relatives lesser amounts. The claims of many were never allowed.

The three nephews, apprentices between 1870 and 1880, were unaware of their aunt's riches for several years. William was an apprentice to a harness maker in Nora Springs, Iowa; George to a house painter in Rockford, Ill., and Richard, father of Mrs. Pontius, was a railroad worker in the State of Washington.

In 1901 they were recognized as her heirs and from that time shared in her income. Richard Taylor died several weeks ago and his daughter has received the annuity since.

All had prospered and all were at Mrs. Flagler's bedside when she died.

Plane Inspectors Injured in Crash

Two Naval Men and Civilian Hurt in Accident at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, July 16 (A.P.).—Lieut. Comdr. O. W. Erickson, chief inspector at the naval aircraft factory in the Philadelphia Navy Yard, was seriously injured today in the crash of a Navy bomber on the flying field at the yard.

W. B. Stith, naval hospital apprentice, and E. L. Talley, civilian inspector, were also injured.

They were testing parachutes with 200-pound dummies attached when a parachute fastened to the bottom of the ship prematurely opened and caused the bomber to go out of control. It fell about 200 feet near the edge of the Delaware River.

Byrd Supply Ship Sold to Sealers

Elinor Bolling Going North to Be Refitted for New Service.

New York, July 16 (A.P.).—The steam trawler Eleanor Bolling, which won fame and a thousand scars in battles with ice and weather in the Antarctic seas, went back into humdrum commercial life today, to become a North Atlantic seal-fishing boat.

Capt. David C. Bedrick announced he had purchased the supply ship of the Byrd expedition on behalf of the Marine Agencies, Inc., of St. Johns, Newfoundland. He will take her to St. John's next week with a cargo of gasoline and kerosene.

The Eleanor Bolling will then be remodeled, he said.

ONE DIES, MAN SHOT IN $60,000 HOLDUP

Suspect Held After Bandit Is Slain in Canton, Ohio, Bank Robbery.

POLICE RECOVER LOOT

Canton, Ohio, July 16 (A.P.).—Police tonight were holding James Romeo, 27, on investigation charges, as a result of the hold-up today of two bank messengers in which one of a trio of robbers was slain. A bank messenger was wounded seriously and $60,000 in currency was stolen and later recovered.

Charles Williams, alias Charles Kish, 25, of Cleveland, was shot to death in a pistol battle with Charles M. Riblet, 69, former Canton police chief and chief of the protection service of the the First National Bank, who was wounded by two bullets from the robber's pistol.

Romeo was arrested in a raid on an obscure hotel in which police said they found a black satchel in which Riblet and J. S. Morris, chief teller at the bank, were carrying the money, and which contained $59,500. They reported finding $400 in the hotel room and $100 in currency in Romeo's pockets.

Riblet and Morris were accosted by two of the bandits in front of the postoffice in the downtown business section within a block of police station. When the robbers seized the money bag, which had been consigned to the Federal Reserve Bank at Cleveland, Riblet drew a pistol but was shot striking Williams' right h and and the other his head, causing instant death.

Police details arrived just as two robbers fled in an automobile which had been parked in front of the postoffice. The bank officials first found in Romeo's room they admitted it had contained $60,000 in currency.

Riblet was reported in fair candition at a hospital. He suffered a wound in the right side and the thumb of his right hand was torn off by a bullet from the robber's pistol.

Two Customs Officials Plead Guilty to Bribes

New York, July 16 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Two customs inspectors of long service pleaded guilty today to accepting bribes for passing smuggled goods, and one of their convicted bribers, soon to start to Atlanta Prison to serve a two-year sentence, was arraigned on a new charge of "fencing" goods stolen from the United States customs appraisers stores.

And, coolncident to these concrete proofs of corruption in the customs service, the charge was made in Federal court that goods worth many millions of dollars are smuggled into the country every year through the port of New York, and the Government consequently defrauded of from $1,000,000 to perhaps five times that sum in duties.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

IT appears to be fairly definite now that two of the President's Senate advisors will have to be transferred to a minor league, which is to say the House.

Every chance has been given these two gentlemen. They came here as raw recruits, but showing promise. No efforts has been made to bench them. They have been given every opportunity to get in form. They have been permitted to give advice without stint. And they have been 100 per cent wrong, both of them—Senator Allen and Senator Vandenberg.

It is a question if too much was not expected of them, whether it would not have been better to give them a try-out in the House, where bum advice does no harm, than to shove them in among the veterans right at the start.

* * * *

BUT it was said of them that they had been giving advice for years.

Senator Allen, as a Kansas publisher and lecturer of parts, and Senator Vandenberg, as an editor out in Michigan, and one does not have to remain long in newspaper work to know that they are no better advice givers than editors under the sun.

They have a positiveness and finality about them, too.

Yet two men could hardly have been more wrong than these two hopefuls have been.

Their most recent example will suffice.

OF the Norris resolution to the peace pact they advised: "It is offensive to our President and must not be adopted. And furthermore it will not be."

Whereupon the White House announced that thumbs were down on the resolution, that it would not be accepted at all.

It was then that Senator Borah intervened. He had reached that stage in statesmanship where it is not necessary to his political existence to have the appelation "advisor to the President" attached to him. When he campaigns it is not as a "friend of the President" or as a friend of anybody else, but as Borah—Borah himself.

Now Borah explained to the President that an unnecessary risk lay in fighting the Norris resolution and that the resolution meant nothing in the world and could do no possible harm. A much better course to pursue, said he, would be to modify or eliminate the offensive preamble of the resolution which the Nebraskan could not politically object to.

* * * *

SO obviously was this the correct course to pursue that the President forthwith adopted it. And he must, at the same time, have wondered how any one else could have advised otherwise.

Just why Advisors Allen and Vandenberg could not have advised this is hard to understand.

It must be that it is because from the beginning the gentlemen have advised 100 per cent wrong. To the House for them.

GALEN'S VICTORY IN MONTANA IS FURTHER G. O. P.-WET LINK

nominated a wet in Montana is what seems to be the steady march of the Republicans into the wet fold.

In recent months the party in three States has embraced the wet banner, and the indications are that other States are to follow.

First, Senator Jones, of Washington, woke up one morning to read in the newspapers that his party in State convention had tried to outwet the Democrats. It was most grievous as well as surprising news to him, and it was then that he expressed the willingness to let the country vote on a repeal referendum if his State wanted one. Senator Walsh subsequently said that he felt that way about the matter, too.

Shortly afterward, Ambassador Morrow, one of the most outstanding Republicans in the country and probably the most talked about just now, espoused the wet cause.

It was not startling that a man seeking public office in New Jersey should take the wet side, but it was generally interpreted as breaking the hold which the drys have heretofore held on the Republican party in the East.

Threat in New York.

Mr. Morrow's overwhelming victory has given heart to the dry-harassed Republicans in New York who have never been able to get anywhere because of the dry yoke, and it will be surprising if their gubernatorial candidate this fall is not a wet. If he is not, former Senator Wadsworth has said, there will be an independent to split his vote. The drys did him this way back in 1926.

The Massachusetts Republicans are to decide what they want to do in September. In the primary Eben S. Draper is running as a wet against former Senator Butler, who is holding to the dry standard. Observers are saying that Butler has the better chance because, regardless of the wetness of the State, the Republican party is dry.

It may be that the drys will be able to call a halt to the wet march in the Bay State, but it can not be forgotten that it used to be said that the Republican party in New Jersey was dry.

One hears strange stories, too, about Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, who got the Republican senatorial nomination in Illinois as a dry, but who now must face the very wet J. Ham Lewis.

Mrs. McCormick Explains.

It is said that Mrs. McCormick is now explaining that she was always a personal dry, that her father before her was one, but that she would have never voted for the eighteenth amendment or the Volstead act and that furthermore if an acceptable substitute is offered while she sits in the Senate, if permitted to sit there, she will vote for it. In the meantime, she is for upholding the law. This would appear that she has slipped to at least the straddling stage and may slip further as the campaign progresses, or maybe she will decide that this is as far as it is necessary for her to go, Illinois being such an overwhelming Republican State.

Over there in Maryland the most dignified Senator Goldsborough is being caused considerable pain by recent developments.

Of Mayor Broening of Baltimore, it might be said that while he is not an aggressive wet he is certainly not a dry. Some time ago the mayor let it be known that he would like to be the Republican gubernatorial candidate. When word of this reached the senator he smiled and took counsel with Galen L. Tait, Republican leader. They decided that Mayor Broening would not fight for the gubernatorial nomination and only wanted it if handed to him on a silver platter.

Accord With Hoover.

Reasoning thusly, they concluded that it would not be given him and that in due time they would pick up an upstanding dry who would be absolutely in prohibition accord with the senator "and President Hoover."

The mayor has since proved an aggressive fighter, has filed his papers and set about to gobble up support. Unless the senator and Mr. Tait want trouble their plans of a dry to "uphold the senator and the President" will not be consummated.

Incidentally when the senator says to uphold himself "and the President" he is taking a lot for granted.

Kurds Shoot Down Turkish Airplane

Rebels on Mount Ararat, Bombed, Gouge Out Pilot's Eyes.

Istanbul, Turkey, July 16 (A.P.).—Kurdish invaders, beleaguered high among the volcanic rocks of Mount Ararat, today shot down one Turkish airplane, gouged out the eyes of the aviator and tore the machine to shreds during a terrific bombardment by an aerial squadron.

The Kurds, reinforced, according to Erzeroum dispatches by Armenians, made a desperate reply to the bombers with machine guns. In the engagement the Turkish planes flew to an altitude of 20,000 feet, higher than Mount Blanc, before swooping down on their hidden foes and dropping tons of bombs.

Waves of western enemies summoned to roll over Turkey today, were breaking in blood upon the republican border where the Moslem Kurds, exiled royalists and deserters from the Turkish army returned to the revolt against Mustapha Kemal's religious and political reforms.

Despite all the Turks could do the Ararat insurgents still held out. One band today even descended into the valley and attacked the town of Aralik.

G. O. P. Receiver Looms in Georgia

Henry Davis, Secretary of Advisory Committee, Is Called Into Court.

Atlanta, Ga., July 16 (A.P.).—The Georgia Superior Court today ordered Henry Davis, secretary of the advisory committee for Georgia named by Postmaster General Walter Brown and other administration leaders, to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed to take charge of funds alleged to have been collected by him in the name of the party.

This action was taken on a petition filed by James W. Arnold, chairman; B. J. Davis, secretary, and other members of one of the two committees which claim to represent the party in the State. The court fixed July 26 as the date for hearing the matter.

The petition charged that Henry Davis was appointed "secretary of an advisory committee of the State of Georgia of postoffices" by Walter Brown in Washington, and has no connection with the Republican party of Georgia. It asked that he be restrained from collecting party funds in the State. The other Republican organization in Georgia is headed by J. T. Rose, collector of internal revenue, as chairman, and its membership includes Clint W. Hager, Federal district attorney for the Northern Georgia District.

Despondent Actor Commits Suicide

Work Decline and Loss in Stock Crash Prompt H. F. Haas to End Life.

New York, July 16 (A.P.).—Howard F. Haas, an actor known on the stage as Frank Howard, and a player for many years in the companies of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coburn, took his life today at his apartment by inhaling anesthetic.

His wife, Mrs. Meta Haas, who was on the stage with him under the name of Constance Howard, attributed his suicide to the decline in stage employment and to his loss of $20,000 in the stock market decline of last October.

Mrs. Haas said her husband had been despondent for several weeks and that recently when a suicide attempt failed, he threatened to kill himself, his wife and their 8-year-old son. Mr. Haas played in "The Better 'Ole" and "The Yellow Jacket" and in several Shakespearean dramas.

Firebugs Imperil Town Just Saved From Blaze

Sacramento, Calif., July 16 (A.P.). The little town of Hayfork, 40 miles west of Redding, saved from destruction by fire last week, was in the path of another blaze again tonight. Forest Rangers said the fire was incendiary.

The fire had swept over 250 acres of pine timber, and 95 volunteer fighters were unable to curb its progress. Forestry officials reported the blaze was set by men. Rangers saw it spring up in seven or eight different places within a few minutes.

OPPONENTS ASSAIL NEW NAVAL TREATY

Democratic Senators Spend Day Laying Barrage of Arguments.

FREEDOM OF SEAS ISSUE

invoke cloture to shut off debate. Senator Watson, r Indiana, the Republican leader, said a cloture petition had been drafted, but said it had not been circulated for the necessary sixteen signatures and would not be unless a definite filibuster against the treaty developed.

Senator McKellar formally introduced his reservations late in the day, one providing for freedom of the seas and the other calling for the elimination of British naval bases in the vicinity of the American continent.

Treaty Called "Sham."

In a bitter attack upon the treaty, the Tennesseean termed the pact a "sham" and he protested that no printed record existed of the London negotiations. Senator Johnson said the State Department was engaged in printing a volume embodying its own views on the agreement. Senator Reed (Repubulican), Pennsylvania, said the secretary of the London conference kept a record of the proceedings.

In attendance yesterday of 64 members, the largest to appear thus far at the special session, led leaders to predict more than 70 would be present for the final roll call.

They estimated there would be no more than twelve votes in opposition, thus assuring a heavy margin above the necessary two-thirds for ratification.

The text of the two McKellar reservations follows:

Freedom of the seas—"Be it resolved, That as a condition to the ratification of the foregoing treaty by the United States it is understood and agreed that hereafter the high contracting parties in both times of peace and of war will respect the rights of all neutrals to the absolute freedom of the seas outside of territorial waters.

Freedom of Seas Sought.

"And it is further expressly understood and agreed that each and all of said high contracting parties will guarantee among themselves, and as far as they can to other nations, the natural rights of all neutral nations, and their nationals to ship their goods, wares and merchandise on the high seas in times of peace and of war, to and from all nations, belligerents or neutrals, without interference or molestation or injury, and before this ratification becomes effective this reservation will be agreed to in writing by each of the other signatories to said treaty."

Naval bases—"Be it Resolved, That it is specifically understood and agreed in the ratification of this treaty that during the treaty period between the ratification hereof and the 31st of December, 1936, that Great Britain will, in the interest of peace and concord between the two nations, and as an assurance of the oft-repeated statement of many of her leading statesmen that war with the United States is unthinkable, unman and after said date of December 31, 1936, not maintain the following naval stations or bases contiguous to the territory of the United States:

"Halifax, Bermuda, Jamaica, Trinidad, Esquimault, and will not build other naval bases in the vicinity of said territorial waters, and that before this ratification becomes effective this reservation will be agreed to in writing by the government of Great Britain."

Pittman Raps Treaty.

Senator Pittman said there was no necessity for speeding action on the pact.

"There's entirely too much hurry to get away," he said. "There is no necessity to be here. They are complaining about absentees. Why, they've been dying and smothering here for seven months and yet they bring in a treaty that's not even an emergency matter."

To emphasize this, the Nevadan said the pact had not been taken up for ratification by Japan or England.

Mr. Pittman said he was in no position to determine whether in the correspondence there is "some understanding," but that President Hoover based his statement that none existed outside the treaty on second-hand knowledge.

Marine Believed Killed In Nicaragua Air Crash

Managua, Nicaragua, July 16 (A.P.).—A United States Marine Corsair plane crashed today while making an aerological flight near Tecuantepe, 10 miles south of Managua. It was reported tonight that one of the two occupants had been killed.

The crackup occurred in a densely wooded section. A relief party of Marines was sent to the place. Semi-official reports said the surviving flier had been critically injured.

Post for Cardinal Cerretti.

Vatican City, July 16 (A.P.).—Cardinal Cerretti, for a number of years auditor of the apostolic delegation at Washington, D. C., has been named archpriest of the Basilica of St. Mary Major. He succeeds the late Cardinal Vannutelli.

ments had to be made for their return passage.

The nurses said that Miss Howells had induced them to give her $5,700 for investment, after representing herself as one familiar with stock speculation.

E. W. Dean, of Winchester, Mass., told the court that he had met Miss Howells abroad and had renewed his acquaintance with her when she invited him to join in playing the market. He said that she claimed the ability to get certain tips by reading the stars. The indictment contains sixteen counts, eight charging embezzlement and eight larceny after trust. The Government contends that the defendant applied the nurses' money to her own use.

Assistant United States Attorneys William A. Gallagher and Charles B. Murray are conducting the prosecution, while Attorneys Paul J. Sedgwick, of Washington, and Donald W. Smith, of North Carolina, are defending Miss Howells. The Government is expected to rest its case this morning.

15 Killed in Riot, Unabated in India

Official Reports Uprising Due to Economic Conditions.

Calcutta, India, July 16 (A.P.).—Four rioters and eleven other persons have been killed and five government officers and two natives injured in disorders at Kishorenanj, which tonight had not been put under control after many hours.

The Bengal governor tonight informed a deputation of five councillors of the extent of the casualties.

The governor said the situation, while still not under control, was, in its general aspects, improved.

He said the riots appeared to be of economic origin, rather than communal, and probably were connected with low prices obtaining in the jute market.

Man Stabs Two, Then Fires House

Girl Tells Police of Double Tragedy in Arkansas Town.

Russellville, Ark., July 16 (A.P.).—J. A. Coleman, 65, a fisherman, fatally stabbed his wife and 22-year-old stepdaughter and then set fire to his house today. Isobel, another stepdaughter of the slayer, told police Coleman had ordered them to leave home and went into a rage when they refused.

He first stabbed his stepdaughter Dolores with a butcher knife, the young girl said. Isobel said she ran when he attacked Dolores but returned to the house to get her 5-year-old nephew.

After killing Dolores Coleman went to the kitchen and struck his wife a blow over the head before stabbing her at least six times, according to officers. He then poured kerosene about the house and set fire to it. Officers found him hiding nearby. The family lived at North Dardanelle, 4 miles from here.

Butler Denies Appeal For Doomed Bandits

Buena Vista Springs, Pa., July 16 (A.P.).—Justice Pierce Butler, of the United States Supreme Court, today denied an appeal presented in behalf of three convicted bandits who are under sentence to be executed at Kansas City July 25.

The appeal was presented to Justice Butler at his summer home here this afternoon by Frank Lingquist, Kansas City, attorney for the men.

TRADE BOARD BACKS GRAF'S PORT SURVEY

Hybla Valley Field Tests as Zeppelin Terminus May Be Started Soon.

TO TAKE EIGHT MONTHS

Spurred by the news that Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, is seriously considering Hybla Valley, near Alexandria, as a site for the western terminal of a transatlantic dirigible service, the Washington Board of Trade will back a technical survey of the property, it was announced last night by officials of the board.

This survey has been requested by Dr. Eckener as a guide for his final selection of the terminal. It will consist of the installation of complete automatic weather recording instruments and collection of detailed information on nearby rail transportation. The climatic instruments will include a wind direction and velocity recorder, wind vane and anemometer of the three-cup type mounted on a 50-foot tower in the center of the Hybla Valley field.

Daily Charts Sought.

It is proposed that daily observations be charted and sent to the New York offices of the international airship line for the next eight months. Cost of installing the instruments and collecting the data will total between $3,000 and $5,000, it is estimated. The Board of Trade will undertake to see that these instruments are installed and that the survey is made. The board will ask Washington civic and business organizations to share the expense as a contribution to the development of the National Capital.

The other sites under consideration are near Richmond and Baltimore. Richmond, it is thought, will be considered too far from New York, whereas Washington will be favored because of its central location and because of the National Capital's good hotel facilities. Ultimate selection of Hybla Valley will depend on the outcome of the weather survey, it is pointed out.

Will Give Hangar Site.

Dr. Eckener is being represented in this country by Commander Jerome C. Munsaker, who has outlined the information desired at Hybla Valley. The Valley is owned by the Washington Air Terminals Corporation, operators of Washington Airport. This corporation is a subsidiary of the Federal Aviation Corporation. The International Zeppelin Transport Corporation will be represented in the survey work by Ward T. Van Orman, veteran balloon pilot and winner of many balloon contests.

As a first step toward seeing that the survey is made, officials of the Washington Board of Trade, including Lawrence E. Williams, chairman of the aviation committee of the board, will confer with officials of the Washington Air Terminal Corporation to plan methods of acquiring the necessary instruments. The corporation will give Dr. Eckener a 200-acre tract for a dirigible hangar, if he selects the site for the American terminal of the ocean service, it was announced.

Poisoned Pair Ignorant Of Children's Deaths

Newton, N. J., July 16 (A.P.).—Unaware that their three children are dead, Wilbur Stanton and his wife were rallying today from the effects of poison which threatened to wipe out their entire family of six.

An improvement was shown also in the condition of their foster son, William Cartwright, 2, who is also critically ill.

The three Stanton children, Elizabeth, 13; Fanny, 12; and Alice, 4, will be buried tomorrow. The six members of the family were stricken Monday night by what physicians diagnosed as ptomaine poisoning.

Extra House Session Urged to Aid Farmers

A demand that President Hoover call the House of Representatives into special session to permit relief legislation for agriculture was voiced yesterday by Senator Caraway (Democrat), Arkansas, who is disturbed because of the condition of the wheat and cotton markets.

Caraway, as well as other senators, are incensed at what they consider an attempt on the part of the White House to hold Congress responsible for the farm situation, after President Hoover dictated the terms of the farm relief act.

equal fame knew. Not only are methods of disposal of the cargo different from those of a few years ago, but berths on rumships are relatively hard to get, and the pay is fabulous. Masters of contraband ships receive from $1,000 a month up, plus a bonus which may well exceed the regular pay. Engineers receive $750 a month up, plus bonus, and other members of the crew in a like scale.

With regards to methods of landing, the changes are remarkable. The mother ships keep well off the 12-mile limit, some of them being as far out as 60 miles. These ships are equipped with fast power boats, carrying a crew of two, and having a short wave radio set with which they may maintain communication with the mother ship, and also with the shore.

According to Federal authorities, there are now not fewer than twelve of these large steamers hovering off the coast, awaiting favorable opportunities when their power boats will dart shoreward with their contraband. Not a few of these boats are of Nova Scotia registry and manned by Nova Scotia crews.

other contact. The trim monoplane skimmed down the seaboard until nightfall when she encountered the fog. For hours, the fliers sought their bearings and, at dawn, found themselves over land. They had been blown westward.

Bostwick is about 60 miles east of Atlanta.

The plane originally was built by Eddie Stinson for an assault on the nonrefueling flight record. Speed was sacrified for lifting capacity, but the K was believed a good ship for long cruises. The New York-Buenos Aires flight was planned last year, but delays followed a minor accident and the plane was sold at auction.

A tooth paste company that planned the first flight, repurchased the K and selected Peed as head of the expedition.

M'DONALD DEPARTS FOR COAST HEARING

Attorney for Mooney Will Join Party, Going by Way of Chicago.

WITNESS WILL RECANT

Baltimore, July 16 (A.P.).—John MacDonald, in company with his attorneys, Charles Ruzicka and Hillary Gans, left here this afternoon for New York on the first lap of a trip destined to take them to California, where MacDonald says he will tell authorities he lied at the trials of Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings, serving life terms for murder.

The MacDonald party will go from Baltimore to New York, where it will be joined by Frank P. Walsh, Eastern attorney for Mooney. From there it will go to California by way of Chicago, the witness' attorneys announced. When the departure from New York will be made is in the hands of Mr. Walsh.

The recanting witness will be accompanied by his attorneys and Edward N. Nockels, secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor, who in 1921 obtained from MacDonald the first statement that he had been coached by the prosecution in perjured testimony given at the trials of Mooney and Billings.

MacDonald's was testimony which identified Mooney and Billings as the men who planted a suit case containing the bomb which killed ten and injured 40 during the preparedness day parade in San Francisco in 1916. In a sworn affidavit, made since his arrest here Friday, he declared he never had seen the two until taken to their cells in the San Francisco jail, where they were pointed out by prosecution officials.

Gov. Clement C. Young, of California has pledged expenses for the trip from Baltimore to the Coast for the witness so that he may appear before the pardon board in the Mooney case and the supreme court in the Billings case. Labor officials already have petitioned to have the cases reopened, and Mr. Walsh holds plans for asking them to be reopened on the ground of new evidence.

CAPITAL TAX RATE TO REMAIN SAME

about the conduct of the National Capital. In addition, the prospective revenues of this year were estimated by Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor and budget officer.

Maj. Donovan consistently has followed a practice in his estimates of erring on the safe side, and his estimates of revenue receipts have usually been above $500,000 short of actual receipts. The amount has ranged upward from this figure, and though the sum may seem large, considered alone, it means that the auditor has estimated within better than 98 per cent of the receipts more than two years in advance. Nonetheless this gives those who figure fine the comfort of knowing that the District probably will end the current fiscal year, on the basis of the same tax rate, with a surplus of more than $1,000,000.

The total of the estimates for 1932 was not made public yesterday. Something like 150 items were gone over by the Commissioners and cuts were made in each of those which were not eliminated entirely and at the end the Commissioners themselves nor their financial assistants knew the exact amount which will be submitted to the Budget Bureau. Accountants of the auditor's office, under direction of M. R. Pilkerton, acting auditor, were at work last night completing the preparation of the estimates and expected to end their work some time today.

Rough figuring, however, convinced the Commissioner that they had cut the $54,000,000 estimates submitted by the municipal department heads sufficiently to keep the 1932 estimates within the estimated revenues for next year without necessitating an increase in the tax rate. All their figuring, of course, is based on what Congress does about the amount of the Federal appropriation for the maintenance of the National Capital.

Board of Trade Chiefs List 17 New Members

Seventeen new members of the Washington Board of Trade have been approved by the executive committee of the board, it was announced yesterday. They are Harry C. Ames, F. W. Doolittle, Dale D. BRUENING TO FORCE GERMAN TAX BILLS

Chancellor Has President's Backing; May Dissolve Reichstag Today.

HELD VITAL TO PROGRESS

Berlin, July 16 (A.P.).—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, backed by President Von Hindenburg, today threw down the gauntlet to the Reichstag and announced he would put through the financial measures devised by Finance Minister Dietrich as necessary for the nation's weal, by invoking article 48 of the constitution.

This extreme measure of government by decree was resorted to only after the Reichstag had disregarded the chancellor's repeated appeals and had rejected the finance bill.

This bill provides, among other things, that a special tax shall be levied on incomes of more than 8,000 marks (about $2,000) a year, and that an extraordinary tax be imposed on federal employes. Drastic reductions in the expenditures of all departments of government are also contemplated.

Acting under the extraordinary provisions of article 48, the chancellor, through President Von Hindenburg, was scheduled tonight to declare the Dietrich program law.

Political leaders in every camp were conjecturing, however, as to how long these measures could remain in effect. Article 48, after granting virtually dictatorial powers to the president, contains the following clause:

"The president must immediately give notice to the Reichstag of all measures decreed under the provisions of this article. The measures must be revoked if the Reichstag so demands."

The Social-Democrats, who constitute the largest party in the opposition, at once prepared to introduce a motion tomorrow, declaring article 48 inoperative. Such a motion, to be carried, would need a two-thirds majority of those present, who in turn must constitute two-thirds of the entire Reichstag.

The chancellor tonight was reported ready, however, to counter this tactical move by dissolving the Reichstag immediately after its resumption of work tomorrow. This would enable the government to keep its financial program in force at least until the new elections which, according to the constitution, must take place within 60 days.

THE BEGINNING OF THE FULFILLMENT OF A PROMISE!

SEVEN months ago, when announcing the formation of the RCA Radiotron Company, Inc., the Radio Corporation of America said:

"The unification of vacuum tube development, manufacture and sales in the new company will undoubtedly enable it to meet fully and effectively the responsibility of leadership which rests upon the founders of the Radio industry in America . . . It will make possible added economy in merchandising and manufacturing . . ."

The new RCA Radiotron Company regarded this as a promise to produce and sell a product which would give good value to the public . . . a radio tube of the highest quality at the lowest cost . . . a promise to be fulfilled.

Now, the RCA Radiotron Company, Inc., is able to announce the beginning of the fulfillment of this promise.

Prices Reduced!

On July 17, 1930, the prices on four popular types of RCA Radiotrons will be reduced as follows:

Type of Tube	Old List Price	New List Price	Your Saving
224	$4.00	$3.30	$ .70
227	2.50	2.20	.30

REPORTER LET OUT FOR GANGSTER LINK

Friend of Lingle's Admits He Held Partnership in Speakeasy.

VETERAN OF 28 YEARS

Chicago, Ill., July 16 (A.P.).—The undertow of Jake Lingle's assassination dragged Jimmy Murphy under today.

A veteran police reporter, after 28 years of service with the old Chicago Journal and recently with the Chicago Daily Times, Murphy was discharged because, he admitted, he held a partnership in a neighborhood speakeasy for six months three years ago.

Murphy, one of the few remaining "old-time" newspapermen, regarded as "dean" of the guild in Chicago, was made famous throughout the country recently by being taken as the prototype for one of the amusing characters of "The Front Page," newspaper play, which had a long run in New York and elsewhere.

"Best Wishes for Murphy."

The Daily Times, chronicling his dismissal, printed a statement by the publisher which concluded with "the Daily Times has nothing but good wishes for Jimmy Murphy."

Murphy's dismissal was the major development in the investigation of the slaying of the Tribune reporter, and the ramification of reputed politico-criminal-graft conditions here.

Murphy, long a friend of Lingle, was one of the pallbearers at the latter's funeral.

Concerning Murphy's dismissal, the Daily Times says:

"Jimmy Murphy was a Daily Times police reporter, until yesterday morning. For 28 years he had covered stories of crime and criminals, gangs and gangsters, and in all that time no word was ever whispered to his employers that 'Jimmy' Murphy was 'on the take,' no suspicion, held or voiced; that dishonest money passed into his hands from any of the criminal elements whose doings he chronicled.

"Jimmy Murphy was a square shooting veteran who lived on his salary, had the respect of his fellow workers, and the affection of newsmen everywhere.

"Then, three years ago, Jimmy was approached by a friend with a proposal of a part interest in an insignificant neighborhood speakeasy. For once Jimmy slipped. For six or seven months he retained this interest in an institution tolerated by common consent, but prohibited by law. Then he got out.

Gave Information Himself.

"When the murder of Jake Lingle brought into the spotlight the private affairs of even police reporters, Jimmy was called into the office of his boss. He, himself, gave the Daily Times its first information of his dereliction. Because newspapers can not retain on their staffs police reporters with interests in enterprises which police are charged to suppress, Murphy was let out. He asked to go that way. He said he knew if he were the boss there was just one thing to do. That was the real Jimmy Murphy.

"The Daily Times takes no pride nor credit in printing the fact of Murphy's relatively banal mistake—nor of his inevitable departure from this newspaper. It only remembers the many years of on-the-job, cheerful, faithful service at a tough game and wishes him well. The Daily Times has nothing but good wishes for Jimmy Murphy."

House Raked by Guns.

Police were stumped in their efforts to learn the identity of the men who raked a house near that of "Spike" O'Donnell with gunfire early today. The firing squad missed the O'Donnell home, but slugs penetrated the home of a neighbor two doors away.

O'Donnell, often a target for assassins, police said, heads a hoodlum gang on the South Side, and, aside from this, police said they ascribed a bootleggers' argument as the motive.

Meanwhile the investigation of the Lingle slaying proper marked time while police were reported on their way here from California with Frankie Foster, indicted for Lingle's slaying, and the grand jury made plans to hear Harry Brundige, St. Louis reporter, who promised to "name names" of other Chicago newspapermen reputed to be affiliated with the hoodlum element.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

IT is a somewhat curious fact that a great many of the movie heroines who always get their men in reel life remain spinsters in real life, despite their manifold wiles and seductive charms.

There is, for example, Lois Wilson, to whom the talking screen came as a gift from heaven and who usually causes the man in the case to succumb on the screen. She has been reported engaged on numerous occasions, but rumor is about as far as it has ever gone. Jetta Goudal—recuperating from a nervous breakdown—and Doris Lloyd, remembered as the fascinating and villainous Mrs. Travers in George Arliss' picturization of "Disraeli," also are single.

Clara Bow has had many engagements, but never a wedding—in or out of pictures, as far as I can recall. Greta Garbo, most baffling of all the snarers, never has even been engaged to anyone, so far as Hollywood knows.

The list might be extended indefinitely to include such names as Kay Francis, Alice White, Lois Moran, Olive Borden, Barbara Kent, Mary Brian, Lily Damita, Anita Page and dozens of others.

Most of them say they haven't met the right person yet, and there may be a modicum—not more than a modicum, mind you—of truth in that, but business probably has something to do with it, too. They all believe that moviegoers romanticize over them less when they are married.

And so do husbands, for that matter!

Mr. Hubbard Keavy, this department's West Coast snooper-in-chief, points out that if the screen actors who are also musicians should get together they could form an orchestra, or maybe a band, with a personnel and instrumentation something like this:

Violins: Charlie Chaplin, Clive Brook and Paul Muni.

Piano: Chester Morris, Milton Sills or Conway Tearle.

Saxophones: Buddy Rogers, Eddie Quillan and Creighton Hale.

Cornet: Charlie Farrell.

Trombone: Harry Langdon.

Drums: James Hall.

String quintet: John Boles, ukulele; Warner Baxter and Lew Ayres, guitars; Raymond Hatton and Gary Cooper, mandolins.

Chaplin could vary the program with pipe organ solos, but I can't somehow seem to reconcile Harry Langdon with a trombone—you'd rather expect him to be playing a stringless zither, or something else that wouldn't scare him to death the first time it went off!

The battle is still on, with the latest score coming to this desk via the postman considerably in favor of Will Osborne, currently at the Earle with his band, as opposed to Lehigh's little brother, Rudy Vallee. Some of the letters are getting just a trifle caustic and a bit tinctured with venom because I will not change my mind and like Rudy the better of the two. When he gets better than Will, I will.

Speaking of pictures, when Frank Richardson arrives at Bolling Field by plane from Detroit some time in the vicinity of tomorrow noon, for a week of personal appearances at the Fox, he will be met by a limousine longer than you have been in town and an army of cameramen.

As I remarked once before, he had better be good, after all this fuss.

The copy pencil is gone, but I am having a little trouble swapping the typewriter for a bathing suit. Maybe it is of too early a vintage, built when they still put the emergency brake outside the tonneau.

GOLDSBOROUGH DIES OF CRASH INJURIES

Son of Flier Who Lost Life in Atlantic Mystery Passes in Coma.

HELD AIRPLANE RECORDS

to get below the fog Goldsborough wreckage with the young flier still alive.

A stretcher was made from two suit coats and after a long trek through the forest Goldsborough was placed in an ambulance and taken to the hospital here.

Surgeons needed but a brief examination to show them that they were waging an almost hopeless fight in their efforts to save the youngster's life.

A short time before Goldsborough died the hospital officials said that there had been no drastic change in his condition although their patient was a bit weaker. A call was sent to Mrs. Gertrude Goldsborough, the widow of Frank's father, who had come here from New York as soon as she learned of the accident. She hastened to the hospital, but was too late.

Goldsborough passed his tests for a private flying license last November and in April of this year he left Westfield, N. J., on his transcontinental flights. His East-West crossing set a new junior record and his flight back to New York was in record time. The round-trip time of 62 hours and 21 minutes was another junior record.

VIRGINIAN ARRESTED AS GIRL REAPPEARS

together for Crockett as waitresses at his tourist lunchroom some time ago.

Crockett denied that he had taken the child away, or that he had been with her at any time, and declared that while police were searching for him he had been "just riding around" alone, and that during that time he had passed Sheriff Kirby several times without knowing the officer was seeking him.

The girl, too, was sullen and noncommittal after her arrest until a policewoman won her confidence yesterday, when she told most of her story. Some details are still lacking, however, particularly with reference to the place where the girl had been since she stepped into an automobile as she came out of church Sunday morning.

She declared, according to police, that she had acted entirely of her own volition throughout, and asserted that "the very minute" she is released from jail she plans to return to Crockett, who has been married for seven years, but has no children.

"You can't keep me from the man I love," Louise Gladys is quoted by the police, who said further that she was exceedingly bitter against her parents for attempting to thwart her romance.

Condemned Man Gets Reprieve for 60 Days

Oklahoma City, July 16 (A.P.).—Gov. W. J. Holloway today issued a 60-day reprieve for Claude Hager, sentenced to die tonight for the murder of Walter Harp, Ulysses, Kans., farmer.

The reprieve is to permit further study of a last-minute confession of Elmer Moore, 22, serving a life sentence in the same killing, exonerating Hager.

Three Banks Fail; Charter Granted

New Florida Institution Is Organized as Others Close Doors.

Tallahassee, Fla., July 16 (A.P.).—Failure of three State banks and approval of a charter for a new banking institution was announced today at the office of the State banking department. The First Bank of Lake Worth, Fla.; the Bank of Canal Point, Fla., and the Reddick State Bank of Reddick, Fla., failed today.

The First Bank of Lake Worth, a reopened institution, had $958,726.23 on deposit on March 27, according to records here. It was capitalized at $175,000.

The Bank of Canal Point had deposits of $61,518.33 on June 30 and was capitalized at $25,000. The Reddick State Bank on June 30 had 40,202.77 on deposit.

Approval of a charter for a new bank in Miami Beach to be known as the City Bank of Miami Beach also was announced. The new bank will have a capital stock of $100,000 and a surplus of $50,000.

Posse Recaptures Workhouse Pair

Two That Escaped Sunday Are Recognized by Their Garb.

Because a citizen of Gunston Hall, Va., recognized the uniform of the inmates of the District Workhouse yesterday, two men who escaped from that institution Sunday were recaptured.

The men are Edmund Schwartz, 24 years old, of Washington, and Fred Boyd, 19 years old, of Baltimore. Schwartz is serving a term of eighteen months for housebreaking and larceny, and Boyd was sentenced to a year for joyriding.

After he had recognized the overalls worn by one of the fugitives, the man called the workhouse. Guards responded with bloodhouds and trailed the men a short distance, when they were captured. The men escaped by hiding in a supply room at the workhouse until search for them had ceased, and then fleeing.

An Added Convenience For Telephone Subscribers

ARRANGEMENTS have been made with a number of banks and branch banks to act as our agencies for the collection of bills. This is an added convenience for our patrons who have been paying their telephone bills each month at the Company's Business Office, but who oftentimes find it bothersome to make the trip downtown.

Current bills may be paid at the bank collection agencies up to and including the settlement date shown on the face of the bill. Those who send in their checks each month by mail should continue to address them to the Business Office.

The new bank collection agencies are located at points convenient to most neighborhoods throughout the city. A list of these agencies follows:

"EXTRAVAGANCE."

A new argument has been injected into the congressional campaign with the publication of summaries showing the total expenditures of the last Congress. Joseph W. Byrns, Democratic member of the House appropriations committee, professes to see in these figures a "riot of extravagance." He has attempted to lay the foundation for a Democratic appeal to voters through their pocketbooks.

The attitude of the administration spokesmen toward the question is, of course, totally different. There is no disposition to conceal the fact that Congress at its last session appropriated $208,692,465 more than did the corresponding session of the Seventieth Congress. It should be noted, however, that of this amount more than $38,000,000 went for appropriations previously authorized, and that development of some projects for which funds were made available this year will continue over a number of years.

Republican leaders in Congress need make no apologies for these increased appropriations. It is easy to criticize the administration for a "riot of extravagance," but not so easy for the critics to set forth in detail how they would have reduced expenditures. This increase includes $100,000,000 for the stabilization of agriculture; $32,400,000 to aid in the construction of highways; $17,000,000 additional for improvement of rivers and harbors, and $19,000,000 for public buildings and sites. These items are the backbone of the program to relieve the farmer and the unemployed. For the most part these funds will flow into constructive projects and hasten the country's economic recovery.

Other large items represented in the increased appropriations are $28,000,000 for relief of war veterans who have not heretofore been adequately cared for, and $5,000,000 for the excursion of gold-star mothers to the graves of their sons in Europe. Retirement legislation, new Federal prisons, park development and similar items that have wholehearted public support make up small additional expenditures.

During the last year the country has made unusual demands upon the Government. The increased building, highway and waterway expenditures are in response to a demand for relief of unemployment. The appropriation for the Farm Board is an expense never before incurred. Will Democrats object to it? Rigid economy of previous years made necessary unusual expenses for prisons, retirement of Federal employes, veterans' relief, river and harbor improvement, ocean and air-mail contracts, &c. Huge annual payments are still made on the public debt. Congress refused to sink additional millions into such projects as Muscle Shoals.

In view of this constructive work that has been launched, charges of extravagance are meaningless. The greater demand for service from the Government has resulted in higher expenditures. If it becomes a question of the public choosing between an administration that is stagnant and one that is progressive, it would not be difficult to predict the outcome.

TURMOIL IN EGYPT.

The Egyptian riots, of which Tuesday's was the sixth since King Fuad accepted the resignation of the Nahas cabinet and appointed Sidky Pasha prime minister, are supposed to be incited by the same influences that are stirring up revolution in India. In Egypt the Wafdist, or Nationalist party, is belligerently opposing King Fuad's government.

Great Britain holds the right to protect the safety of empire communications in Egypt; to defend Egypt against foreign aggression, direct or indirect; to protect foreign and minority interests in Egypt, and to safeguard British interests in the Sudan. These reserved rights have forced Great Britain into a constant series of interventions in Egyptian affairs. The presence of British troops in Egyptian territory has caused almost constant friction. Nahas Pasha, leader of the Wafdists and the idol of all Egyptians, is openly opposed to all ties with Britain, and it seems likely that when Parliament is reopened next Monday he will have ample strength to force the resignation of the Sidky cabinet.

The Alexandria riots of Tuesday, in which 17 were killed and at least 400 injured, while property of considerable value was destroyed, give a foretaste of what may be expected with the reopening of Parliament next week. Public sentiment is so inflamed that there will be little chance of proceeding with the orderly settlement of British-Egyptian relations.

Although the disturbances in India and Egypt seem to be spontaneous outbursts of native resistance to British influence, the similarity of some of the methods employed indicates that Russian communist agitators are at work in both countries.

INQUIRY INTO COMMUNISM.

Investigation into Communist activities in the United States has begun in New York under direction of a special congressional committee. Hearings in Washington developed the fact that little is known as to the extent of subversive propaganda circulated in this country by agents from Moscow, and that no department of the Government has any authority or funds to look into the question. With that preliminary out of the way, the committee will now try to ascertain the source and extent of communist activities in this country.

Communism is kept alive in America by agitation from Soviet Russia. It is a disease of the mind that does not flourish among progressive and contented people, but it makes inroads in times of distress. Agents of the Communist International, which is directed by the same clique that dominates Russia, are making desperate efforts to incite unrest among the unemployed during the current economic depression. It is timely for the House committee to reveal the source of this insidious attack, and to consider means of combating it.

The suggestion of Elihu Root that a Federal police force be created to deal with bolshevist conspiracies is not applicable to the problem. The problem is to keep emissaries of the Communist International out of the country and to deport those agents who are already at work here. It is much easier to stop this subversive movement at the border than to attempt to police the country against conspiracy. The Government can tighten up its restrictions against the entry of alien agitators, and deport criminal aliens already in the country without overstepping its proper functions. There is no occasion for further encroachment upon the police powers of the States in order to deal with these bolshevist agents.

The first essential is to uncover the sources of propaganda. Until it is definitely known what methods are being used to sow the seeds of revolution in America no remedy can be intelligently prescribed. If the Soviet communists are disseminating seditious doctrines through their commercial agents in the United States it should not be difficult to put those agents out of business. If agitators are being planted in American factories they can be routed by cooperation of the Department of Labor, labor unions and industrial managements. What the country needs first of all is accurate information on this subject. When the congressional committee has supplied this need it will then be time to consider specific remedial measures.

LIQUOR FROM CANADA.

The Treasury Department's concentration of customs agents on the Canadian border for the purpose of halting the flow of liquor to the United States raises interesting questions. A year ago Treasury officials announced that the flow of liquor from Canada to the United States had been brought under control. While there were at that time a few holes that remained open, the inflow of Canadian liquor amounted to such a trifling proportion of the total consumption that it might well be disregarded. The fact that it is now necessary to concentrate a large force of customs agents on the border for the specific purpose of halting rum running indicates that something must have occurred recently to start the inundation afresh. What could it be?

The Canadian Parliament in its recent session approved an act designed to prevent the export of liquor to the United States. Known as the anticlearance regulation, it provided, first, that clearance papers no longer would be issued to masters of liquor-laden vessels bound for the United States; and, second, that permits to withdraw liquor from Canadian warehouses would no longer be granted if such liquor was destined for shipment to the United States. The Treasury Department says that as a result of the enactment of these regulations, liquor runners have abandoned their vessels in favor of automobiles and trucks. The flow of liquor has been diverted, it is said, from the lakes and the ocean to the highways.

But the anticlearance regulations prohibit the release of bonded liquor destined for a prohibition country. Where, then, does the liquor come from that rum runners are transporting over the international highways? If it is withdrawn from bond through subterfuge, every gallon of it affronts Canadian law. If it is released by the authorities deliberately, it still is a violation of Canadian law.

The American customs force stationed on the border will pick up suspects, not on the charge of violating Canadian law, but for violating American law. But these suspects will also be wanted by the Canadian authorities, for Canada now has an equal stake with the United States in stopping the flow of liquor across the border.

Apparently it will be necessary for Canada to set up a patrol on the American border to capture violators of the anticlearance regulations.

STATE UNEMPLOYMENT REMEDIES.

Gov. Theodore Christianson of Minnesota has started a movement in that State to guard against unemployment during the coming winter. He will submit a program to the Legislature and attempt to prevent further unemployment rather than cure it. Cooperation of labor and industry will be sought.

Previous attempts to deal with unemployment have failed in part because they were initiated after the cycle of reduced work and reduced purchasing power was set in motion. The ideal toward which all efforts along this line are aimed is stability. That can be achieved only through prevention and not through cure. States that are contemplating activities to offset, the anticipated lack of work during the coming winter can not begin their planning too soon.

Unemployment is still prevalent, but recent weeks have brought a steadying influence into the economic situation. The stock market shows a disposition toward recovery, and business seems to have established an even, if somewhat slackened, pace. Unemployment is relieved to some extent by the tourist trade and the agricultural harvest. But an honest forecast of prospects for the winter leaves much to be desired. Winter always brings considerable unemployment because of the cessation of agricultural work, and conditions in farming districts may become acute this year.

State governments that are endeavoring to meet the situation are to be commended. Unemployment was one of the foremost subjects of discussion at the recent governors' conference in Salt Lake City, and many ideas were developed in the symposium. Gov. John H. Trumbull of Connecticut has returned to his State advocating reduction of the number of working hours per day. He calls attention to statistics showing that a man working an hour produces as much today as he could in 32 hours 75 years ago. Until the country can consume more of the necessities and luxuries turned out by industry he believes the working day should be cut down so as to distribute wages and purchasing power among the entire working class.

State officials are in a much better position to know the needs of their respective regions than is the Federal administration. They have more facilities for cooperation with industry and labor. If the States make a determined effort to stimulate private enterprise and public works the need for other forms of relief may be largely eliminated.

Statements in praise of Senator Norris are stolen from the office of his manager. They'll be easily hidden.

Pilot lands plane in pitch darkness at a local airport. That's nothing! Look what's going on in the Senate day after day.

Over in Norway they've developed a plant for ripening bananas. If a Norwegian can get a ripe banana he has it all over the rest of the world.

NO MORE BUREAUCRACY

From the Richmond Times-Dispatch.

For many years efforts have been made by certain members of Congress to create a Federal department of education. This new governmental agency would be directed by a Cabinet member, equal in authority with the others who sit at the President's council table. The movement has been fought consistently by those who see in the bureaucratic tendency at Washington a distinct menace to American institutions as they were conceived and established by the founding fathers.

But this fight has not yet been won. Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, has announced that he will call up at the next session of Congress his bill to create this department. Because of the fact that it is thought generally that such a measure, enlisting the Federal Government in the cause of public instruction, would promote the interests of that cause, the Capper proposal enjoys a popular appeal it does not deserve. There is another side of the picture which all thoughtful Americans should consider carefully.

The rights of States already have dwindled to the vanishing point. In the process of evolution the Federal Government has been ceded authority which originally was not intended for it to exercise. The States have relinquished to Washington the right to control the liquor traffic. They have ratified the woman's suffrage amendment to the Constitution, which relinquished to the central government an important State power. It has been proposed by Congress, and several States have acceded to the proposal, that child labor come under the supervision of Washington.

To permit now the establishment of a department of education would be to sanction another vital departure from the original scheme of American government. In this country it is essential that the public school systems be directed locally. We have a polyglot population which does not admit of interference by the Washington government with our programs of education. Conditions vary with the States. Regulations which would suit New York would be utterly distasteful to Virginia, and vice versa.

The public school system is as yet one thing which has been untouched by the modern tendency toward Federal bureaucratic control. This system is the safeguard of democracy. Its disruption would be a calamity which easily might be measured by the decline of the republic. Short shrift should be made of Senator Capper's bill, if the Kansan dares press it at the next session of Congress. The States already have given up quite enough. Even now they have departed dangerously far from the course charted for them by the wise statesmen who set the Nation on its way. It is high time that Federal encroachment be stopped.

HUMMING BIRD TRAGEDY.

A humming bird tragedy is reported from Vermont. In one of the towns up there, says Nomad in the Boston Transcript, the proprietor of a store had placed in her front window a large and fine bouquet of flowers, just behind the plate glass window. Standing in front of the store, the Nomad's informant saw a humming bird come up and in his swift flight make straight for the flowers. Of course the plate glass window came in his way; and the bird, flying swiftly against the glass, was knocked down dead. The Nomad's informant picked up this poor little beautiful body from the ground; not a breath of life was left in it. The flight of a humming bird, Chapman says, may be 100 miles an hour. This bird is the nearest thing to an airplane of all flying creatures. When this bird flew against the plate glass it was, on a small scale, the same thing as the air mail going against a mountainside of Connecticut, as it did one day, with instantly fatal results to the aviator.

UNPRAISED MERIT.

An eager lad worked side by side
With one who took in work no pride,
And since they labored by the day
And drew each week the self-same pay,
The youngster, missing words of praise,
Wondered if honest effort pays.

He noticed, being bright of eye,
His careless brother's task go by.
Yet what seemed strange, he never heard
A bitter or complaining word,
And wondered: "Can it be the same?
I get no praise; he gets no blame.

"Is merit worth its patient cost?
Is tedious, honest effort lost?
I give my best; he doesn't try,
Yet gets the same reward as I."
And so one night the eager lad
Discussed the question with his dad.

"My boy," said he, "nor praise nor blame
Of good and bad can make the same.
In self-respect high effort pays,
Good work without one word of praise
Is better than performance faint
Which may be passed without complaint."

If He Keeps Pace With Your Crowd, Why Think His Gait Is Slower?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE desire to be popular is not a product of vanity, but a part of man's instinctive struggle to preserve himself.

Nature and experience combine to teach him that he can accomplish most when he has confidence in himself, and there is no other stiffening for the backbone to compare with the cry of "Atta boy!"

Man's efforts to win popularity are many and varied, and often they are profitless, for the quality called charm is a gift of the gods and "good mixers," like poets, are born to be that way.

But if the ordinary individual cannot win as much popularity as he desires, he can at least avoid the mistakes that would make him unpopular.

Chief of these is the pose of superiority.

Superiority there must be, since no two men are equal, but to seem aware of it or to make pretense of it is to charge others with inferiority and thus forever to sacrifice their good will.

"He thinks he's better than I am" is an indictment that reveals wounded pride and undying resentment.

If the claim of superiority refers to social qualifications or the advantages of birth, the resentment of those classed as inferiors seldom injures the one who gives offense, for he lives among those he regards as equals and cares for no good opinion except theirs.

But to claim superior virtue is to offend all of those who feel respectable—to reproach by making comparison—and to make them doubly resentful because they can not in good taste defend themselves.

And to claim superior intelligence is to offend all men everywhere except the few who agree with you in all particulars.

Each man's opinions are dear to him, and to charge him with inferior intelligence is to belittle every opinion he holds that is contrary to yours.

That is the most common offense, and the one that accounts for the unpopularity of many who are puzzled by the world's coldness.

It is hard to avoid offending, for you know how much you know and experience has taught you that many are stupid, so that you constantly are tempted to repeat the point of your joke, to explain things that need no explaining, and to share your store of knowledge.

It is a fatal mistake, and one that does you little credit; for common sense should teach you that people who behave much as you do are guided by minds as bright as yours.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

EXTRA! FULL TEXT OF THOSE SECRET TREATIES!

Dablyn Crymes, the great detective, has cleared up the matter of the so-called secret naval treaties about which the Senate has been making such a fuss. Dablyn, through a most original ruse, was able to get into the White House and get possession of all the documents. He merely knocked on the door and told Mr. Hoover he was a Huston remover.

* * * *

The documents follow:

No. 3871-D.

(From Ambassador Dawes to the British Ambassador at Washington.)

Mort: Left an umbrella at Buckingham Palace after call on the King and Queen. Is it etiquette to send for it? L. N. MARIAH.

Umbrella is clearly a code word, as it is a well-known fact the ambassador does not carry an umbrella, although he is often seen smoking a malacca cane. What, then, does the word umbrella stand for? Some pledge by Uncle Sam to use only repainted cannon balls? A confidential promise from President Hoover to use outboard motors on all his first-class battleships? Who can say?

* * * *

No. 8749-F.

(From Ramsay MacDonald to Secretary Stimson.)

Stimmie: Thanks very much. Glad you enjoyed visit. Hope you may run over again soon. How's the parrot? R. M.

"Stimmie" may be a code word, although it is probably just a pet name for Mr. Stimson. "Thanks very much" for what? What has Secretary Stimson done to make the British premier so grateful? Why does he hope he will run over again soon? What's the hurry? It is as clear as the nose on your face that the two are cooking up something. And what about the phrase, "How's the parrot?" Mr. Stimson has a parrot, and a good one, but is any United States senator foolish enough to believe that the head of the British government cares how it is? No! Very well, then.

* * * *

No. 36278-K.

(From Queen Mary to President Hoover.)

Herb: Toodle-oo. Jasmine and honeysuckle. Trafalgar Square. Confirm grocery order. Cheerio. MARY.

This, in the opinion of most senators, is the most significant document unearthed. Does any one suppose Queen Mary is discussing botany with the President of the United States? Of course not. "Jasmine" and "Honeysuckle" are code names, probably for two superdreadnaughts. "Trafalgar Square" is a reference to Admiral Nelson. And what does Queen Mary mean by the cryptic phrase, "Confirm grocery order?" Solve that and you will have a first-class naval scandal.

* * * *

No. 5782-M.

(Jottings on a slip of paper that fell from the pocket of an American member of the naval limitations delegation shortly after his return to this country.)

Veal cutlets.
1 loaf rye bread.
½ dozen eggs.
1 jar raspberry jam.
2 pounds sugar.
3 lemons.

Apparently an innocent little grocery list. But don't let it fool you. On those cutlets may hang the fate of the Nation.

WHAT GOES UP—

The Guggenheim millions will back Dr. Robert H. Goddard's rocket flight to the moon. But the return trip will have to take care of itself.

The per capita wealth of the United States is only $2.32 less than a year ago. Yeah!

Mme. Magda Lupescu has dyed her hair black and is reported to be in communication with King Carol. Probably it wouldn't be queenlike for Marie to treat the lady's eyes similarly.

Mr. Paul Mellon, son of the Secretary of the Treasury, has gone to work in a bank. It's probably so much like home to him.

Something is wrong. Dry agents seized a yacht on suspicion of being a rum carrier, and they were right!

A Wall street brokerage house has been suspended for three years. This will keep it on the sidelines almost as long as last October's operators.

Three years is a pretty stiff suspension, but there was no request that it be split four to one.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Dr. Robertson Glances Over Editorial Page and Sends in Pertinent Criticism.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a subscriber to The Post, I have been especially interested in reading your editorial page of July 15. First, I wish to commend your editorial, "Public Opposes Postal Increase." You have rendered a public service. But does the public really oppose it in any effective way? The opposition exists, and rightly so. But it has no voice. Consequently, Congress and the Postoffice Department have it all their own way. You might have mentioned that some of the postal rates are already too high. For instance, the rates on magazines. A letter from a correspondent on the same page suggests that the parcel post is partly responsible for the alleged deficit. I think there should be no atttack on that branch of the service.

On the other hand, I do not approve of your editorial, "White House Expenses," especially this sentence: "In the eyes of the world the President is underpaid." This pleasant fiction has been repeated too often. Such statements in an influential paper invite further wasting of the public funds by Congress. In my judgment the whole editorial should have been refused admission to your columns.

I was interested in the letter of J. W. C. Williams, headed "Sojourner Finds It Hard to Get Library Card." Although a resident of Washington, and fairly well acquainted here, I have myself been embarrassed by a similar library requirement. Libraries might well drop the custom of requiring the name of a guarantor who will assume responsibility for a person who wishes to draw books. Such a requirement is old-fashioned, and it is red tape. Requirement of a cash deposit would be better, if anything is required.

I note on the same page your brief follow-up of your antinoise campaign in quoting this from the Macon Telegraph: "Washington police have launched a campaign against mechanical loud speakers."

Under the heading "Just a Moment," this caught my attention: "Arrival depends on avoidance of sidetracking." Edgar Guest's poem, "June Pays a Visit," is fine.

Since Farm Board Can Not Dispose of Wheat It Has Stored Why Not Give It to Chinese Famine Victims?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Could anything be more reprehensible than a Government agency (the Farm Board) gambling in the commodity market with the taxpayers' money? The theory and action of this board would shock the low intelligence of a moron, and the merest tyro in economics would stand aghast at their action and could accurately have predicted the results of its folly in trying to corner the wheat market. The board has already lost $30,000,000 of the taxpayers' money on the 100,000,000 bushels of wheat it bought, and it is now being urged to buy 100,000,000 more with the vain and foolish idea of thereby boosting the price. The taxpayers have been robbed and the farmer swindled. The farmer has received no benefit from this exploit, but on the contrary has been badly hurt. While it would have been wrong in principle, it would have been much better to give this money to the farmers direct. They would have got some benefit, as intended, whereas everybody has been hurt and no one benefited. The Government will never be able to dispose of this wheat it has bought. I would, therefore, suggest that it be sent to the Chinese, who are starving, provided they will pay for its transportation.

Virginia Democrat Cheers for Mary Logan Tucker and Is Tempted to Come Out for Dwight Morrow.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A million cheers for Mary Logan Tucker for the sentiment expressed in her letter appearing in The Post on the 15th, in which the Methodist Board of Temperance and Public Morals, the would-be director, not only of our political parties, but of our personal habits and morals, is given a timely and much needed warning in its attempt to dictate to the Republican party whom it shall nominate or not nominate for President in 1932. While the vast majority of Methodists and Protestants generally of this country feel exactly as she does about the fanatical thinkings of this and other so-called temperance and church organizations, not every one has the courage to publicly denounce their antics.

While I am a Baptist and a lifelong Democrat I would be sorely tempted to vote the Republican ticket for once in my life, if that party should nominate for President in 1932 the very able and great statesman, Dwight W. Morrow.

Late Morning Mail Delivery an Inconvenience to Office Workers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Is there not some way by which we can secure a reform in the delivery of the mail in this city? Most of the residents of the city are in some kind of employment, and must be at their place of employment by 9 o'clock in the morning. Frequently they are expecting important mail, but in most cases the postman does not reach their homes until after that hour.

I live in the northern part of the city, a few doors from Fourteenth street. When the regular postman is on duty he never reaches my house until after 9 o'clock, generally about 9:30, and frequently much nearer 10. I must wait until that late hour or make two trips down into the city. For more than two weeks the regular carrier has been on duty, a substitute taking his place. Under the substitute I have received my mail every morning before 8:15. If the substitute can deliver the mail at that early hour, why can not the regular carrier do it?

Hoovers Give Garden Fete For Veterans

White House Scene of Annual Party for Wounded Men.

As the shadows of late afternoon danced beneath the trees on the White House lawns yesterday, the President and Mrs. Hoover received the war veterans of the service hospitals at the annual garden fete while the Marine Band played gaily and official Washington moved in colorful groups among the honor guests to make of the event the crowning fete of midsummer. The first large party given at the White House for many weeks because of the First Lady's recent illness, the garden party for the soldiers and sailors lent a picturesque aspect to July days, always somewhat drab from a social standpoint.

With bright marquees where refreshments were served, with girls from all parts of the Union, "bouquets of the States," passing ices and smokes, and with the veterans themselves in high spirits, the fete yesterday, carrying out the tradition of gay festivity for veterans established during the Wilson administration, was brought to a successful climax under the cordiality extended by the President and Mrs. Hoover.

While White House aids in white duck uniforms marshaled official groups in line, the President and Mrs. Hoover received on the South lawn. They greeted the guests of honor. The First Lady, ill for many weeks, appeared particularly gay and lovely in her smart gown of black and white printed chiffon, with which she wore a black crin hat with a smart bow of black velvet. Her large raffia bag gave color to the costume.

Each veteran was received by the President and Mrs. Hoover with a firm handclasp and gay little personal inquiries.

Following the veterans in the line were: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, the latter wearing a blue and flame colored printed chiffon, with a braided baku hat, and carrying a small French bag.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson came early, the center of an animated group of guests, Mrs. Stimson looking lovely in a black and white printed chiffon gown with a black hat of the new brimmed type so much in vogue.

Several Members Of Cabinet Present.

Although many of the Cabinet members and their wives have left Washington for the summer, all who have remained in town attended the fete. Secretary Mellon attended, as did the Secretary of War, Mr. Patrick J. Hurley, although Mrs. Hurley was not present. Mrs. Brown, wife of the Postmaster General, who came with Mr. W. Irving Glover, assistant postmaster general, was a stunning picture in grey chiffon, with fur scarf and hat of black. The Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Robert Patterson Lamont, moved about among the guests and Mrs. James J. Davis, wife of the Secretary of Labor, found the afternoon a busy one, engaged as she was in entertaining the veterans in her capacity as member of the Grey Ladies.

Everyone missed Gen. Charles P. Summerall, who is in the South on a tour of inspection, but Mrs. Summerall upheld the honors of the family, chatting with the soldiers and sailors and looking very smart in pink lace.

Mrs. Jahncke, wife of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, who has been in North Carolina for a part of the summer, came on for the party. She wore a picturesque model of printed pink net and a hat of beige straw. Like a Dresden figure, Mrs. Seth Richardson's dress of embroidered blue net over pink, with blue felt and edged with pink grosgrain, was well chosen. With her was Mr. Richardson, Assistant Attorney General.

Mr. Wilbur J. Carr, Assistant Secretary of State, and Mrs. Carr were there, Mrs. Carr having chosen green crepe and matching hat. Also wearing green was Mrs. Walter I. Newton, who came with Mr. Newton, Secretary to the President.

Although Representative Ruth Bryan Owen was not there, being in Europe, and Representative Ruth McCormick had other business in Chicago, Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers, representative from Massachusetts and sponsor of numerous veterans' bills, upheld in spirited manner the feminine end of the House as she moved about among the men, all of whom are devoted to her and many of them are old friends of the woman who has looked after their needs through three administrations. Mrs. Rogers has been an active Grey Lady for many years.

Grey Ladies Assist In Entertaining Men.

The Grey Ladies were much in evidence, chatting with the veterans and assisting them about the gardens. They were headed by Mrs. James J. Davis, who came from her summer home in Ventnor, N. J., for the event.

Others in the group were Mrs. John Bowman, one of the newer members of the organization, although old in service, as she did Grey Lady work in New York in 1918. She was seen yesterday afternoon conversing with Miss Elizabeth Ramage, one of the oldest of the group in point of service. Mrs. Eldridge Jordan, very picturesque in a gray costume, was seen throughout the afternoon wheeling one of her "pet boys" on a stretcher. She was assisted by her pretty niece, Miss Virginia Peters. Miss Francesca McKenney, with her two cousins, Mrs. Arthur Wallace Dunn and Mrs. Blain Mallan, were busy with refreshments in a far corner of the garden, until they were called to the foreground to be photographed. Other Grey Ladies there were Mrs. A. G. McClintock, Mrs. Charles S. Robb, Mrs. George Dunlop and Mrs. Arthur McArthur. Mrs. J. Blandford was there, in charge of the Red Cross.

Mrs. Frank T. Hines, wife of Maj. Gen. Hines, chief of the Veterans' Bureau, charmingly explained that the general was absent on a hospital tour and that she was doing her best to represent the family. She wore a costume of rose and white printed crepe, with a smart beige hat and gloves. Dr. and Mrs. William White arrived early in the afternoon, the latter wearing a smart black frock trimmed in bands of ermine.

Mrs. Reed Smoot came with Senator Smoot, and, true to her role these last few days, received many friends who welcomed her to Washington. She wore a flowing chiffon gown, printed in rose and beige, and a black hat.

Mrs. Joel T. Boone, wife of Capt. Boone, physician to the President, was in a smart suit of white crepe, printed in many bright colors, and wore a small green and tan straw hat.

Mrs. Willard Holbrook, pretty wife of Lieut. Holbrook, who has recently returned from her wedding trip, received a group of Army friends. She wore a frock of white organdie, with a large white straw hat.

The former Ambassador to France and Mrs. Hugh C. Wallace are sailing tomorrow on the S. S. Paris having closed their house in Massachusetts avenue and left for New York.

The jacket suit of linen, cotton or shantung holds a prominent place in the mode.

All the smartest folk are wearing jackets.

No wonder for its popularity! It is so thoroughly comfortable, chic and practical.

Printed linen in marine blue and white of sports weight makes this interesting model. The simulated tuck-in blouse is of sheer white linen. The scalloped edge of the collar and jabot and cuffs are piped in plain blue.

Style No. 623 may be had in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

Yellow shantung with the bodice of white shantung printed in yellow polka dot is very chic.

Red and white pique print with white-dotted swiss is ultra-new.

Price of pattern, 15 cents. Address Fashion Department, Washington Post, 259 Fifth avenue, New York City.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me during Change of Life. I had to lie down most of the time because I felt so weak and I could not stand the least bit of noise, I was that nervous. I felt blue and could cry if anyone looked at me. I could not sleep or eat but I am much better now and am able to work every day. I certainly do recommend the Vegetable Compound and I will write to any woman about it."—Mrs. J. James.

MRS. H. C. HENRY

"I used to be as tired when I got up as when I went to bed. I had fainting spells and palpitation. It was my age. I found a Lydia E. Pinkham booklet in my mail box and I started taking the Vegetable Compound three times a day. I am now a well woman. Three of my neighbors know what it did for me so they are taking it too. I will write to any woman if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help her as it did me."—Mrs. H. C. Henry.

EDUCATIONAL BANK COMMITTEE NAMED

Group Planning to Expand Institute's Classes Within Year.

DOOLEY MADE CHAIRMAN

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

A strong educational committee to provide an important and expansive program for classes of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, during the next school year was named yesterday by its chairman Aubrey O. Dooley, assistant trust officer of the Federal-American National Bank and first vice president of the chapter.

Members of the committee, among the most energetic of the chapter, are the following: Mr. Dooley, chairman, Richard A. Norris, Lincoln National Bank; vice chairman; Anne P Crawford, McLachlen Banking Corporation, secretary; Harold W. Burnside, Riggs National Bank; S. Winifred Burwell, National Metropolitan Bank; J. Fred English, Commercial National Bank; A. E. Henze, W. B. Hibbs & Co.; Henry F. Kimball, American Security & Trust Co., Robert H. Lacey, Columbia National Bank; Robert E. Lee, Lincoln National Bank; T. Hunton Leith, Security Savings & Commercial Bank; I. J. Roberts, Riggs National Bank; Mabel V. Royce Washington Loan & Trust Co.; Rose L. Royce, Washington Loan & Trust Co.; Walton L. Sanderson, Federal-American National Bank; James A. Soper, Lincoln National Bank; Mildred C. Woodcock, American Security & Trust Co.

Hershey Chocolate Retirement.

The Hershey Chocolate Corporation, which, as a result of refinancing operations conducted in 1927, had $15,000,000 of 6 per cent cumulative prior preferred stock outstanding in the hands of the public, will have reduced this amount to $3,905,200 on August 15 next, through retirements effected principally out of earnings.

This was made known yesterday by W. P. R Murie, president of the corporation, in connection with a notice being sent to stockholders of the corporation's intention to redeem, on August 15, at a price of $107.50 a share, 30,000 additional shares of the preferred stock.

"Sinking fund operations over the three-year period have resulted in the retirement of $1,350,000 par value of the prior preferred stock," Mr. Murie declared. "In addition, the company has purchased and canceled $6,744,800 of this stock, and the current redemption will reduce the amount outstanding by another $3,000,000.

Satisfactory Business Seen.

"Every sign points to a very satisfactory last half year," he added. "The volume of our business during the first six months of the current year exceeded the level of the same period last year, both as to sales and profits."

The notice which is being sent to stockholders, many of whom are Washingtonians, points out that the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share due August 15, will not be mailed to holders of shares which have been drawn by lot, but will be paid to registered holders on redemption.

Fernand Petit, formerly in the local banking and mortgage financing fields, has entered the insurance business, according to announcement yesterday.

Mrs. Alma Shevlin has been designated Washington representative of,

WALTER P. CHRYSLER PRESENTS TWO NEW STRAIGHT EIGHTS

All progress is change.

Only by change do man and the factors of his civilization move from the lower to the higher state; from the cruder to the finer development.

Our Chrysler engineers devote their lives to study, to analysis, to experimentation. And out of this constant searching and trying come the knowledge, conviction and decision that lead to progress.

In announcing two complete lines of New Straight Eights, in addition to our lower-priced Chrysler Sixes, we now register our most important change and progress—all designed, all worked for, all created to give the world better and more satisfying transportation.

In our progress there is no departure from fundamental principles.

To maintain public approbation, we must give always finer, more dependable, more dynamic car performance—must offer always greater value, as well as cars better suited to the needs of modern transport.

Thus, our latest Chryslers—the new Chrysler Eight and the new Chrysler Imperial Eight—containing as they do, outstanding engineering and style improvements—are, we believe, milestones along the course of automobile progress.

We are proud and eager to submit these cars to the inspection and test of the public.

THE GIRL IN THE AIR - -

BY JULIE ANNE MOORE

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Three-Fingers! . . . Janet found she hadn't the strength to rise from her knees. . . . How well she remembered him that night, coming out of the telephone booth . . . struggling to put her into his car . . . speeding away with Hugh helpless in the back seat.

And now he stood coolly, confidently surveying them over the menacing barrel of the automatic, obviously uncertain as to the next move.

Hugh's voice startled her. "It's a rather difficult situation, eh, Three-Fingers?" she heard him saying, his voice as casual as though he had been speaking to Henry Frenda. "Bumping off a couple of individuals like Belter and Creel is one thing; but murdering three innocent people just because they happen to be between you and your loot is quite another, I take it. It's a devilish predicament, and you've no idea how my heart goes out to you." Hugh laughed softly and lowered his arms a bare inch.

"Keep 'em up!" Three-Fingers commanded sharply. "You think I'm afraid to plug you?"

"Fact is," Hugh replied easily, "I think you are, Three-Fingers. Because, as you have already figured out for yourself, when you plug me, you'll be forced to do the same to my friends here, and that's a pretty thick assignment for even a big-time gunman like you. By the way——"

"Shut up!" Three-Fingers took a step forward, the automatic still covering Hugh. "I'll do what talking's to be done here. . . . Young lady," he snapped at Janet; "pull that package out of the hole and bring it here to me!"

Janet did not move, but her eyes sought Hugh's.

"Don't mind him, Janet," Hugh smiled down at her. "He's trying to find a solution to a most distressing problem and that's his clumsy way of going about it."

"Listen, you!" Three-Fingers hissed at Hugh. "I'm going to have that jack. Understand? Murder's not in my line, but damned if I don't drop the three of you if you don't do as I say. . . . Get that stuff out, girl, and be quick about it!"

Still Janet made no move.

"I wonder," Hugh said vaguely, "if you realize, Three-Fingers, that this place is practically surrounded by police by now? . . . Oh, I'm not bluffing. . . . We found your hat with the cunning little red feather in it last night, you know, and," Hugh lied, "the money, of course. We had a pretty fair idea you'd come back, and . . . here you are. Now the best thing you can do is to throw that play pretty away and take your chances that they——"

The bandit's pose was gone now. His eyes shifted nervously and, while he kept the automatic trained on Hugh, he began to move backward slowly. Hugh had told a convincing story. They had found his hat and laid a trap for him.

But he was not to give himself up without a struggle. Police or no police, he was going to get out of there. Slowly, a few inches at a time, he moved back toward the door leading outside. . . . Once, as he came opposite the side window, he glanced out quickly, then flourished his weapon at the quiet little group. "When I get out of here," he cried back at them, "I'm going to watch this door, and the first head that pops up I'm going to fill it full of lead!"

His free hand, held out behind him, was on the cellar door now. Janet's breath was coming in short gasps. What she was most afraid of was that once he got outside and saw that Hugh had lied about the police, he would immediately be back, determined to have the money at any cost.

She watched the door behind him swing open slowly, saw him easing out toward the steps that would take him into the open.

Then his harsh voice came back in a final warning: "Stay where you are for five minutes, if you know what's good for you."

And then he had gone, pulling the door shut after him.

Janet fairly threw herself into the excavation behind her and caught up the package of currency. "Hugh! Quick! Take it up the inside steps before he comes back!"

Hugh took the package, thrust it into Henry's arms, and pulled Janet out of the old well. "Come on," he called, "we're all going up."

They dashed up the stairs, Henry and his burden ahead, and came out in Mrs. Frenda's kitchen.

"Where's the telephone?"

Janet said quickly: "Shut that money up in the pantry, Henry, and stay with it. I'll show him the phone."

She ran ahead of Hugh into the living room and pointed to the telephone on the wall. Then she dropped on all fours and crawled to the nearest window. The yard and the road leading out to the highway were deserted. Three-Fingers had disappeared.

Hugh joined her by the window "See him?" he asked, shortly.

"No; but keep down, Hugh. He hasn't had time to get away. He's probably waiting for us to go out."

"I don't think so. Three-Fingers is all nerves, Janet. I've an idea he cut back into the woods on that side of the house. It's a wonder he didn't try to get off in our car."

"You don't think he'll come back?"

"I know he wont. If he came back, he might have to shoot somebody, and Three-Fingers is chicken hearted. Remember how he went to all the trouble of dragging me off to a shack in the woods when he could more easily have put a bullet in my head and dropped me by the road?"

"Yes, but—but he killed Belter and Creil, didn't he?"

Hugh hurried across the room and peered out the west window. "Not a sign of life," he said. "Three-Fingers is better than Houdini." He went back to the front window and stared out toward the highway. "I wonder what's keeping them?" he asked, impatiently.

"Who, Hugh?"

"I 'phoned to the field for some of the boys to hurry down here. They've had time——"

Janet cried suddenly: "There they come now! Thank heaven! I want to get out of here."

Three machines turned into the road leading up to the house and came on at high speed.

The sound of some one coming down the stairs behind them brought Janet about nervously. It was Mrs. Frenda.

"I'm sorry," she said, holding out a hand to Janet. "Henry told me you were coming, but I didn't hear you drive up. Henry's arrival sort of took my strength and I went up to lie down for a bit. Where is he?"

"Henry?" Janet jerked her head toward the kitchen. "He's in your pantry guarding what he found in the cellar. . . . Won't you sit down, Mrs. Frenda? . . . I want to tell you something, but you mustn't let it upset you in the least. We just saw a man on the premises that may have been one of the bandits who stole the money Henry found, and the noise you hear out there is being made by some men from the field. They've come to search for him. . . . You won't let it worry you, will you?"

Mrs. Frenda indulged in a tired little smile. "Nothing can worry me now, dear. Henry came in just in time for breakfast and said they'd cleared him of all charges. . . . Do you know what that means to me?" Her eyes filled up suddenly and the tears rolled down her cheeks. "He's all I've got, Miss Decker, but if he'd done what they'd hinted——"

"I know, I know," Janet assured her sympathetically. "Didn't I tell you he hadn't done anything and that he'd be back with you soon?"

Mrs. Frenda smiled through her tears. "Of course you did, but—I didn't know but what you were just trying to make me feel good——"

* * * *

The man-hunt continued throughout the morning and half the afternoon without success. The police, called shortly after the arrival of the airport employes, joined the search a little later and no thicket was left unbeaten, no road unpatrolled. . . . But Three-Fingers could not be found.

While Janet, Mrs. Frenda and Henry chatted over lunch as if nothing out of the ordinary had happened, Hugh had rewrapped the package of currency in old newspapers and sent it off under heavy guard to a Waterbury bank, with instructions that he be called when it was safely deposited in a vault. Within the hour an official of the bank called and removed one burden from their minds.

As the afternoon wore on the men came in, one by one, weary and disappointed. They had discovered no trace of the bandit.

Two detectives were detailed to stay the night at the Frenda house and Hugh was assured that with the close watch being kept at all points in the vicinity, Three Fingers would have little opportunity to escape.

Hugh called Janet shortly after 4 o'clock and they departed in Tolbert's car for the airport. "With Dick away, I ought to have been there all day," he told her. "You don't mind entertaining yourself there for an hour or two, do you, Janet?"

"Of course not," she assured him; "but isn't there something I can be doing while I'm waiting? . . . It'll be my last time at the office, you know."

Hugh did not seem particularly surprised. "You couldn't very well continue as Tolbert's stenographer under the circumstances," he agreed. "But the place will seem like a first-class cemetery without you, Janet. . . . By the way, if you aren't in any hurry to get home, why not wait for Tolbert at the field? He'll be highly flattered, and there'll probably be plenty to keep me busy until 9 or 10 o'clock."

"Hugh!" Janet caught his arm as suddenly that the car swerved from the road as they came up behind the administration building and barely missed a telephone pole. "I must have lost my mind, Hugh; you've got to wire Mr. Tolbert at once!"

"My! What's all the excitement?"

"About the code. I translated the last line last night, and you'll have to warn him before he starts back. They plan to follow the pakage from the bank to the field."

She gave him the code message word for word.

"Frankly, Janet," Hugh said after a brief silence, "I don't think there's any danger, as I told you before. The gang is pretty well demoralized, and, except for the common thugs they've employed to do the dirty work, I doubt if anyone is left to direct a holdup. Outside of Three-Fingers, of course, and he isn't in Boston. . . . But I'll put through a long distance call at once and tell him what you've learned."

As they entered the administration building, Hugh instructed the girl at the switchboard to get Tolbert at the Boston airport but it was more than twenty minutes later that the toll operator reported that Tolbert was not at the field, but was expected any minute.

At 5 o'clock Hugh tried again, and once more was told that Tolbert was not yet at the field. Janet, sitting on a desk opposite the switchboard, was growing uneasy, but Hugh told her, laughing, that she had nothing to worry about.

"It's just good dusk now," he told her, "and they'll be counting on darkness to cover their movements. . . . Go on in and keep Miss Sears company."

Reluctantly Janet slid from the desk and followed instructions.

Miss Sears, busy at her typewriter, did not look up until Janet called her name. Then she got up quickly and put her hands on Janet's shoulders in a strained attempt to be affectionate. "It seems as if I haven't seen you for days and days," she declared warmly. "And you don't know how good it is to have someone to talk to for a change. With all the—the bloodshed that's been going on around here lately, this place has become positively spooky."

"Not only this place," Janet supplemented; "but every place I go. Do you know, Miss Sears, I've never been afraid of anything in my life, but here lately I've even been nervous in my own bed. . . . Did they tell you about the man-hunt down at Mrs. Frenda's?"

Miss Sears made a gesture to suggest complete disgust. "Yes, she said irritably, "and if the police had half tried, they could have caught him. A human being can't just disappear in thin air like that."

Janet slipped out of her coat and pulled her chair out by Miss Sears' desk. "Mr. Temple came with me," she said casually. "He's trying to get a call through to Mr. Tolbert at Boston." She saw the color rise to the wholesome cheeks of the young woman before her and wondered if the prospect of seeing Tolbert again would bring as pleasurable a blush to her own cheeks.

Janet remembered how much she had disliked Miss Sears for her reticence and efficient reserve during her first few days with the Great Eastern. Now she saw that these were the qualities that unsentimental, unimaginative Hugh appreciated. She begrudged Miss Sears nothing, but she was conscious of a keen regret that she, too, had not been endowed with those qualities whereby she might have drawn to her the man whom, she had discovered when it was too late, she had loved from the first moment she had heard his voice over the telephone long, long ago.

Miss Sears' voice brought her rudely back to the present. "I suppose Mr. Temple has told you," Miss Sears was saying, "that he is taking me to Hartford tonight to the theater?"

"He merely said he had an engagement," Janet told her with mingled feelings of envy and resentment. "I hope he doesn't have to disappoint you. He said something as we drove up from Mrs. Frenda's about his absence from the office all day making it necessary for him to work late tonight."

"Oh," said Miss Sears. "I hadn't thought of that. Perhaps I'd better ask him. I don't want him to feel under any obligation to leave on my account. Is he out in the office?"

Janet nodded. "I left him by the switchboard. He's probably still trying to get Mr. Tolbert."

Miss Sears excused herself and went to the main office, leaving the door half open as she passed through. Instantly the door opened Janet recognized Hugh's voice, loud and tense.

"Yes," she heard him saying, "but if they took off before 5 o'clock, why was I told a few minutes ago that they hadn't arrived at the field? . . . Tolbert told you to say that? Why? . . . All right, all right! . . . Will you call me as soon as they've been definitely identified . . .?

Janet, at the mention of Tolbert's name, had hurried into the main office and was standing at his elbow as he set the telephone down on the desk that had been Belter's.

"Hugh . . ." She tried vainly to keep her voice calm, but the walls of the big room threw the word back at her in a weird cry . . . "What's happened . . .?"

"I'm not sure, Janet," Hugh told her quietly. "They say now Tolbert and Dick took off before 5 o'clock, leaving word that any one who might call was to be told they had not arrived at the field yet . . ."

"Then they're on their way here now . . .!"

Hugh shifted his gaze quickly. "Yes," he said after a moment; "they ought to be, but——"

"But what, Hugh . . .?" She clutched at his sleeve and made him look at her. "What was it you said about 'definite identification' . . .?"

"Oh, that was nothing," he told her, his eyes belieing his apparent unconcern. "They've just had a vague report that a plane crashed about 5 miles from Worcester sending one man to the hospital and—and killing the other. But—" he added hastily—"they don't even know who they were yet."

Janet sank into the nearest chair with a groan and buried her face in her hands. She knew who they were, but. . . . "Oh, God!" she cried hopelessly, "if I only knew which one was killed. . . .!"

When Pain Comes
Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor, Charles H. Phillips, since 1875.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU "CANCER."

IF July 17 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:30 a. m. to 10 a. m., 3 p. m. to 6 p. m. and 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 5:30 a. m. to 7 a. m. and 2 p. m. to 3 p. m.

This date may mark the beginning of trade boom and prosperity. Success will come through your own particular work and individual effort. Avoid borrowing money. Financial annoyance through an elderly person, a probable relative.

Children born on this July 17 will be energetic, but they will be too scatter-brained during their period of youth to crystallize their efforts to advantage. They will have a delightful sense of humor, and will get a great deal of pleasure out of life.

You have a very good mind and thought control; you do not often "woo! gather." You alertly pay attention to what is happening around you, and interest yourself in your tasks and duties. The minutest details do not escape your eye and they do not bore you. Your interest and attention, of course, are the secrets of your reliable memory, which is such a time-saver. You seldom forget names or faces, and you are equally good on facts.

The firm and decisive part of your face is redeemed by the humorous twinkle in your eyes. You can be both stern and commanding, but somehow people are never afraid of you. It is very easy for you to discipline others; but you, of course, have excellent discipline over self.

Like most warm-hearted people, are quick to take offense, and you often foolishly give up friendships which have meant a great deal to you You must learn to both forgive and to forget Most of your faults proceed from an over-active mind, which can never be quiet—morning, noon or night If you have no one to love, you quarrel for want of want of something better to do. You are constantly planning for yourself and everybody, and your restlessness of spirit may wear you out. When in a good humor, you can be very charming. You will acquire a most extensive knowledge of nature. You can also be a most entertaining conversationalist.

Successful people born July 17:

THE STRANGE GIRL DID NOT SEEM TO UNDERSTAND.
TUCK ISSO MUH!
THOSE ARE MY CLOTHES! YOU TOOK THEM! GIVE THEM TO ME! WHAT'S THE MATTER? DON'T YOU UNDERSTAND THE MARTIAN LANGUAGE?
BUT WHEN WILMA REACHED FOR HER CLOTHING—
GIVE ME MY CLOTHES I TELL YOU!
RIKKO MUH ISSO! EEEEEK!
WILMA'S JUMPING BELT HELPED HER LITTLE AS SHE PURSUED THE MYSTERIOUS GIRL THROUGH THE DENSE MARTIAN FOREST.
I'LL MAKE YOU GIVE THEM TO ME.

GASOLINE ALLEY — Glad Tidings

GOOD NEWS, PHYLLIS! IT'S SETTLED SKEEZIX GETS $300,000 IN CASH FROM MME. OCTAVE. THEN SHE TAKES THE SHIP LINES AND SKEEZIX GETS THE BRAZILIAN FORESTS.
$300,000 IN CASH! THAT'S WHAT INTERESTS ME RIGHT NOW, WALT. THAT'S WONDERFUL!
CODA'S ESTATE WAS PRACTICALLY TEN MILLION DOLLARS. ATTORNEYS' FEES AND COSTS OF ADMINISTRATION WILL BE A MILLION, WHICH WILL TAKE ALL THE QUICK ASSETS — CASH, STOCKS, SECURITIES ETC. THAT LEAVES OCTAVE'S SHARE THREE MILLION AND OURS SIX.
THE SHIP LINES ARE WORTH MORE THAN HER THIRD INTEREST SO SHE IS WILLING TO RAISE $300,000 CASH TO MAKE UP THE DIFFERENCE. THAT WILL BE ALL WE COULD POSSIBLY WANT FOR IMMEDIATE NEEDS AND SKEEZIX'S FUTURE. IT'S A WONDERFUL SETTLEMENT.
IT'S GRAND, WALT! WHEN DO WE GET IT!

STOCKS WEATHER ATTACK BY BEARS

American Telephone Drops 3½ Points, but Many Issues Gain Later.

INDUSTRIALS HEAD RISE

New York, July 16 (A.P.).—Stocks easily rode out a squall of short selling today and the bull faction piloted the market to net gains of 1 to 3 points in a broad list of issues.

Trading, although reduced in volume, was particularly active in the motor and oil shares, led by General Motors, Chrysler and Standards of New Jersey and New York. Most of the day's net declines seemed to be the result of profit taking, which was especially noticeable in American Telephone, off 3½ points after yesterday's advance of nearly 9.

The irregularity of Tuesday's movements emboldened the bear crowd, especially in the early and midday dealings. Pressing the advantage gained in the lower opening, which reflected further profit taking, the shorts sold rather steadily during the morning and were instrumental in breaking prices 1 to 4 points. It was soon evident, however, that strong resistance was being offered and the market turned extremely dull. The bulls brought the list out of its lethargy with an afternoon demonstration which embraced a wide representation of stocks, including the rubbers.

Oil Shares Active.

More favorable news from the petroleum fields attracted good buying to the leading producing and refining shares. The daily average output in the past week proved to be the lowest of the year, while gasoline stocks showed a marked decrease. Accumulation went forward in the group, bringing advances of 1 to 3 points in Standard of New Jersey, Standard of New York, Sun Oil and Pierce preferred.

Reports that the motor industry would show to fair advantage in the second half year were strengthened by a consideration of the companies' statistical position, which now shows an extensive readjustment to current conditions. General Motors, Chrysler, Marmon and Nash were up 1½ to more than 2 points and were joined in the last half hour by Goodrich Rubber, Goodyear Tire and United States Rubber, which rallied 2 to 3. Some of the accessories, including Electric Auto-Lite, also gained strength.

The day in the money markets was enlivened by a $4,000,000 gold shipment to Paris, reflecting the recent advance in the French franc. Imports more than offset the outgoing metal, however, for $5,000,000 was received from Brazil and $1,000,000 from Uruguay. Bankers expressed only passing interest in the export movement, pointing out that this country could lose a large quantity of the yellow metal without serious effect on existing money rates.

Call funds renewed at 2 per cent, a half per cent below yesterday's rate. Accomodations were offered in the outside market as low as 1½. Short term time loans hardened, giving evidence of a slightly better demand.

Iron Reviews Vary.

The weekly steel reviews were at some variance. Iron Age saw signs of improvement in the scrap and pig iron markest, pointing out that "the situation as a whole shows that lack of definite trend which frequently precedes a turn," however, the publication's composite prices for pig iron showed a slight decline. Steel, formerly Iron Trade Review, saw nothing to warrant expectation of decided improvement this month or next, adding that some producers had concluded that no broader commitments for raw materials would be required before September.

Commission houses were inclined to believe that much of the stock buying has been professional and that the advance so far has drawn a limited outside following, with the inference that technical movements in both directions were possible if not probable, pending a change in business.

Industrial favorites displayed a quiet strength and made the best average gain. Du Pont, A. M. Byers, American Rolling Mill, Hershey, United Aircraft and Worthington Pump advanced 2 to 3 points, while General Electric and Foster Wheeler rose more than a point. U. S. Steel, after dipping nearly 2 points below the previous close, came back to a new high for the recovery at 164⅞, up ½. Borden, Columbian Carbon, Electric Power & Light, Hershey Chocolate, Northern Pacific, United Aircraft and J. I. Case were well supported. U. S. Industrial Alcohol rose nearly 7.

Wheat was heavy, declining a cent net on forecasts of rain in the Northwest, showers in Canada and hedge selling. Corn sold off fractionally. The cotton market here was quiet and irregular, closing at the small variations of a point higher to a point lower.

Foreign exchanges were firm. Sterling cables moved up nominally, while the Canadian dollar established a small premium.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, July 16 (A.P.).—Trading in cotton was comparatively quiet here today, and prices moved irregularly within a range of some 10 to 20 points. After selling off from 12.98 to 12.90 July contracts rallied to 13.09 and closed at 13.03, while the new October list sold off from 12.80 to 12.70, then rallied to 12.86 and closed at 12.77. The general market closed steady, net 1 point lower to 1 point higher.

The opening was steady at an advance of 5 points to a decline of 1 point, in response to the steadier showing of Liverpool and expectations of bullish features in the weekly report of the Weather Bureau. This initial buying sent prices about 4 to 6 points net higher on the active months, but the demand was soon supplied by realizing, and the market reacted several points before the weekly weather report made its appearance on reports of further showers in the Eastern and some Central belt sections.

Traders found conflictine factors in the weekly report of the Weather Bureau, but its publication seemed to bring in some buying or renewed covering, and the old October sold up to 13.10 with the new December advancing to 13.06 during the middle of the day. At these prices the general market showed net advances of 8 to 16 points, but the demand tapered off later, and there may have been some selling on the detailed weather reports showing rains in the Eastern belt and Alabama. Prices reacted to about yesterday's closing quotations, where they seemed to be steadied by some buying on a belief that Western and some Central belt sections were still in need of rain.

The showing of the weekly weather report was commented upon as favorable with reference to conditions in the Eastern belt and unfavorable as to the West. Aside from covering, local brokers were of the opinion that it failed to stimulate much buying, and the comparatively small volume of business was attributed to an inclination to await further weather and crop developments.

Liverpool cables said that some Bombay selling had been absorbed by some trade buying and covering there. They also reported more inquiry for yarns of both American and Egyptian cotton, but added that an Egyptian boycott of goods was threatened. Exports today, 3,749, making 6,751,796 so far this season. Port receipts, 2,002. United States mort stocks, 1,102,406.

IRREGULAR COURSE PURSUED BY BONDS

Many Foreign and Industrial Issues Score Gains in Active Turnover.

RAIL LIST OFF SLIGHTLY

New York, July 16 (A.P.).—An irregular line charted the movement of fixed income securities on the New York Stock Exchange today. It showed no large spread between the top and bottom, but the domestic list, including some of the high-grade investment issues, suffered considerably from realizing. The course of the best bonds was characteristic of the previous days of the week with a firm undertone apparent and rising tendencies perceptible in some instances.

More interest was displayed in better grade issues in the industrial group whose progress has not kept pace with standard rails and utilities. The averages reflected the buoyancy demonstrated by leaders today, as contrasted with fractional declines in the averages for rails and utilities. Many of the latter have been dormant this week.

Demand for foreign issues was substantial and some issues were strong. The yield on foreign bonds is greater than any other group in the listed market, and they are profiting from the increased interest in fixed income securities.

Anglo-Chilean Nitrate Strong.

Anglo-Chilean Nitrate 7s and Lautaro Nitrate 6s were moderately strong, holding a 1-point gain on news that the Chilean nitrate combine designed to stabilize the industry was virtually assured through favorable action by the Chilean Senate. There was a large turnover in Lautaro 7s.

Both South American and European issues were accumulated. Bolivian 7s and Uruguay 8s gained 1½ points each; Colombia Agricultural Bank 6s, 3, and Chile Mortgage Bank 6s, Chile 6s of March, 1962, and Peru 6s, were well bought. Among European issues, British 5½s sold at the year's peak. Belgian issues were active and, with French and Italian government bonds, held a firm trend. Canadian 4½s reached a new high. Australian bonds were in demand. The 4½ per cent issue gained 1 point. Austrian 7s were a soft spot in the European list, touching a new low. Brazilian issues were weak.

Stock privilege isues were irregular lower, fluctuating with stocks. American Telephone 4½s lost 1½ points of its 5 point gain of yesterday. Railroad convertibles eased fractionally. Among amusement issues, Loews 6s, ex-rights, rose ¾ of a point; Shubert 6s gained 1, while Pathe warrant 7s sagged 3 points.

Missouri Pacific Advances.

Narrow fluctuations marked the movement of rail bonds, with a slightly easier tone prevailing at the close. Atchison 4s, promient legal issue, and Union Pacific 4s both lost ground. Missouri Pacific issues were heavily traded and advanced. Reading Co. 4½s sold at a new high for the year, as did Northern Pacific lien 4s.

Progress among industrials was apparent in the good gains made by Liggett & Myers 7s, McCrory Steel 5½s, Otis Steel 6s, Sinclair Pipe Line 5s and Armour & Co. 5½s. Several new highs were established on the day's movement. Certainteed 5½s rose nearly 3 points. Sugar company issues sought lower ground as sugar futures were depressed.

Treasury issues yielded as much as ¼ of a point in dull trading and all United States Governments closed lower except Liberty fourth 4¼s, which were firm.

NATS DIVIDE BILL WITH INDIANS AS MACKS WIN

Grove Routed But Chisox Bow, 14-7

Shores Scatters Hits as Mates Pile Up Safe Margin.

Miller Leads Attack; 7 Runs in Second Clinch Game.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHICAGO, ILL., July 16. — The Athletics are two-and-one-half games in the lead in the American League standing today as the result of hammering out a 14-to-7 victory over the lowly Chicago White Sox.

Connie Mack's hired men, although getting only fifteen hits of which but four were for extra bases, turned the safeties to such good advantage that there was never any doubt as to the eventual winner.

Ted Lyons was given the pitching assignment for the White Sox, but after having been touched for two runs in the first inning and then for four in the second, he turned over the job to Harold McKain, youthful right-hander. McKain, entering the game with the bases full and only one man out, saw three more runners cross the plate before he could end the inning.

From that time on, however, McKain did very well, only three men facing him in each of the next five innings. In the eighth a walk and three singles gave the Athletics three more runs, and they added two more in the ninth on doubles by Cochrane and Miller and a triple by Foxx.

White Sox Slugging All in Vain.

The White Sox scored three runs in the second inning when Watwood's drive to the center field wall went for a home run with Barnes and Crouse scoring ahead of him after having singled earlier in the inning.

Singles by McKain and Reynolds gave the Sox another tally in the fourth. McKain tripled and came home on Watwood's single in the sixth, Watwood doubled and was scored by Mulleavy's safety to right field in the eighth, and Barnes cracked out a triple in the ninth that allowed him to reach home on Jeffries' infield roller.

Lefty Grove, although not in serious trouble, was relieved after the second inning as the Athletic pitcher, Higgins batting for him, and Shores taking his place in the third inning.

The Athletics won the game in the second inning, Miller singling to right and stealing second before Dykes fanned. Boley singled to left to score Miller, Grove moved Boley to third with a single over first base, and Bishop walked to fill the bases. Haas drove a single over second to score Boley and Grove, sending Bishop to third. Mulleavy muffed Cochran's grounder to let Bishop scre and move Haas to second, and Lyons left the game. Simmons singled to right to fill the bases, and after Foxx had fouled to Crouse, Miller drove a double to deep center to scre Haas, Cochrane and Simmons. Dykes flied to Barnes to end the inning.

GALLANT FOX IS OUT OF STAKE

Turf King, in Need of Rest, Scratched at Arlington.

CHICAGO, July 16 (A.P.).—Gallant Fox, 3-year-old champion of the year, will not start in the $35,000 Arlington cup event at Arlington Park Saturday. This was announced by Joseph McLennan, racing secretary at Arlington Park, today.

The gallant thoroughbred, winner of six of the outstanding stake events in America this season, was to meet the older horses in a race in a mile and a quarter, but he trained so badly that it was decided to pass up the race and allow him to rest up for the rich purses to be run off at Saratoga.

Secretary McLennan said that he had received no official word of Gallant Fox's withdrawal from the Arlington Cup, but that he had understood that the horse would not start. The definite announcement, he said, must come from William Woodword, New York bank president, owner of the sensational 3-year-old.

Needs Lay-Off Says Trainer.

Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, trainer of the thoroughbred, was reported to be of the opinion that the horse is in need of a lay-off after his tremendous training siege.

In the Arlington Cup event, Gallant Fox, victorious in all his 3-year-old races of the season, would have been forced to match his speed against older horses, including Blue Larkspur, 3-year-old champion of 1929; Toro, Misstep, Victorian, Sun Beau, Paul Bunyan, and other noted speedsters.

Georgia Boxer Dies From Injuries in Ring

Dayton, Ky., July 16 (A.P.).—Sammy Buchanan, junior welterweight boxer from Waycross, Ga., who tottered to the canvas in the seventh round of his fight here Monday night with Jimmy Neal, Cincinnati, died early today in Speers Hospital.

Buchanan at first appeared to have suffered a hemorrhage of the stomach, but his condition was such that he could not be moved for an X-ray examination and hospital attendants were uncertain as to the cause of his death.

The fighter died without ever regaining consciousness.

Walter B. Hughes, Campbell County coroner, said he would conduct a thorough examination in Buchanan's death.

Uncommon Gold Takes Mile Feature at Arlington Park

CHICAGO, July 16 (A.P.).—Uncommon Gold, the property of Clayton Morris, easily earned his first brackets this year when he led home a high-class field in the Shore Acres Purse, the best offering on today's good card at Arlington Park. Canaan, from the Le Mar Stock Farm, was second with Suitor third.

The race, an allowance affair for 4-year-olds and up, over the mile out of the chute distance, was run in 1:37 1-5. Great interest was attached to the race because of the entry of the Warm Stable's Victorian, winner of the rich Agua Caliente Handicap, which was making his second start at this track. On his first start six days ago Victorian ran second to My Dandy. Although the heavily played public choice in today's event, Victorian was unable to get in the money. The race was worth $1,300. The winner paid $12.62 for $2.

Uncommon Gold, under a well-judged ride by T. Swigert, was rated along in close contention for the first six furlongs, was given his head at the turn into the home stretch and, responding gamely, took the lead from Cantenkerous and drew out in the drive to win easily by two lengths. Canaan also restrained while gradually gaining ground, moved up with the leader, but was not equal to the task and finished second two lengths over Suitor.

Starpatic Scores At Empire.

Empire City Race Track, July 16 (A.P.).—The Knickerbocker handicap, mile and a sixteenth feature, was won in a rousing finish by Frank Brown's Starpatic, odds-on favorite, defeating G. A. Cochran's Polygamous a head, the Rancocas Stable's Limbus, third and James Butler's Awake, fourth. The race was fast, the final time being 1:47 1-5.

Starpatic opened at 7 to 5 but on the strength of his recent good work there was a tremendous play for him, with the odds being cut 4 to 5, at which figure he closed. The start was good and Hornpipe and Peto essayed to set a killing pace, but they were never able to get very far away from Starpatic, which was in third position. However, around the turn, Eaby let Starpatic go to the front. He drew out but in the last furlong tired and Polygamous, closing gamely, almost got up to win. The winner received $3,790 for his trip around the oval.

Lailawild Gallops Home at Latonia.

Latonia Race Track, Latonia, Ky., July 15 (A.P.).—The Rosemont Purse, the feature event of the afternoon's card was won by Laila Wild, sporting the silks of the Grosam Brothers. The feature was for 2-year-old fillies, a sprint of 5½ furlongs. Ada Epinard was the first to show at the start with the winner close behind. At the turn for home Ada Epinard began to tire and Laila Wild took command to win as her rider pleased. Speeding Star lasted to beat Thistle Billie a head for second place. Laila Wild was the favorite and paid $1.54, $1.00 and $0.28.

Yanks Defeat Browns On Two Home Runs, 2-1

St. Louis, July 16 (A.P.).—Two home runs plus the fine pitching of Southpaw Ed Wells, gave the New York Yankees a 2 to 1 victory over the Browns in the opener of a four-game series today. Harry Rice hit one homer to give the Yankees a tie in the fifth inning, while Lou Gehrig won the game in the seventh with his twenty-fourth circuit blow of the year.

Wells allowed only five hits and the only St. Louis run came in the second inning. With two out, Schulte tripled and Melillo brought him in with a double. Wally Stewart did some good pitching, holding New York to seven hits, but got no backing from his mates. It was the sixth straight defeat for the Browns.

No Guaranteed Purses For Michigan Fighters

Detroit, Mich., July 16 (A.P.).—Hereafter there will be no guaranteed purses for fighters in Michigan. This announcement was made by James M. (Bingo) Brown, chairman of the State boxing commission, who declared that "a fighter is worth only what he can draw at the gate," and that henceforth fighters will perform for a share of the receipts.

Chairman Brown said he intends to ask the National Boxing Association to adopt a similar rule.

The new policy was announced after a bout between Eddie Shea, Chicago, and Lew Massey, Philadelphia, scheduled for Monday night, was called off because the promoter did not take in enough to pay Shea's $2,500 guarantee.

ROBINS SPLIT EVEN WITH CUBS

Retain 3-Game Lead When Luque Wins Final Contest.

EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn, N. Y., July 16 (A.P.).—Adolfo Luque's pitching checked the Cubs after they had won the first game of today's double-header, 6 to 4, and the Dodgers won the second, 5 to 3, to break even and thus retain their three-game lead in the race. Charley Root started for the Cubs and went seven innings. The Dodgers hit him freely in the first half of the contest and piled up an early lead.

Luque batted in two runs in the third with a triple. Wright, Hartnett and Stephenson hit home runs. Hartnett's was his twenty-first of the season. Thirty thousand fans saw the game.

Del Bissonette, who was knocked out sliding into the plate in the eighth inning of the first game, was unable to play in the second contest. Bissonette came to after being carried to the clubhouse. He was unable to explain what happened, but other players said that when he slid into the plate feet first the back of his head hit the ground and knocked him out. Hendrick was in Bissonette's place at first base.

The Cubs hit Ray Moss rather freely in the opener. Pat Malone pitched for the Cubs and allowed only five hits, no two of which came in the same inning.

The Cubs got the jump on the league leaders, scoring three of their runs off Moss in the first inning. They resulted from a pass to Blair, singles by Cuyler and Grimm and Wilson's two-bagger. After his unsteady start Moss settled down and allowed only one more tally over the following six innings. It came in the third when English doubled and Cuyler singled.

markers as a starter, while the Tribe matched these with single runs in the first and third. Crowder pulling out of a great hole in this latter round after the Indians had scored their run and packed the aisles, with none dead.

Nats Take 2 Run Lead.

In the fourth, a walk, Loepp's single, Crowder's double and Myer's useful out, put the Nats two up, and it was just a breeze for them thereafter. They pounded Miller off the hill in the next round, moulding three tallies on a pass, sacrifice and singles by Cronin, Harris, Loepp and Spencer, while their parting shot was another three-run rally in which singles by Judge, Bluege and Spencer, Brown's error on Loepp's sacrifice and an infield out figured.

Every Washington player except West, who did not come to bat, figured in the attack on the three Indian pitchers, with Harris, Cronin and Spencer getting three hits each, the latter's driving home as many runs.

Crowder held the Tribe to but nine hits, and but for Harris' charged error and another not charged, he would not have been scored upon until the sixth. In the first, Harris' fumble of Morgan's onebaser, after Porter had walked, put the latter in a position to score on an out, while his poor playing on Porter's drive opening the third made it a triple instead of a single.

Cleveland's two markers moulded in the sixth, however, were scored on merit, Jablonowski's double, a pass and Morgan's triple being responsible.

In the Wake of the Game

LEAGUE PARK, Cleveland, Ohio, July 16.—All three of the Washington hits made in the first inning of the first game were on Miller's first deliveries. Myer opened with a single on the first pitch of the game; Cronin tripled on the first offering to him, while Harris doubled just as soon as he went to the swinging block.

Myer backed up to short right to drag down Averill's looper ending the home first with Indians on third and second.

Loepp did not take his bat off his shoulder while walking to start the second. Miller's first two offerings were strikes and then came four wide ones, three of which were really wide.

Miller caught the Washington infield asleep with Goldman off first base and two out in the home second and dropped a swinging bunt toward short, which went as a hit. Bluege then ended the round by making a nice over-the-shoulder catch of Jamieson's pop to short left.

Porter's triple opening the home third was an ordinary single, which skidded past Harris when the Nat left fielder played it poorly by coming in too fast. The ball would have come to "Sheriff" on a perfect first bounce had he stayed in his position and waited for it. This was turned into the run which knotted the count at 2-all.

Crowder walked Averill to fill the bases in the third, with none down, and then did some great pitching to pull himself out of the hole. J. Sewell fouled to Spencer, Sprinz lined to short right, and Goldman lofted to Harris.

Loepp came in fast to make a nice catch of Porter's hoist to short left in the fourth with Jamieson on second at the time.

Jablonowski relieved Miller in the Nats' fifth with two on, and immediately filled the bases by walking Bluege.

Again, in the Tribe's sixth, Loepp was on the job, turning in an exceptional catch of Goldman's short looper just back of short.

Morgan's triple, with two Indians o ni nthe sixth, missed clearing the wall in center for a homer by just a yard or so.

Goldman went to the far side of second to make a pretty stop and peg of Crowder's hopper, ending the Washington seventh.

Myer went to right center for Averill's looper opening the same seventh. He made a fine catch, grabbing the ball as it was sailing over his head.

While chasing pinch-hitter Bib Falk's foul opening the natives' eighth, Judge tripped over first and almost went down. He recovered his balance in time to make the catch, however.

Sewell made a nice stop of Myer's bounder ending the Nats' ninth inning rally, taking the ball on the half bounce.

SECOND GAME.

With the hit and run on in the first round and Myer on second, Cronin lined to Hodapp near the sack, making it a very simple matter for

Three Pitchers in 9th Save Game for Tigers

Detroit, Mich., July 16 (A.P.).—Earl Whitehill failed to finish after pitching masterful ball against the Boston Red Sox in the series opener today, but was credited with Detroit's 3-2 victory. Detroit used three pitchers in the ninth inning. Whitehill left the game after Durst hit a scratch single. Art Herring pitched to two batsmen, one of whom reached second on an error. George Uhle went in then with Durst on third and Miller on second and retired the side without scoring.

SINGER MAY ENTER RING FAVORITE OVER MANDELL

Title Holder Troubled by Weight

Foul Epidemic Hurts Interest in Titular Bout Tonight.

Champion's Record of Late Poor; Singer Well Handled.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, July 16 (A.P.).—For the second time in two years cagey Sammy Mandell, debonair king of the lightweight clan, will set up his crown tomorrow night for another eager youngster to shoot at in the ring at the Yankee Stadium.

Two years ago the challenger was Jimmy McLarnin, the belting Irish kid, who struggled for fifteen desperate and despairing rounds to corner the fleet, skillful champion. This time the youngster is Al Singer, sleek Jewish boy the Bronx believes will develop into another Benny Leonard. But once more the craft and experience of Mandell, the Italian, is favored over the sheer physical powers of youth.

This time, however, the margin of superiority conceded Mandell in advance is decreasing. Sammy, the shiek of Rockford, Ill., is getting along in years as prize fighters go and his legs are beginning to show the strain of long campaigns in the prize ring. He is having considerable trouble getting down to the weight limit of the class, 135 pounds, and the boys who risk their bank rolls on the happenings in the battle pit are considering this angle of the battle carefully. Sammy is a 6 to 5 favorite, but may enter the ring the under dog.

Singer Nursed Along Carefully.

Singer, though he has flashed brilliantly against certain types of fighters, is not considered a particularly dangerous challenger unless Mandell has slipped far back from the pinnacle he reached the night he stabbed McLarnin's face into a scarlet mess and beat him to every punch. Singer has been nursed along carefully, hasn't quite the experience to cope with a veteran of Mandell's ability, and seems yet completely to coordinate his speed, boxing skill and punching power into a smooth flowing attack.

Although he has beaten Bub Taylor and most of the lightweights around New York, Singer could gain no more than a draw with Tony Canzoneri, lost a decision to Kid Chocolate and was knocked out in three rounds by a featherweight, Ignacio Fernandez.

Singer managed to gain his title shot without first disposing of Canzoneri or Jackie Kid Berg, one of the outstanding challengers, though he did flay Fernandez in a return engagement. Singer is a genuine lightweight and will have no trouble scaling under 135 at the weighing in here at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Mandell's Record of Late Poor.

Mandell's record of late has hardly been impressive. Since winning the title from Rocky Kansas in July, 1926, in Chicago Sammy has engaged in only three genuine title defenses, winning decisions from Phil McGraw, McLarnin, and lastly, Canzoneri, who gave him a tremendous struggle for ten rounds last August in Chicago. He has lost two overweight matches to McLarnin and in both took generous lacings.

Due to the prevalence of fouls and the recent Sharkey-Schmeling match that took $750,000 from the pockets of the faithful, the bout tomorrow night has failed to stir up the expected interest among the patrons. Although the ticket scale ranges from $2 to $13, including tax, the gate is not expected to exceed $150,000. The title bout is scheduled to go on at 8:30 p. m., Eastern standard time.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHICAGO GIRL, $16.10, $7.94, $6.24; CHUCKLING, $9.30, $5.78; TONEY'S STAR, $10.42.

CHICAGO GIRL, away well, saved ground while keeping colse up on inside and, coming with a big rush around the stretch turn, headed the leaders, drawing into safe lead and easily held sway to the end. CHUCKLING had to race on the outside, being carried very wide, came fast when straightened in stretch, closed a gap and finished strongly. TONEY'S STAR, always a strong factor colse to the pace, held on well to outgame WONDER STAR. WONDER STAR had early speed and showed a fairly good effort. UNUSUAL displayed high speed to the stretch turn, then quit when under pressure and stopped badly in last furlong.

SECOND RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 2:48. Off at 2:51½. Winner, Miss R. S. Copeland's ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MY SCOOP, $5.94, $3.58, $3.36; COME ON, $4.76, $3.72; FORT DEARBORN, $10.90.

MY SCOOP, off well and closer up than usual in early stages, raced on the inside to the far turn, then made fast move, gradually taking the lead entering the stretch and drew out strongly in home run to win as rider pleased. COME ON gradually made up much ground while gaining steadily from slow beginning, made game bid in the stretch, but could not reach winner. FORT DEARBORN also improved his position gradually coming from well back of the leaders and closed fast through final quarter. MR. DE LUXE had speed, took brief lead at half mile pole, but tired when the winner challenged and weakened in final drive.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:20. Off at 3:24½. Winner, Northway Stable's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FLAG TIME, $6.06, $3.42, $2.88; HOT SHOT, $8.44, $6.72; JUGGLER, $7.12.

FLAG TIME moved into contention fast after start and kept close up for the pace to the stretch, where he wore down HOT SHOT in the final drive and won drawing clear at the end. HOT SHOT, away fast, displayed high speed and retained a safe lead until inside the final furlong before tiring and could not match the winner's challenge. JUGGLER, badly outrun for the first half mile, came with a tremendous rush entering the stretch, closed an immense gap and finished gamely. ERIN QUEEN could never get up. ALEADER tired in drive. TADDYWAWA acted badly at post and seemed to sulk.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,800; allowances. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:52. Off at 3:52. Winner, Shadybrook Farm's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PITTSBURGHER, $33.62, $13.86, $5.42; BOYS HOWDY, $5.32, $4.50; HYMAN, $3.96.

PITTSBURGHER was close up on outside from the start, indulging in the pace and, moving to the leader resolutely in the final furlong, wore him down in the drive, getting up in final strides. BOYS HOWDY had the most early speed and kept INSCO in close quarters, set the pace, but began tiring in final sixteenth and, holding on well, just failed to withstand the winner. HYMAN raced forwardly, kept his position safe to the stretch, then closed in fast, easily outfinishing the weakly ridden INSCO. INSCO had speed, but quit altogether in stretch. The others were outpaced.

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,800; allowances. The Shore Acres. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good for all but Victorian. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:20½. Off at 4:23. Winner, Clayton Morris' b. g. (4), by Gold Enamel—Maudie. Trained by W. Burkhart. Value to winner, $1,300; second, $300; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:46 4-5, 1:11, 1:37 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—UNCOMMON GOLD, $12.62, $4.20, $3.02; CANAAN, $4.58, $3.48; SUITOR, $3.88.

UNCOMMON GOLD, in close-up pursuit of the leaders, was saved first three-quarters, moved fast when called on entering the stretch, took the lead from CANTANKEROUS and easily kept CANAAN safe. CANAAN was under restraint while gaining gradually, also responded well when hard urged reaching the final quarter and, finishing gamely, could not get to winner. SUITOR made up some ground when ridden hard in stretch after being outrun and, lasting well under pressure, outstayed VICTORIAN. VICTORIAN was as good as left at the post when he refused to break with others at start. CANTANKEROUS tired badly and was done after going three-quarters.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 4:50. Off at 4:52. Winner, W. S. Dudley's b. f. (3), by Coventry—Princess Royal. Trained by T. P. Hayes. Value to winner, $1,050; second, $250; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:25 1-5, 0:50 1-5, 1:14 2-5, 1:38 4-5, 1:42.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MISS BESS, $5.34, $3.80, $2.52; FRANCES MILWARD, $6.10, $2.52; DEVON, $2.26.

MISS BESS began slowly, but improved her position gradually, challenged NEALON KAY after leaving the back stretch and, heading latter, drew far away in easy lead and won in a canter. FRANCES MILWARD had good speed throughout, easily disposed of NEALON KAY, but was no match for the winner. DEVON showed a dull effort, being badly outrun to the stretch, where he closed with a belated rush. NEALON KAY had early speed, but was done in the stretch.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start poor. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 5:21. Off at 5:22. Winner, Kneblekamp and Morrill's b. f. (3), by Black Servant—Beach Talk. Trained by E. J. O'Connell. Value to winner, $1,050; second, $250; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:46 4-5, 1:12, 1:38 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BURNT BROWN, $8.44, $5.02, $3.70; GREY GULL, $9.56, $5.02; MALICIOUS, $4.48.

BURNT BROWN, away fast, showed the most speed and, continuing resolutely, easily won all the way. GREY GULL, never far off the pace, raced KING KELLY into defeat and held on well in late stages, but was unable to menace winner. MALICIOUS was as good as left at the start, raced far out of it to the stretch turn, but gained thereafter, closing an immense gap and, finishing very fast, seemed much the best. KING KELLY was a forward factor to the stretch, but tired in the final drive. BURSIE had no excuses.

CONSIDINE-MANGAN ANNEX MIDDLE ATLANTIC TITLE

Star Doubles Team Wins In 3 Sets

District Champions at Best in Finals at Congressional.

By JACK ESPEY.

THERE'S no antitrust law in tennis.

If there were, the firm of Bob Considine and Tom Mangan would be already in or on the way to the lockup now.

Yesterday, with the sheriffs of local netdom, Bob Newby and Winfree Johnson looking on (and benignly, too) these monopolistic championship chasers threw their hooks into the Middle Atlantic doubles championship, making it their fifth successive titular victory in as many tournaments entered since the spring of 1929.

What men! What men! That might have been said appropriately by their victims, Owen Howenstein and Joseph Rutley, who in all their years of tournament competition probably haven't suffered as one-sided a licking as they received on the Congressional Club courts.

The scores were 6—0, 6—0, 6—3. Bob and Tom annexed title No. 5 so easily that they could have worn evening clothes and lost nary a crease. They played almost flawless tennis. Howenstein and Rutley were downright unlucky in that they had to be the opposing team. Any other doubles combination hereabouts probably would have done no better.

Fifth Straight Championship For Winners.

Considine and Mangan began their present championship winning streak with the City of Washington tournament last year. They captured the title in that event and went on to win the 1929 District of Columbia crown. This season they have repeated those conquests and yesterday's match found them going stronger than ever.

As a reward for this triumph, they will be delegated to represent the Middle Atlantic Lawn Tennis Association in the national doubles tournament which opens in Boston on August 25, the expenses of the trip to be borne by the M. A. L. T. A.

Howenstein and Rutley felt the fireworks at the very outset, the latter losin ghis service in the first game. Considine's terrific smashes and Mangan's drives that split the court simply were not to be denied.

Losers Fail to Take Game In First Two Sets.

Twelve straight games went to the erdeit of the ultimate winners before their opponents won one. Then Howenstein and Rutley rallied to win the first game of the third set on the latter's service. Immediately following, Mangan encountered difficulty with his delivery, and with this break Howenstein and Rutley took the lead, 2 to 0.

But this served only to spur Considine and Mangan to greater effort, and they won the next two games at love to draw level. In the fifth they smashed Rutley's service and in the sixth won again at love with Mangan serving.

Though the situation was hopeless, Howenstein and Rutley hung on doggedly, and they once more stopped in retreat to take the seventh game. They als owent ahead in the eighth at 40—15, but they finally bowed to the inevitable.

Reds Hit Timely to Rout Giants by 8-to-1 Score

New York, July 16 (A.P.).—The Cincinnati Reds kept up their timely swatting today to win the odd game of the series of three from the Giants, 8 to 1.

After a wobbly start, Red Lucas settled down and kept the Giants away from the plate except in the seventh, when they scored their lone run on three singles. Cuccinello and Walker again led the Reds in effective hitting. The former hit a double with the bases full and Walker cracked out a homer with two aboard.

In the last two games Walker has reached first base ten consecutive times on five hits, four passes and an error, and has scored eight runs.

IN THE WAKE OF THE GAME

the second baseman to turn in an unassisted double play.

Averill's homer opening the home second was the first hit off Hadley's slants and his first of the day, as he had been unable "to get a foul," as the players say, in the opening encounter. The drive cleared the screen in right by only a small margin.

Myer took Ruel's poor throw in the bounce and apparently had Myatt out stealing in the second, but Umpire Guthrie ruled otherwise. Had this out been allowed, the Indians would have scored but one run in the frame instead of three.

Hodapp backed all the way to short right to snare Hadley's short looper ending the Nats' third.

Sewell's bounder in the third took a weird hop just as Cronin was set to catch it and the short-fielder had to jump high to make a nice one-hand grab.

Burke walked both Jamieson and Porter to fill the bases with one down in the fourth after Shoffner had doubled.

Manager Johnson apparently gave up the game in the fourth for, despite the fact that Burke was in distress, no other relief flinger was told to warm up. In these days of big innings a game is never over until the last out is turned in.

Goldman came in fast to make a flashy stop and throw on Judge's hopper in the fifth.

In order to give Judge a rest and Shires a needed workout, the latter relieved the Nat captain starting the home fifth.

Bluege came up with a nice catch starting round five for the home team when he took Goldman's bad hopper as it was about to pass him.

The Nats had their first man left on base in the sixth, the result of a base on balls to Loepp, first up, and two changes of runners due to force plays.

Catcher Muddy Ruel's throwing arm was not working well in this game, Morgan stealing with ease in the sixth.

Business was bad for umpire George Hildebrand, who operated behind the plate. A foul from Myatt's bat gave him a headache in the second, while one from Averill's stick almost tore off his left foot in the sixth.

McLeod ran for Cronin in the seventh and then continued at short. He was charged with an error on his first chance, but then went to short left for a nice catch of Porter's looper and followed with a really great one-hand stop of Morgan's hot grounder, stepping on second and then pegging to first ahead of the batter for a sensational double-play.

Pirates and Braves Divide in Double Bill

Boston, July 16 (A.P.).—Pittsburgh secured an even break in today's doubleheader with the Braves by taking the second game, 9 to 5, after Boston won the opener with a two-run ninth inning rally, 4 to 3.

The Pirates hammered Sherdel and Brandt for seven runs in the fifth and sixth innings of the second game after Grantham and Comorosky had hit home runs in successive times at bat in the fourth inning.

Wally Berger, of the Braves, made his twenty-fifth circuit clout of the season in the fifth inning of the night cap.

Losing Streak Broken As Phillies Whip Cards

Philadelphia, July 16 (A.P.).—The Phillies pounded Rhem out of the box in four innings today and defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 1 to 5. Collins, on the mound for the Phillies, was steady throughout. Hurst and Watkins hit home runs. Hurst hit his with two on base and put the game on ice for the Phillies in the fourth inning. It was the Phillies' first victory after five straight setbacks.

PYNE BEATS M'FEELY AT QUANTICO

Former Gonzaga Ace Adds Two Marine Ring Titles.

Special to The Washington Post.

QUANTICO, Va., July 16.—Danny Pyne, former Gonzaga football and baseball star, won the decision in three rounds over Walter McFreely, cratck Washington middle weight, here tonight. Pyne, fighting the fourth fight of his short, but brilliant career, had his more experienced opponent in trouble during the entire bout.

By virtue of his victory, Pyne is now the light-heavyweight and heavyweight champion of the Twentieth Marines. McFeely was the betting favorite due to his experience, but Pyne offset it with his youth, and will to win. His father and mother journeyed to the post to watch him fight for the Marine title.

Barker Successfully Defends Title.

Private Barker, lightweight champion of the post, successfully defended his title against Private Yaeger. The bout was fast from the opening gong.

Private Kelly, bantamweight champion, lost in three rounds to Private Danielson. The latter was much too big for the little bantam, but Kelly gave him a battle to the final bell. Capt. Harvey L. Miller, commanding officer of the Second Battalion, refereed the bouts. Hundreds of Washingtonians were at the ringside.

JONES FACES TRIBE IN TODAY'S BATTLE

land Club today and one, Catcher Joe Sprinz, purchased from the Indianapolis Club of the American Association, immediately broke into the line-up. The other "pappooses" to join the Tribe were Ray Gardner and Eddie Montague, both short stops who were obtained from the New Orleans Club. Gardner was with the Indians all of last season and part of this, having been loaned to the Pelicans to help out during an emergency.

Scout Joe Engel joined the Washington team here this morning for a conference with President Clark Griffith prior to starting off on an "ivory" hunt. He will give up "presidenting" for the Chattanooga Southern Leaguers for the next month or so while touring the minors in search of talent which might prove useful for the Nationals.

Knapp Leads First Day Field In Maryland Club Invitation

Shoots 70 to Top Sasscer by Three Strokes; Mackenzie Third; 50 Washingtonians Seek Medal Today.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

MARYLAND COUNTRY CLUB, Baltimore, Md., July 16.—In the first round today of the qualification play of eighteen holes in the Maryland Country Club annual invitation tournament the field was led by Alex H. Knapp, of the Baltimore Country Club, Maryland amateur champion and runner-up in the recent Middle Atlantic championship at Richmond. Tomorrow, however, the balance of the field of 270 entries will compete, including "Billy" Howell, the 18-year-old Virginia prodigy, who defeated Knapp for the Middle Atlantic championship, and a notable list of competitors, including 50 players from the District of Columbia.

As the flat terrain of the course is baked as hard as concrete pavement and as the greens are in fine condition, holding a pitched ball, it is possible, although not probable, that tomorrow a 70 will be broken and that the medal will go to some golfer who will breeze around the course in 69 or better.

Knapp Has Remarkable In-coming Nine.

Although Knapp's round started with a birdie 3 on the first hole, several

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

ROBERT L. DOWNING, eminent old-time Shakespearean actor, leading man years ago for Mary Anderson and other celebrated stars, and later head of his own troupe in "Damon and Pythias," is now broadcasting over Station WJSV, at Mount Vernon, Va. He is a regular feature there, appearing Thursday nights at 9 o'clock and Friday afternoons at 4:40.

So far, Mr. Downing has given a number of short sketches, such as the second act from "Ingomar," "A Voice in the Wilderness," the biblical play he once produced, portraying the character of John, the Baptist; "The Empty House," and others of that nature.

It is planned now to have Mr. Downing broadcast the entire play of "Damon and Pythias" over Station WJSV, one act each week—and there are possibilities that he may branch forth in other dramatic works.

"Off ag'in—on ag'in!" The latest advice is that Rudy Vallee will continue to be heard each Thursday evening (WRC, 7 to 8 p. m.), even though away from New York. It was proposed to discontinue broadcasts during the tour, but it is said the demand of the fans for Rudy was so great that it was decided to continue the hour from wherever he happens to be Thursday evenings.

CARRYING with it a great saving to listeners is the price reduction beginning today in four types of the most widely used R. C. A. Radiotron vacuum tubes.

"Economies introduced since formation of the R. C. A. Radiotron Co. seven months ago, make these new prices possible," said T. W. Frech, president of the R. C. A. Radiotron Co. "Our company was organized by the Radio Corporation of America to effect the unification of vacuum tube development, manufacture and sales, and we accept the responsibility of leadership which rests upon the founders of the radio industry in America. We shall always strive to produce a good value in a radio tube, thus contributing to the enjoyment of radio everywhere."

The reductions will average about 24 per cent in the list price in the types affected.

A survey, from the radio listeners standpoint, is to be conducted by the National Radio Society, in the Hill Building, an organization composed of listeners, to ascertain the class of programs, as well as the individual artists preferred by listeners.

"It is the intent to make this survey a comprehensive one," Wendell C. Hill, president, said yesterday, "and to obtain information from which data heretofore unavailable may be compiled."

Today's Highlights

8:15 a. m.—(WOL) Breakfast Brevities from The Washington Post.

12:10 p. m.—(WRC) Sunshine Carollers.

3 p. m.—(WMAL) United States Navy Band concert.

11:30 p. m.—(WMAL) Nocturne—Ann Leaf at the organ.

A somewhat similar survey is being undertaken by the Federal Radio Commission to determine the relative popularity of radio stations, from a program standpoint, and to what degree listeners regard these stations as operating in the public interest.

ESTIMATES of $1,000 a night, and up, are being made as the additional wire and other costs arising from "Amos 'n' Andy" broadcasting from Hollywood, where they are now making their picture. They are expected to be in California about a month, but the boys are not worried as the extra bill is being paid for by the picture people.

The performance heard here at 6 p. m. is given in Hollywood at 3 p. m., is sent by wire to San Francisco, then to WJZ, New York, which in turn, distributes it by wire to various stations, including WRC in Washington.

Correction. A radio official, considerably excited, called up to say that the State Department, or whoever it was, missed it a mile when they gave out the statement that President Hoover had cabled Bastille Day greetings to the President of France.

"Mr. Hoover didn't cable," the caller declared, "he sent a radiogram."

Arthur Daly, studio production man, philosophizes that you never realize how many people are giving you pats on the back until you get a bad sunburn.

Man Reports Wife Missing.

Harry S. Dovel yesterday asked police to look for his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth May Dovel, 31 years old, who has been missing from their home at 913 I street northwest since Tuesday. She left a five-month-old baby when she disappeared. She wore a black satin dress, the husband said, and has brown hair and blue eyes.

Paris, July 16.

OH ho! Oh ho! Well, and it's a bee-u-tiful summer day in Paris 'n here I am sitting at the typewriter instead of strolling down the "Shons-E-leesee" and showing a few Frenchmen what American schooling and training can do to a Frenchwoman, meaning me.

Well, and here I read that the Chicago Confectioners Association have expressed a vote of thanks to the French Couturieres for permitting feminine curves!

Fashion decrees a certain feminine plumpness, but never, never again will it be modish and lovely to be fat. Plumpness that doesn't allow itself to become rolls of excess fat—you know, under the chin and over the corset? has always been accepted, angular lines never. A little candy is all right, but must be made up for a period of two or three days' attention to the other fattening things in one's menue.

After twenty, watch what you eat, it's easy, and then you can regulate your diet in such a way that you neither starve nor deny yourself anything you want to eat. You only eat on' or two of those fattening things a day, and every month or so go on a rigid three days diet sans bread, potatoes, butter, oils, pastry, creams &c.

Oh Well!

Why not have a painting party? We had one when we moved into our studio in Paris, and I'll tell you something, it was a lot of fun. Besides which and more to the point, we got all our furniture painted, and well done, too. You fortify everyone with spaghetti. Then you haul out a dozen smocks or so, then a Dah-ray leaflet for which you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope this week, and then everyone goes to work. Result, new house!

* * * *

'N if you don't put down that box of candy, Alana, me chee-ild, you can never wear "Pretty Boy" which is the Phillippe et Gaston beach trousers and waist you bought the other day, and I sketched for my deah-publik today! 'N it's awfully smart, being red pants and white blouse, and black and red tie affair threaded through. Better put the candy down . . . er, pass it to me, will you?

Only certain types could wear it too. Better send an extra letter with an extra stamped, self-ddressed envelope in it to the Dare Department of The Washington Post, this week, for the colors for and against blondes, "redheads," and white-haired types. Not two envelopes in one letter, you know, two letters, one for this leaflet, and one for the one on home tricks.

Need we remind you again of Dare's weekly fashion letter? It's always in the Sunday Washington Post.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me the names of the inclosed specimens. M. McI.

The smaller-leafed branch is from a variety of privet; the twig with the large white flowers is a species of double file verbenum (Viburnum Tomentosum).

Please tell me why the buds of my peones fail to open and seemnigly decay. Also mention a few peonies which you know to be free-flowering. MISS EMMA H.

While some peonies are apparently free from insect enemies, they are very subject to a pernicious bud rot. Many plants which do not seem able to mature their buds are affected by this disease. It can, in a large measure, be prevented by avoiding placing manure about the crowns of the plants and by spraying weekly, from early spring until late May, with Bordeaux mixture. If your plants are of the large double variety I should suggest that you remove all except the large center bud (terminal). This disbudding throws all the strength and food into one flower, which is larger, finer and better in color. Of course, the buds should be removed when they are small. Therese, Longfellow and Le Cygne are all free-flowerng varieties.

Please tell me the name of a tree of which I am inclosing a flower. A. M. P.

Catalpa.

Please tell me the name and summer care of the plant from which the inclosed leaf was taken. Also a few plants that would do well on a porch facing the west. MRS. G. J. H.

The plant of which you inclosed a leaf is a begonia and should at this time be outside, either planted in a porch box or kept growing in its pot. Keep it in some place where it will receive only the early morning sun; midday or late afternoon sun will be entirely too warm for it. Water it every day at a time when the sun is not shining on it. Keep the surface soil in the pot quite loose. Geraniums, petunias, ageratums and sweet alyssum all do well on a porch with afternoon sun.

Could a clematis vine—very small one—be moved in August without disastrous results? If so, what is the necessary procedure? H. B. L.

It may be moved at this time, though early spring or late fall is a better time to do almost any transplanting. Lift the vine carefully with a large ball of soil—the idea being to injure the roots as little as possible. Before planting the vine incorporate some bonemeal or well-rotted manure with the soil. It will be necessary to prune the top growth at the time of transplanting. Keep vine well watered during the rest of the season.

I planted some rose bushes this spring, which are doing very well. What kind of fertilizer do you suggest my using for these plants? How much should I use and how often should it be applied? Also, suggest a spray for rose bushes which are being destroyed by insects. CHARLES P.

As soon as the buds begin to form is the time to begin fertilizing roses. From then on liquid manure should be poured about each plant as long as the plant continues to bloom; about a quart in all should be used. A good time to apply this is just before a rain. Do not make the liquid manure too strong. Half a bushel of cow manure to a barrel of water is about the proper strength. Frequent syringing with clear water will usually keep the foliage healthy. Do not forget to mulch your roses with peat moss or tobacco stems. As you do not state what insects are destroying your roses I can only suggest that you apply a spray which contains nicotine in some form.

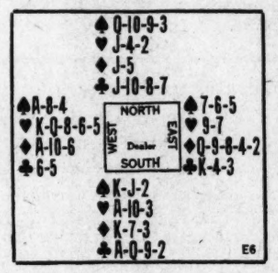
WORK ON BRIDGE

A WELL-PLAYED HAND.



In the above hand played at Contract Bridge, South, with a count of 17 and four suits stopped, bid two No Trumps, and North, with a count of 6 (2 for the Queen, 1 for each of the three Jacks and 1 for the two Tens), jumped to three.

West led the fourth best Heart which Declarer passed up to the Ten. Declarer now could count two Hearts, two Spades and three Clubs—a total of seven tricks. There was a chance of winning an additional Spade, supposing that North could get in to make it; of catchnig the King of Clubs, and of winning with the King of Diamonds. Each of these chances, if it worked out, would produce an extra trick; but all of them might fail to materialize. So Declarer was sure of seven tricks, and might make ten; nine was all he needed.

Declarer's first effort was to establish Spades by leading the King to trick 2, and West properly held up his Ace. To Trick 3 South led the Deuce of Spades, West held up once more, and dummy won with the Nine. Another lead of Spades would clear the suit, but it was important to try the Club finesse, so to trick 4 North led the Jack of Clubs which won, as East was not accommodating enough to cover with the King. On that trick South played the Nine. Then the Declarer had to solve the problem of where the next Club trick should be won if East should play small. If East had four Clubs, Declarer was anxious to win the second round in dummy so as to lead once more from that hand; if East had only three Clubs it was important that closed hand should take the second Club trick so as to be able to put dummy in on the fourth round of Clubs. Declarer determined that his best chance for game was to play for a 3-2 division of the adverse Clubs; so when North led the Ten and East played the Four, South covered with the Queen and Declarer breathed a sigh of relief when East played the Six. After that the Ace of Clubs dropped the adverse King and left a Club entry in dummy. Then a Spade was led, which cinched the game because when West won the Spade and established his Heart, dummy's Club entry enabled him to cash the thirteenth Spade and make a total of nine tricks for Declarer.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

WATCH YOUNG CHILDREN AT WINDOWS.

(Children's Bureau, Department of Labor.)

A word of caution is necessary as to the danger of young children climbing up to open windows and falling out. Window screens should be so carefully fastened in that there is no possibility of pushing them out. When screens are not in use, the windows should either be lowered from the top or thin wooden slats should be fastened across the lower sash. Similar precautions must be used if the baby is put to sleep on the fire escape.

Care should always be taken to turn the baby's eyes away from the direct sunlight, and this is just as important while he is asleep as while awake. Do not allow him to lie staring up into the sky, even when the sun is not shining.

Great care should be taken to protect the baby from flies and mosquitoes. If the house is not provided with screens, the bed, crib, or carriage should be covered with netting suspended over a pole or clothesline in the form of a tent, so as not to shut off the air. Never lay a netting in contact with the baby's face.

Padlock Proceedings Started.

Padlock proceedings were instituted in the District Supreme Court yesterday against the janitor's apartment in the basement of 1651 Lamont street, where Edward Moore is charged with selling liquor and beer. The petition was filed by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover and his assistant, Harold W. Orcutt. Charles E. Tribby was named as owner of the building in which the apartment is located.

SUMMER SCHOOL

What is the difference between $10-$12 and $20-$40 a week? The difference of $10-$28 week is the difference between an ordinary business course and a real SECRETARIAL COURSE. Boyd gives you the ESSENTIALS, the training and knowledge you MUST HAVE to WIN. NOT anything just to prolong your school attendance. Boyd's tuition rates are reasonable, cheaper tuition is expensive. Better training means a better position. Don't CHEAT yourself out of a GOOD position. Life is a long road—take it seriously—BUILD for PERMANENT SUCCESS. Your inquiry is welcomed. Start today.

CLUB CELEBRATES ITS 50TH BIRTHDAY

100 Members of Alexandria Boat Society Observe Founders' Day.

N. P. PROCTOR DEAD AT 35

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The "Founders' Day" celebration of the Old Dominion Boat Club, marking the 50th anniversary of its organization, was attended by more than 100 members and guests of the club, assembled at a banquet in the clubhouse of the organization at the foot of King street. Before the banquet the officers of the club held an inormal reception.

Of the six surviving charter members of the club, none was able to attend, although interesting letters of regret from three of them were read by Secretary J. T. Preston. The oldest member present, who joined in 1882, two years after the organization of the club, was Harry R. Burke, and his account of the early days of the club was enjoyed by the members, city officials, and others gathered at the celebration.

E. E. Carver, president, opened the program with an address of welcome and expressions of regret that none of the charter members could be present. Harry F. Kennedy, general chairman of the golden jubilee celebration, acted as toastmaster, and J. T. Preston, for the last 15 years secretary of the club, read a history of the club, beginning with its organization, some time between July 1 and July 15, 1880, when 27 young men of Alexandria acquired the property on the river front near the foot of Duke street, which was later burned, and the present quarters purchased from the old Alexandria and Washington Ferry Co. The club now has an active list of 100 and non-active list of 40 members, and its financial condition is better than at any time since its organization.

Absent Members Send Letters.

The letters of regret from the charter members were from Alonzo Houck, of Alexandria; George Y. Worthington, of Washington, who were unable to attend on account of infirmities due to advanced age, and John H. Parrott, of Roanoke, who regretted that distance prevented his joining in the celebration. Mr. Parrott said he could distinctly remember the night he and the other charter members gathered in the office of George A. Mushbach and made plans for founding the club.

On behalf of Edward H. Kemper, of Rosemont, who also joined the club a few years after its organization, Mr. Kennedy presented President Carver with a gold watch charm, which was given to Mr. Kemper by the club in 1885 for having sold the largest number of tickets for an excursion to Marshall Hall given by the club. Through Mr. Kennedy, Mr. Kemper expressed his regret at not being able to attend owing to a recent attack of illness, but said he wished the organization to have the pin, which showed the effects of long wear. Mr. Carver accepted the pin on behalf of the club and said it would be preserved among the other relics.

Member Since 1882.

Mr. Burke then was introduced and said that, with three brothers, he joined the club in 1882 and has been a member ever since. Two of his brothers have died and the other lives away from Alexandria.

Others who spoke were Jack Tulloch, Vice Mayor Edmund F. Ticer, who extended the congratulations of the city, and spoke of the improvement of the waterfront in the vicinity of the club's property; Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the chamber of commerce; Walter H. Thrall, coach of the boat crews; Magnus W. Bales, who will have charge of arrangements for the forthcoming Middle States Regatta; Arthur M. King, the oldest motor boat member of the club; J. Earle Ross, chairman of the Founders' Day committee; C. C. Carlin, jr., J. William May, C. Philip Heishley, C. Page Waller, Maj. S. G. Brown, Chester W. Fannon, Robert G. Whitton, Howard M. Baggett, Charles W. King and E. E. Lawler, jr. Carl J. Mueller was asked to stand and be identified as one who has been a member of the club for 25 years.

Before concluding the program, Secretary Preston called attention to an old picture on the wall which showed the champion gig crew of 1887, which swept the Potomac. In this picture are shown Harry R. Burke, James E. Blackwell, Judge J. K. M. Norton, Frank Lambert and Willis Smith, coxswain. A handsome trophy is shown in the picture, but this, it was stated, has been lost.

Richard Wilson, Negro, of Fort Humphreys, reported to police headquarters that at a late hour Tuesday night he hired an automobile in Washington, driven by a Negro, with another Negro in it, to bring him to Alexandria to catch the Fort Humphreys bus, and the men took him to a point west of Alexandria and after beating him, stole $40 from him and left him on the road side. S. D. Creed, of Howardsville, near where he was left, brought him to Alexandria police headquarters to report the matter and then conveyed him to the Alexandria Hospital, where he was treated for cuts and bruises.

Dr. Bullame Cetewayo, son of a Zulu king, who is a doctor of divinity and also a doctor of philosophy, addressed the prayer meeting of the Second Presbyterian Church last night, and tonight will speak at the Negro Presbyterian Church. On Sunday, at 7 p. m., he will address the Baptist Young People's Union, and at 8 o'clock that evening speak at Roberts Chapel, Negro.

Dr. H. E. Cross and Judge William S. Snow will attend the district Rotary assembly in Winchester today and tomorrow, as delegates from the local Rotary club. Other members of the Alexandria club who will attend are Lawrence E. Roland, J. W. Howard, R. L. May and T. R. Harrell.

Nelson Thompson Proctor, 35 years old, died yesterday in Emergency Hospital, Washington. He had been in failing health for a long time, but his condition recently became critical and he was taken to the hospital for treatment, but failed to rally.

For many years Mr. Proctor had been employed as a clerk at the Potomac Freight Yards. He was a son of the late John L. Proctor and Mrs. Emily C. Proctor, and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Luella Proctor, one daughter, Miss Marion Adelaide Proctor; two sisters, Miss Ruth Epsey Proctor and Mrs. W. Perry Woolridge; and two brothers, John G. and George R. Proctor.

The body was taken yesterday to Cunningham's Funeral Home. The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Tricounty Camp For Boys of 4-H

Boys of Maryland Clubs to Hold First Gathering of Its Kind.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., July 16.—The tricounty 4-H Club Camp for boys of Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties will be held on Deep Creek Lake between Oakland and Accident, July 23, 24 and 25. This is the first attempt to hold a camp of this kind, which promises to be the beginning of an annual club encampment.

The camp will be under the direction of E. G. Jenkins, State boys' leader; Mylo S. Downey, assistant county agent of Allegany County; M. D. Moore, county agent of Washington County, and J. H. Carter county agent of Garrett County.

The program will include camp craft, council fires, swimming, class work, recreation and rest.

ATTENDANCE RECORD SEEN FOR SCHOOLS

Prince Georges Educational Facilities Used by 21 Per Cent of People.

REPORT BEING PREPARED

With a population of 60,092 and a school attendance of 12,942, Prince Georges County is believed to have the largest percentage of population in school of any Maryland county and ranks high in the percentage of the whole country, according to County Superintendet of Schools Nicholas Orem.

The school population is 21.5 per cent of the entire population of the county and Supt. Orem believes that this is probably one of the highest percentages of the country. The school population ten years ago represented less than 20 per cent of the total population.

Prince Georges County school children in the past school year aggregated 1,875,686 days attendance at school, which is an increase of 83,971 days over the preceding year, according to the annual report of Miss Kathleen Shears, county attendance officer.

The school population was divided as follows: 7,779 elementary white, 2,792 elementary colored, 1,680 white high school, and 214 colored high school pupils. These figures do not include duplicate registrations, or children who have transferred from one school to another, but represent the actual number of children attending school.

The average attendance of the children for the year is as follows: Elementary white, 92.2 per cent; white high schools, 94.5 per cent; colored elementary, 85 per cent; colored high schools, 94.4 per cent, all of which show an increase over the percentage for the preceding year when Prince Georges County stood first in the State for attendance averages.

Seat Pleasant, two-teacher school, led the white county school system in attendance for the year, having a record of 96 per cent. Francis Smith is principal. Hickory Grove, one-teacher school, Miss Maria Queen, teacher, was second with 96 per cent. Baden High School led that division with a percentage of 95.7. W. R. C. Connick is principal. The Maryland Park Elementary School led the graded schools of the county with a percentage of 95.1. William D. Himes is principal.

The Glenn Dale Colored School led the entire county school system in attendance with an average of 97 per cent. Mary E. Wallace is principal.

The county board of education is now engaged in preparing its annual report, and this work probably will require most of the summer, as the work is sandwiched in between planning for the next school year's needs.

Mrs. Eugene Wellbourne, colored, of Bladensburg, yesterday attempted suicide by swallowing poison. She was treated by Dr. Leonard Haynes, of Hyattsville, after being given first aid by the Prince Georges County Rescue Squad.

The annual field day was held yesterday at the Maryland House of Reformation near Brandywine. Approximately 250 persons attended the event.

A company drill was held in the morning, followed by an inspection and a band concert by the band of the institution. After dinner athletic events and a ball game provided the entertainment for the afternoon. The school team defeated the Brandywine Team by a score of 10 to 9.

The guests were welcomed by John B. Pyles, superintendent; H. S. Carroll, assistant superintendent, and W. H. Janney, of Baltimore, secretary and general manager. Among the guests were the members of the board of directors of the institution. Sheriff Charles S. Early and members of the Prince Georges County police also were honor guests.

Charles Watkins, colored, 20 years old, of near Muirkirk, was drowned yesterday while swimming in the old furnace holes at Contee, near Muirkirk. Dr. B. P. Warren, of Laurel, issued a certificate of accidental death by drowning, which was concurred in by Justice of the Peace Henry M. Scott, of Laurel, who acted as coroner.

The youth with two companions was swimming in the water hole, which is about 12 or 15 feet deep, when he was seen to throw up his hands and sink beneath the surface. The companions ran to Walter Addison, of Bowie, who was in charge of a road gang nearby, and enlisted his aid. After some fishing, the road man recovered the body and administered artificial respiration, but after an hour's work the youth was pronounced dead by the doctor. The body was taken to the undertaking establishment of Lloyd Kaiser at Laurel.

Under the leadership of James E. Diggs, vocational agricultural teacher at Upper Marlboro, and James F. Armstrong, local agent for Prince Georges County, a large group of colored 4-H Club members have gone to Princess Anne, Md., where they will be in camp all of this week. They arrived at camp Monday and are undergoing a program of progressive athletic training and general good times.

Representative Garber Will Be Renominated

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., July 16.—Representative J. A. Garber, one of three Republicans elected to Congress in the Hoover landslide of 1928, will be renominated by acclamation by the Seventh District Republican convention to be held at Front Royal tomorrow at 1 o'clock.

Mr. Garber will be opposed by Judge John W. Fishburne, of Albemarle County, the Democratic nominee in the general election in November. Republican leaders have asked all delegates elected to the Front Royal convention to attend and give Representative Garber a big reception. Mr. Garber is a delegate to the convention having been named a member of the Rockingham delegation.

Virginia Negro School Will Build Dining Hall

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., July 16.—A new dining hall, plans for which have just been approved by the State Board of Education, is to be constructed at the Virginia State Normal and Industrial Institute in Ettrick, a Negro institution, Chesterfield County, just across the Appomattox River from Petersburg. The new structure is to cost $115,000 and will accommodate 1,000.

Work on the new building is to be started at once and will be pushed as rapidly as possible and is expected to be completed and ready for use when the summer school session opens next year. The new dining hall will be a two-story brick structure.

ROOMS TO BE ADDED AT WASHINGTON-LEE

Arlington's School Board Awards Contract for $132,000 Job.

WORK IS TO BE RUSHED

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The Arlington County School Board at a special meeting held in the office of Fletcher Kemp, county superintendent, yesterday awarded the contract for the alterations and additions to the Washington-Lee High School to J. H. Coleman, of Lynchburg, Va. The accepted bid was $132,400.

The plans and specifications, which were prepared by Raymond V. Long, State architect, provide for the addition of 32 classrooms. The time stated for the completion of the contract is January 15.

According to representatives of the successful bidder, both local labor and material will be used in carrying out the contract as far as it is possible to do so.

According to Supt. Kemp, no time will be lost in completing the draft of the contract, which will be drawn by Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth, in order that work can be started immediately.

Circuit Judge Walter T. McCarthy yesterday announced the appointment of A. F. Thelander, from Washington District; Harry Levi, from Jefferson District, and Emery N. Hosmer, from Arlington District, as members of the board of equalization.

According to the acts of the General Assembly, the board will have the power to lower or raise land assessments, thereby equalizing assessments of the county. The board will hold meetings from time to time at the courthouse and if it so wishes may request the county commissioner of revenue to attend. Compensation is to be fixed by the county board of supervisors.

The Arlington County Zoning Appeal Board will meet tonight at the courthouse at 8 o'clock for the purpose of acting on any applications for the erection of new buildings in accordance with the zoning ordinance.

The newly elected officers of Arlington Encampment will be installed at its meeting to be held in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarnedon tomorrow night.

Those to be installed are Wallace Johnson, chief patriarch; W. W. Willis, senior warden; E. W. Newman, high priest; William Clever, junior warden; Walter Huffman, scribe, and Thomas S. O'Halloran, treasurer.

Tomorrow night "The Ball for Congress Club," recently organized in the Arlington Precinct, will meet at the home of Thomas J. DeLashmutt for the purpose of perfecting its plans to get out the vote on the day of the primary, Tuesday, August 5.

While the Arlington club is meeting, Thomas J. Crack, chairman of the Ballston Precinct club, will hold a special meeting in the auditorium of the Ballston Firemen's Hall at 8 o'clock to further its plans for carrying on the work within the precinct in the interest of State Senator Ball.

The executive committee of the Arlington County Civic Federation will meet tonight at the home of Mrs. Claude S. Semones at Aurora Hills at 8 o'clock. Chairman Harry A. Fellows will preside.

Large crowds continue to visit the annual carnival being given by the Cherrydale Volunteer Fire Department.

The department is being ably assisted by the ladies' auxiliary, headed by the president, Mrs. Masie Sha, who have charge of the cake, candy and hot dog stands.

An amended petition to the original filed with the judge of the Circuit Court of Arlington June 19, asking judicial investigation into the activities of Supervisor B. M. Hedrick, in connection with the instalation of water and sewers in the Wayeroft Subdivision, owned by the Arlington Investment Corporation, of which he is a stockholder, was filed in the office of the clerk of the court yesterday.

The petition is signed by the president of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County, Ruby G. Simpson; Mary G. Williams, corresponding secretary; Bertha S. Kelley, chairman of the executive committee; Alice W. Semones, member of the executive committee; Ada H. Davidson, of the executive committee; Jessie W. Hunt, of the civic committee, and Florence C. Cannon, parliamentarian.

A hearing will be held on the amended petition before Circuit Judge Alexander Browning, of Orange, Tuesday, July 22, in the Arlington County Circuit Court, at 10 o'clock.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA lolled languidly on the sofa.

The old Westminster chimes struck twelve—high noon.

"Time for lunch," I remaked, hoping to stir her out of her lethargy.

"Oh, dear," drawled Luella. "I don't believe we'll have any lunch today—"

"No lunch——?"

"Not today," she said, with an air of finality, her arms drooped by her side. Immediately I went over to investigate.

"Whassamattah with you! Sick or something?"

* * * * *

A WAN smile crossed Luella's mouth—that pretty little mouth of hers, red lips luscious as ripe cherries. Certainly, she seemed in the prime of health.

"It's time we went on our vacation," she said. "I'm all worn out—with the house work. Luncheons, dinners, breakfasts, the same old rigamarole, day in, day out——"

So that was it.

"You gotta eat," I warned.

She looked at me, a knowing twinkle in her eyes. "Can't we eat on vacation?"

"It all depends where we go. Some of these highbinders, these hotsy-totsy hotels——"

Immediately she sprang up from the sofa "I know a place," she said, "where we can have the most glorious time, and——"

"And—and what?"

"And it won't cost much!"

THAT, of course, is a consideration. Our present financial status is about on par with a bankrupt.

"Where is this place?" I asked, quietly, fearing it might not be in this country.

She went over to the magazine rack, started fumbling through pages and finally displayed the ad of a mountain resort

"Up in the mountains, eh?"

"The Rockies——"

It struck me that things might be rather high in the mountains and I told her so.

"Whatd'ye mean, high in the mountains?" she asked.

"Just what I say. Now, down on the seashore——"

* * * * *

SHE gave me a lesson in economics: "It's a universal law of travel that the higher you go the lower things are, and vice versa——"

"Vice versa Where do you get that stuff?"

"It's a Latin phrase," she explained, "which means that wickedness, or vice, abounds in low places. In other words, profiteering at the seashore."

"Yeah."

"That's right," said Luella, proud of her translation.

So I went downtown and purchased two tickets for Pike's Peak, while Luella got out the bags. With us it's Pike's Peak or bust—if we don't go bust before we get there.

CARRIERS OF TYPHUS SOUGHT BY DOCTORS

Virginia Health Officer Is Invited to Take Part in Maryland Session.

WOOD TICKS SUSPECTED

Richmond, Va., July 16 (A.P.).—Dr. H. G. Grant, State epidemiologist, will represent the Virginia Department of Health at a meeting in Baltimore tomorrow which will mark the beginning of an organized hunt for the cause of typhus fever in Virginia and Maryland.

Dr. Grant was requested by Dr. Ennion G. Williams, State health commissioner, to attend the meeting, which is the quarterly gathering of Maryland State and county health authorities. Dr. Williams did not expect to be able to accept an invitation extended to both health workers.

Three Deaths in Maryland.

Along the Atlantic seaboard a mild outbreak of the Old World scourge has bobobed up here and there this year without, however, reaching the stage of an epidemic. In Virginia, for the first six months of 1930 the number of cases reache 15, resulting in four deaths. Three have died in Maryland out of a total of 17 cases.

During the last three years there has been an increase in the number of cases and also deaths from typhus in Virginia, rising from 13 cases and three deaths in 1928 to 21 cases and seven deaths in 1929. This year the rate for the first six months has continued in the direction of an increase.

In epidemics, lice have been shown to be definitely responsible for transmission of the diseease, but since the cases in this State have been widely scattered Dr. Grant said health authorities are at a loss to know by what means typhus has been carried. The answer to this question is to be the object of the Baltimore confrence.

Ticks and Rodents Suspected.

Suspicion has been thrown on wood ticks and rodents, and this idea is the basis of an investigation which the United States Public Health Service plans with the aid of rodents trapped in Arlington Conuty.

So far this year, one case of typhus has occurred in Portsmouth and one each in Culpeper, Arlington, Lunenburg, Goochland, Prince William and James City counties. There have been two each in Fauquier, Albemarle, Fairfax and Henrico counties, Dr. Grant said. A majority of the cases occur each year in June and July, and most of them are severe.

Dr. R. E. Dyer, of the United States Public Health Service, is to address the conference, and others expected are Dr. A. C. Jost, executive secretary of the Delaware State Board of Health, and Dr. J. Moore Campbell, director of the Pennsylvania Department of Health's bureau of communicable diseases.

B. & O. Furlough Ends.

Cumberland, Md., July 16 (Special). More than 850 men employed in local shops of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, who were furloughed July 1, will return to work next Monday. About 550 of the men to return are employed in the track shop and 300 in the car shops. The roundhouse force, working five days a week, was not affected by the lay off.

PRESS ASSOCIATION TO CONVENE TODAY

Virginia Editors Will Meet at Beach for Program to Last Two Days.

TALKS ARE SCHEDULED

Virginia Beach, Va., July 16 (A.P.). Tomorrow morning the Virginia Press Association will open its forty-second annual convention here for a two-day program, followed by a "Know Virginia" tour of historical points in the State.

The convention will be called to order at 10 o'clock by H. B. Trundle, Danville, president. Mayor Charles Bareo, of Virginia Beach, will join George Ehrhart, managing editor of the Virginia Beach News, in extending a welcome, which will be responded to by Col. Richard F. Beirne, publisher of the Virginian, Covington.

Following the address of the president, committees on membership, memorials, finances and resolutions will be appointed. C. Victor Werne, general counsel of the Virginia Better Trade Association, Richmond, will deliver an address on fraudulent advertising, and the secretary and treasurer will submit reports. The luncheon recess will follow immediately consideration of an amendment to the constitution of the association.

Perkins Will Speak.

An address by Henry D. Perkins, managing editor of the Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch, will open the Thursday afternoon session. Two State officials are then to speak, Attorney General John R. Saunders on "Some Phases of the State Publication and Libel Laws," and T. McCall Frazier, director of the Division of Motor Vehicles, on the work of his department.

The delegates will next hear a report on the William Parke Memorial, followed by an address, "Lee's Vision Realized," by William L. Mapel, director of the School of Journalism of Washington and Lee University. After adjournment a trip arranged by the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot will be taken.

The first address on the Friday morning program is to be delivered by Winder R. Harris, managing editor of the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot. He is to be followed by J. B. Wall, publisher of the Farmville Herald, speaking on how to convert publicity matter into paid advertising.

Advertising Man Included.

Clarence Ford, jr., president of the Richmond Advertising Club, will speak on "The Banks and the Newspaper."

"Piedmont Weeklies and Their News Content" is to be the subject of Rufus G. Roberts, of the Virginia Star, Culpeper. William G. Stevenson, editor of the Blackstone Courier, will tell of chasing a "Who's Who" man. The delegates will be welcomed to the Eastern Shore in an address by A. A. Richards, secretary of the Eastern Shore Chamber of Commerce.

Officers are to be selected, after which the party will go to Cape Charles by steamer, spending the night there, and making the "Know Virginia" tour Saturday.

Anna L. Poole, 74, Dies.

Cumberland, Md., July 16 (Special). Mrs. Anna L. Poole, 74, widow of Dr. D. V. Poole, died yesterday at Hyndman, 14 miles northwest of Cumberland. Her husband was a well-known physician of Bedford and Somerset Counties, Pa. She is survived by one son, John B. Poole, of Hyndman.

FAIRFAX FISHERMEN STRIKE LEGAL SNAG

County Courts Must Decide Tidal Point, Attorney General Declares.

ANNUAL FETE POPULAR

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2

The fishermen of northern Virginia are in doubt as to whether it is lawful to fish in the Potomac River below Washington without procuring a license. Section 8 of the new game, fish and dog code passed by the last Virginia Legislature, which became effective July 1, 1930, defines inland waters to include "all waters above tidewater and the brackish and fresh water streams, creeks, bays (including Back Bay), inlets and ponds in tidewater counties." The State code includes Fairfax County in its designation of tidewater counties.

During the earlier part of June this year L. W. Tyus, fiscal secretary of the State committee of game and inland fisheries, wrote to Attorney General John R. Saunders of Virginia in regard to licenses to fish in the State and specifically asked his opinion about section 8. In his letter to the attorney general, Mr. Tyus stated: "The committee construed this section to mean that a license to fish does not apply to salt water areas of Tidewater Virginia, but we think that the license requirement does apply to brackish and fresh water streams, &c., in tidewater counties, whether the tide ebbs and flows at a given point or not." The attorney general concurred in this construction of the law and rendered his opinion to that effect.

This ruling was not given much publicity at the time and when the fishing season opened this year the county clerks referred fishermen to the code of 1928 which did not require a license to fish in the Potomac River below Washington. Last week several persons were arrested in Fairfax County near Gunston Cove by a State game warden, charged with fishing without a license. They were convicted before the justice of the peace. All noted appeals. Two of them were Washington residents. Deputy County Clerk Elton R. Holbrook, of Fairfax County, then wrote the attorney general asking him where salt water ended on the Potomac River. He received this statement from the office of the attorney general: "This office can not define the point at which salt water ends. This is a question of fact to be determined by the water itself and one for judicial determination which will perhaps have to be passed upon by the several courts for the waters in the State."

As the persons arrested were caught in Fairfax County, the matter will have to be determined by the Fairfax County Circuit Court, which does not meet again until the middle of September, which will be too late for this year's fishing. Deputy Clerk Holbrook is now advising all persons who wish to fish in the Potomac that, to be on the safe side, it would be best for them to obtain licenses.

The seventh annual carnival of the Falls Church Volunteer Fire Department, now in progress on the lot next to the town hall, has been attracting large crowds each evening. Many new attractions have been added this year, but dancing each evening from 9 to 12 is still the chief attraction. A band concert is given from 7 to 9 o'clock by the Falls Church Firemen's Band. A Saturday feature for housewives will be the awarding of a gold prize to the woman having the best home-cooked cake.

Thomas R. Keith, E. M. Palmer and J. W. Gaines, directors of the Fairfax County Fair Association, have been appointed by the board to investigate the advisability of having a State road pass through the fair grounds at Fairfax. This committee was empowered to convey a right-of-way to the State for the road, if they decide it is advisable. The deed would be subject to the approval of stockholders of the association if the State highway commission decides to build the road.

A proposal has been pending before the State road commision for several years for construction of a cut-off for the Lee highway from the Wilcox Farm to the junction of the Little River turnpike; and the Lee highway, 1 mile west of Fairfax Courthouse. If this road were built it would eliminate a dangerous traffic condition which now exists in the Town of Fairfax, it is believed.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union of Herndon will present a special program tomorrow in the Congregational Church at Herndon. Mrs. Harry B. Mitchell will give a brief sketch of the life of Mrs. Mary E. Hunt.

The Epworth League of the Southern Methodist Church at Annandale will give a lawn party tomorrow evening on the Annandale School grounds. An entertainment has been planned for the evening.

The Arlington-Fairfax Firemen's Relief Association, which met in Robey Hall in Fairfax, has elected E. B. Chapman, of the Cherrydale Volunteer Fire Department, as treasurer of the relief fund, to fill the unexpired term of the late C. C. Donaldson. Mr. Chapman has served as the financial secretary of the Cherrydale department for many years.

Robert E. Janson eulogized the life of C. C. Donaldson, who served for many years as treasurer. He stressed Donaldson's interest and zeal in organizing the relief fund for volunteer firemen of the two counties.

The attendance banner for the past year was awarded to the Arlington Volunteer Fire Department by President Walter U. Varney. Julian Tapp, president of the Arlington company, accepted the banner for his department. A brief outline of plans for the firemen's convention and carnival, which will be given by the association from August 11 to 16, inclusive, was given by the new general chairman, John R. Mosburg. He urged that all the departments in the association cooperate in making the event a success. The August meeting of the association will be held in Herndon.

The Andrew Chapel School and Community League has invited the candidates for Congress from the Eighth Congressional District to speak at a public meeting in the Andrew Chapel schoolhouse this evening. Four of the five candidates for the Democratic nomination have accepted. Dr. F. M. Brooks, the Republican candidate, also has been asked to address the meeting.

W. T. Parrott has been elected to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Charles Boyd as a member of the Falls Church town council. In submitting his resignation to the council, Boyd stated that he did not expect to be in town much during the coming year. His term of office will expire September 21, 1931.

Mrs. Harry M. Keyser was appointed by the council as a member of the town school board to succeed Mrs. Jacob O. Beltz, whose term of office has expired. Samuel H. Styles, clerk of the school board, presented the school budget for the coming year requesting an apropriation of $3,500 from the council, the same amount as was received last year. The school board was requested to provide hereafter for the observance of Memorial Day as a school holiday.

On invitation of the State highway commission the council agreed to turn over the maintenance of Lee highway by the State forces through the town for an indefinite period.

McConnellsburg To Unveil Tablet

Rites on July 31 to Be in Memory of Confederates' Civil War Dash.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hancock, Md., July 16.—Under the auspices of the Fulton County Historical Society, McConnellsburg and vicinity, 20 miles north of Hancock, will unveil an historical tablet, July 31.

The last campfire of the Confederate Army to be made in Fulton County was lighted where the lane leaves the State highway into the Patterson farm, south of McConnellsburg. A marker of native stone from the Patterson quarry, upon which will be fastened a bronze plate furnished by the State Historical Society, will be placed on the spot. There will be a number of visiting speakers.

The dash by the Confederates into McConnellsburg was made by way of Hancock, where the Potomac River was crossed

FORT MYER FORCES PLAN TWO REVIEWS

Regular and C. M. T. C. Troops to Mark Week-End by Special Events.

CAPT. ROY IS WOUNDED

Two reviews of the troops at Fort Myer, both regular and C. M. T. C., will mark the week-end at the Virginia post. Friday afternoon a review will be held in honor of Laurence W. H. Peyton, civilian aid for C. M. T. C. camps to the Secretary of War from Virginia.

Mr. Peyton, who lives in Staunton, is a graduate of the Virginia Military Institute, and a veteran of the Spanish-American War. The Friday ceremony will be held at 5 o'clock.

At 9 o'clock on Saturday Maj. Gen. Guy V. Henry will review the troops at the camp. Many events are planned for next week also, among them a review of the soldiery by Secretary of State Stimson in Washington as they march through on their way to Camp Simms.

With a tremendous, though playful push, the "Blue" Army, now indulging in war games, has shoved back the opposing "Red" forces and have checked an offensive which threatened Washington and the industrial district around Pittsburgh.

One cause of the "Blue" success was a difficult maneuver performed by the Ninety-ninth and Seventy-ninth divisions. While the Seventy-ninth was holding a position, the Ninety-ninth pushed through it, taking up an advanced station. By virtue of the fresh troops, the "Blues" forced the "Reds" back on the Chesapeake Bay. Annapolis, "Red" base, was bombed by the "Blue" force, while gas was used on other positions.

At Rockville, Md., the Second Mechanized force is concentrated. It comprises a light tank battalion, an armored car company, and motorized Infantry, signal, engineer, and supply units.

Reports to Washington from Fort George G. Meade say that Capt. William T. Roy, clerk to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, accidentally shot himself in the foot while unloading a pistol.

The wound was said to be not serious. Capt. Roy lives at 3121 Sixteenth street northwest.

Raw Corn Food Of Hunted Men

Father and Son, Captured, Accused of Wholesale Chicken Thefts.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., July 16.—After hiding in the mountains two months and subsisting on hard corn and vegetables, Jake Puffinberger and his son, Ward, had their first square meal today, in the Winchester Jail, since they quit their home in fear of capture by officers on charges of wholesale chicken stealing.

They were caught late yesterday in the vicinity of Hancock, Md., by a State policeman, who turned them over to the sheriff of Morgan County, W. Va., who held the prisoners for Sheriff Pannett and a Frederick County, Va., posse. The elder Puffinberger had four ears of hard corn in his pockets when apprehended. He declared he and his son had been subsisting on the corn and what few vegetables they could find, as well as ripening berries.

A score or more of Berkeley County, W. Va., farmers have had all their chickens stolen in the last several months, and they declared the operations were traced to the father and son, who have been identified by dealers as the men from whom large quantities of chickens had been purchased. Young Puffinberger is also to be tried on a charge of housebreaking.

Gun Thought Unloaded Kills Boy, 10, at Play

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 16.—A shotgun they supposed unloaded was discharged while boys were playing Indian this afternoon at Mount Clare and Woodrow Edwards, 10, son of Zandy Edwards, was fatally wounded, dying shortly afterward in a Clarksburg hospital.

The gun was held by Clifford Fox, 12, a companion. Officers are investigating the tragedy.

COUNTY COURTHOUSE BIDS ARE RECEIVED

BANKS REPORT DEPOSITS

Bids on Montgomery County's proposed new courthouse were opened yesterday at Rockville in the presence of the county commissioners, members of the general courthouse building committee and counsel to the county commissioners. No awards were made, the committee wishing to investigate the bidders before definitely accepting any of the bids.

The J. J. McDevitt Co. of Charlotte, N. C., was low bidder, its bid being $384,400. The next three lowest bids were the W. P. Rose Co., Goldsboro, N. C., $389,900; North Eastern Construction Co., of Baltimore, $395,400; Consolidated Engineering Co., of Baltimore, $397,000. The highest bid was made by the Maitico Construction Co., of Washington, with a bid of $436,000.

All of the companies apparently expected sharp bidding on the contract and the bids were unusually low. Alternate bids had been asked in case the bids were too high for the cost of the courthouse which had been allowed by the Legislature, $450,000, but at a meeting of the general courthouse building committee held immediately after the bids were opened it was decided to go ahead with the original plans as sketched by the architects, Smith & Edwards, of Washington.

The bids were opened in the circuit courtroom in the Rockville courthouse, the hearing room of the county commissioners having been found too small for the large gathering of officials and interested citizens who appeared for the opening.

The sealed bids were opened by Berry E. Clark, clerk of the county commissioners, and then handed to Delos H. Smith, the architect, who read the amounts and the name of the company.

The bids will be studied by the architects and then by the special subcommittee of the general committee before a recommendation is made. It is expected that the award will be made within ten days.

The county commissioners reserved the right to reject any and all bids in case they found the contractor not in accordance with standards they have set for the successful bidder.

Stedman Prescott, Rockville attorney, has filed his certificate of candidacy for the office of State's attorney of Montgomery County. He has been indorsed by the organization Democrats of the county. John E. Oxley, also a Rockville attorney, is the anti-organization candidate for the office.

It is understood that F. Barnard Welsh, Rockville attorney and president of the Rockville Volunteer Fire Department, will be a candidate for the office on the Republican ticket. It is considered probable that he will be chosen the Republican standard bearer August 1 when the Republican party of the county holds its convention at Kensington. State's Attorney Robert B. Peter, jr., is barred from succeeding himself by State law.

Montgomery County banking institutions had total deposits of $13,574,023.65 at the close of business June 30, according to the reports of the financial conditions of the various banks. These figures include the Chevy
